SENATE SEEKS TO SIDETRACK PARKER VOTE

Administration Leaders Desire Delay Until After Election.

OVERMAN MOTION DEFERS ANY ACTION

Even Supporters of Judge Appear in No Mood to Press Matter.

DEMOCRATS ENJOY G. O. P. PREDICAMENT

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

There were growing indications yesterday that the Senate consideration of Judge John J. Parker, recently appointed to the Supreme Court, will be indefinitely postponed.

As the matter stands the Senate Judiciary committee is still holding the appointment on motion of a Parker supporter, Senator Overman of North Carolina, that committee action be deferred until next Monday. There is considerable doubt as to whether any definite action will be taken then.

And it will probably be the administration senators who will seek the delay. The indications are that the opposition, especially that of the Democrats, will be ready by Monday for the question to come to the Senate floor. Those administration senators, who come up for reelection this November, however, are frankly hopeful that the matter will remain in committee until the situation clears. If forced to vote in the immediate future they will vote against him.

Friends Not Insistent.

Furthermore, those who are here working for the judge's confirmation from his native State seem in no mood to press for a vote. Instead they have started out to try to offset the attack of organized labor and the Association for the Advancement of the Colored Race.

Evidence of the nature of their efforts was given yesterday when Senator Blease, of South Carolina, put in the record a telegram he had received from his brother, a member of the South Carolina Supreme Court, saying the court was being importuned to indorse Judge Parker and wanting to know what position Senator Blease planned to take.

Senator Blease wired back that Judge Parker was the "South's hope" and that he intended to vote for him.

Caraway Charge Influential.

The argument that the Parker workers are making among Southern senators, incidentally, is that if he is turned down there will be no chance for any Southerner in his place. In spite of this it is believed that the great majority of the Southern senators now plan to vote against confirmation. An influence that is carrying as much weight with them as anything else is Senator Caraway's charge that the appointment of Judge Parker was political, made with a view to holding North Carolina in the Republican column at least in payment for its Republican vote in 1928.

Judge Parker's nomination has placed the Senate in the weirdest political picture that it has presented for some time.

There is Senator Robsion, of Kentucky, for example, who until Mr. Hoover's presidential candidacy afforded him an opportunity in 1928, bade fair to get no further in the world than the representative of a sparsely settled Kentucky district. But by being among the first to espouse Mr. Hoover's candidacy, he was recently appointed to the Senate. He comes up for election in November with the odds already against him.

Caught Between Two Fires.

There is a heavy colored voting population in his State, and also a Ku Klux Klan. He has been caught between two fires and about the only thing that will save him will be for the nomination to remain in committee. Senators McCullough, of Ohio, and Goff, of West Virginia, are also worried because of the bombardment of the Negro association. These are all administration senators. Another one, Senator Robinson, of Indiana, is understood to be at present in the mood to vote against confirmation.

The fight of organized labor has also broken into the administration ranks through such senators as McNary, of Oregon.

The only ones, indeed, who seem to be enjoying the situation are those Democrats and Progressives who at the outset began to scrutinize Judge Parker's labor record and who after scrutinizing it decided against him.

They are in the enviable position, at least in so far as appearances go, of basing their opposition on the

Hughes' Hague Court Post Goes to Boyden

Massachusetts Man Is to Serve on Tribunal of Arbitration.

ROLAND W. BOYDEN.

(Associated Press.)

Roland W. Boyden, of Beverly, Mass., was designated yesterday by President Hoover as a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Chief Justice Hughes.

Mr. Boyden was an unofficial observer for the United States Reparations Commission at the time the Dawes plan was adopted.

Boston, April 15 (A.P.).—Roland W. Boyden, who today was designated by President Hoover as a member of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague, was best known as one of this city's leading lawyers before he became identified with the German reparations problem and its settlement, in which capacity he achieved international prominence.

Mr. Boyden is a Harvard graduate, '85, a leading stockholder in the First National Bank of Boston, and a director of many corporations. After his return to this country upon completion of his duties as unofficial observer for the United States with the reparations commission he was elected and subsequently reelected president of the Chamber of Commerce.

He is at present umpire of the mixed claims commission for claims rising out of the war, between German and American citizens. Recently Mr. Boyden, who is now in Washington, returned to this country after a three-month trip to Japan. In 1925 he was mentioned as a possible Ambassador to Japan. More recently his name was heard in connection with the Undersecretaryship of State.

Mr. Boyden is a widower. He maintains his home at Beverly, Mass., where he was born 67 years ago, but has spent much of his time in recent years in travel.

His first position with the Federal Government was with the food administration under Mr. Hoover. His work there was so impressive that he was appointed to the American delegation to the Paris peace

U.S. IN ACCORD WITH ENGLAND ON SAFEGUARD

Stimson and Alexander Agree on Clause in Brief Parley.

PROMISED RELEASE NOT FORTHCOMING

AMICABLE WORDING IS VEXING PROBLEM

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, April 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Agreement in principle on the nature of the safeguarding clause which Great Britain wants included in the three-power section of the treaty negotiated at the London naval conference was reached today at an hour's conversation between Secretary of State Stimson and First Lord ters. The newspapermen waited for was learned authoritatively tonight.

Much of the text was ready, it was hinted, but nothing would be given out until other parties to the treaty had seen the much-discussed clause.

That announcement was made this afternoon, and before the American chief delegates dined with the Japanese tonight, correspondents were warned that a statement was to be issued later from American headquarters. The newspaper men waited for hours and then were told that there was to be no statement.

It was assumed that agreement on the safeguarding claus ewas to have been announced after the Japanese had seen it, and that something happened to delay the expected communique.

Speculation on Clause Provision.

There is reason to think, as already reported, that the clause provides, not for consultation between the treaty signatories in case Great Britain believes that French and (or) Italian building threatens her, but merely that notice will then be given that Great Britain intends to exceed the Rapidan figures. The clause is drawn in such a way, of course, that it applies equally to all parties of the three-power treaty.

Latest discussions on the subject have dealt with the British admiralty's intention to increase their destroyer strength by 50,000 tons above the 150,000 tons alloted them in this category in the three-power treaty unless France fails to carry out her announced decision to build 100,000 tons of submarines. All this is embarrassing to the Americans because of the possible effect upon American opinion; but our delegates are hopeful that Great Britain will Must Have Known of One Another's Affairs, Is Official View.

A man, declared by Washington police to be wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of Mary Baker, was taken off a freight train last night at Aberdeen. According to the statement made by the local authorities, the suspect was taken off the train which he had boarded at Baltimore.

In an unexpected move shortly before midnight, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth announced that police again will question Olga Skinner and Mildred Sperry, the two roommates of the slain Mary Baker. The grilling, he said, probably will be held today.

Insistence by the father of Mary Baker yesterday that her two roommates be questioned further regarding the male acquaintances of the slain girl will be carried out by the police, who are searching for the man with the gray cap, believed to be the perpetrator of the murder that was disclosed Saturday with the finding of the Government clerk's body in a culvert near the Sheridan gate of the Arlington Cemetery.

After the body was lowered into the grave yesterday in Oak Grove, Va., home town of the girl, the Rev. Thomas F. Baker, her father, expressed the hope that light would be shed on the mystery by Miss Baker's two roommates, Miss Olga Skinner and Miss Mildred Sperry.

He expressed the wish that both would freely tell all they know regarding the case, and particularly inform police regarding the various men with whom his daughter had engagements during recent weeks or months and that nothing might be concealed which would tend to disclose any new lead leading to the identity of the assailant.

Offers Personal Services.

Dr. Baker explained that if the two roommates felt any reluctance in giving police information in the case or had in their possession data which might cause them even the slightest embarrassment if revealed, he would welcome a talk with both to obtain these facts to relay them to the authorities.

Police in the meanwhile sought to obtain further admissions from the two roommates, despite the contention of both that the three girls, although maintaining close friendship, abided by a solemn agreement that they would not question each other regarding personal affairs.

Further, the police have learned that the group has gone out together with men friends. The names of these men will be sought.

Fail to Return at Once.

At a late hour yesterday Miss Skinner and Miss Sperry had not returned to their Lyon Park home. After the services at Oak Grove they disappeared in the direction of Washington in an automobile. Other woman friends accompanied them.

Friends of Miss Skinner and Miss Sperry will also be interviewed in the hope that they can shed some light on the mutual acquaintances of the three girls.

At present police are looking for a heavy-set man who is numbered

LOBBY QUIZ INVITES CANNON TO TESTIFY

Bishop Agreeable to Offer to Answer Charges of "Offensive" Tactics.

VOLSTEAD FUNDS DENIED

An opportunity was extended yesterday to Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Southern Methodist Church, to appear before the Senate lobby committee in reply to charges by Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, that he had engaged in "offensive and coercive lobbying activities."

Replying to a letter from Cannon offering to appear to present any testimony desired concerning the activities of the Southern Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service, Chairman Caraway wrote the bishop that he would be heard at any time that was convenient.

Bishop Cannon, who is chairman of the Southern Methodist board, said in his letter to Senator Caraway that it would be convenient for him to appear between April 28 and May 2. Senator Caraway replied that the committee "will accommodate itself to your convenience."

Representative Tinkham, a militant wet, yesterday demanded that the committee summon Bishop Cannon and the records of the Southern Methodist board for an inquiry into their activities. He also charged the Antisaloon League with "flagrantly and audaciously" violating the Federal corrupt practices act by failure to report all of its expenditures for political activities.

Previously he had urged an investigation of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Northern Methodist Church and the Federal Council of Churches. His testimony was completed yesterday and Chairman Caraway announced that all the organizations against which charges had been made would be given an opportunity to reply.

The committee today will question Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, concerning its activities and the amount of money expended.

THREE OF BYRD MEN, IN U.S., PRAISE CHIEF

Declare They Have Enough of Antarctic, but Will Follow Him Again.

MANY PHOTOS BROUGHT

San Francisco, Calif., April 15 (A.P.). Three of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's followers into Antarctica came home today declaring that they had had enough of polar regions for a while, but insisting that they were willing to go again with him literally to the ends of the earth.

Capt. A. N. Parker, of Crystal Springs, Miss., who was with Admiral Byrd both in the Far North and Far South, commented that one would have to go far to find a better leader.

Capt. C. A. McKinley, of St. Louis, who not only flew over the South Pole with Admiral Byrd but took pictures of the vicinity, asserted that it was Admiral Byrd's cheery personality which kept up the morale of members of the expedition during their long months together.

O. A. Thorne, of Chicago, chief surveyor, was ready with his quota of praise for the fine character and steady leadership of the admiral.

Capt. McKinley brought back thousands of pictures, most of them taken from the air during the principal flights by the expedition for mapping purposes. Thorne brought the data from his surveys, which were made on the ground with the aid of dog teams. The two will return to New York and reduce surveys and camera films to a series of Antarctican maps which will tell the world's geographers more about the country of the South Pole than they ever have known.

Capt. Parker, former Marine Corps flier, smilingly commented that his work with the expedition was finished when the flying missions were completed. With Capt. McKinley and Thorne he will be in New York to greet Admiral Byrd on the latter's triumphant return.

The three men were peppered with Visitors Greeted by Group's President; Trip Is Made to Mount Vernon.

Five thousand members of the Thirty-ninth Continental Congress of the D. A. R. now in session in Washington were the guests in whose honor Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R. and her national board of management entertained at a reception in Constitution Hall last night.

The delegates and members put aside legislative cares and put on their best bibs and tuckers, so to speak, with the result that the brilliant scene presented at the height of the reception in the beautiful new building resembled an animated American fashion show.

The guests were a cross section of American womanhood. The fact that the average age of the D. A. R. delegate is being lowered year by year due to the passing of so many of the earlier members of the society, was evidenced in the presence of many young women as officers and delegates of the various State delegations. Veteran members of the organization were not lacking, however, and some of the patriotic pil-

MARY BAKER RITES VIEWED BY THRONG

Slain Girl Is Laid to Rest in Community Cemetery at Oak Grove.

FATHER TALKS TO PRESS

Mary Baker was laid to rest in the community cemetery at Oak Grove, Va., yesterday, shortly after noon.

Hundreds of friends of the Baker family and Miss Baker attended the funeral services, which were held in St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Oak Grove. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. James Morris, assistant rector of the Epiphany Episcopal Church in Washington.

Before 11 o'clock, when the funeral was scheduled to begin, numerous cars had gathered at the family residence about 1½ miles from the church. Countless floral offerings arrived from Washington, and more than 50 cars which were in the funeral procession bore District tags.

William Baker, 19-year-old brother of the slain girl, assisted his bereaved mother and father to the church, and from there to the grave. He was heartbroken over the fate of his sister, who had always been so concerned over his welfare, and expressed hope frequently that her assassin might be apprehended.

Photographers from Washington newspapers were handicapped in securing pictures of the funeral by a man who gave his name as Stanley Walker, and who said he was a deputy sheriff of Westmoreland County. He threatened to shoot any newspaperman who tried to take pictures, although he quieted down after talking to the family, and being assured by them that they had no objections to having pictures taken as the party was leaving the residence.

The pallbearers, who were friends and neighbors of the slain girl, were James Laterne, Aubrey Wharton, Thomas R. Jackson, T. F. Mason, Frank Stiff, and F. F. Chandler.

When the cortege reached the church, members of Miss Baker's

Royal Wedding Seen In Prank by Alfonso

Duke Drenched by King After Rulers Arrive for Easter Rites.

Seville, Spain, April 15(A.P.).—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria arrived this morning to spend Holy Week in historic Seville. They were greeted by the "Vivas!" of thousands who had awaited them since the early hours.

The king and queen were accompanied by their daughters, the Infantas Beatriz and Christina, and their guests, the Duke of Spoleto and Duchess of Aosta.

The royal party went from the station to Alcazar, the historic Moorish palace which will be their home here. Later they appeared on the balcony and were cheered by enthusiastic crowds. The city was bedecked with flags and bands playing gayly.

Seville's Holy Week pageantry is considered among the most colorful in the Catholic world. Religious processions are numerous, and in one of these the king himself, garbed in the medieval robes of a religious order, will march.

A practical joke played today by King Alfonso upon the Duke of Spoleto may mean a royal engagement is in prospect between the royal families of Spain and Italy, according to well-informed persons.

In the presence of the Infanta Beatriz, his eldest daughter, and other members of the royal family, the king this afternoon lured the duke to a trick bench in the palace gardens of Alcazar.

The duke, son of the Duke of Aosta and closely related to King Victor Emmanuel, sat on the bench, which immediately released a spring controlling a concealed fountain and was drenched with water.

KING ALFONSO.

King Alfonso, the infanta and the duke's mother, the Duchess of Aosta, all joined in the merriment. The duke, brushing the water from his face and trying to wring out his water-logged clothes, laughed as heartily as the others.

The incident was considered a significant indication of the intimacy between the royal family and the duke and his mother. Some court personages think it lends credence to rumors of a romance between the Infanta Beatriz and the duke. The princely young couple have been much together recently.

American Villages on Road To Oblivion, Census Shows

Figures Reveal 161 Small Towns Suffered Heavy Population Drops.

Chicago, April 15 (A.P.).—Indications that the American village and hamlet may be following the road to oblivion already traveled by the "little red schoolhouse" and the countryside church are contained in reports available today from the 1930 census.

Figures from eight States surrounding the 1930 center of population on the Illinois and Indiana line show that 92, or nearly 60 per cent of the 161 small towns counted, suffered a reduction in population of from five to 100 per cent, while those showing increases in most cases have added few residents, frequently less than the normal birth increase.

While the total population is conceded to have increased materially since the 1920 census, the indications are that the accretions are in the larger towns and cities. In six of the eight States, villages showing de-among the slain girl's suitors. He is described as about 35 years of age, 190 pounds in weight, and about 5 feet 11 inches tall. He frequently wore a gray cap.

Unsigned Letters Scanned.

Several anonymous letters have been received by Inspector William S. Shelby, Lieut. Edward Kelly and Commonwealth's Attorney William G. Gloth. All have been run down. Many persons have volunteered information to the police which has proved of no value.

Inspector Shelby, Lieut. Kelly and Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth, accompanied by members of the homicide squad, shortly after 9 o'clock last night made an automobile tour along Cemetery road and contiguous territory to inspect points figuring in the murder mystery.

At the culvert, in which the body had been stuffed, Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly stooped inside to make another thorough examination. They carefully inspected the roadway above the culvert and also the 2½-foot board fence at the side of the highway, making the deduction that the body of the slain woman must necessarily have been placed at the culvert. It was regarded as extremely unlikely that a machine could have drawn beside the fence and the body pushed over its top to fall below in the position in which it was found.

Proceed to Courthouse.

The party also proceeded to the road leading to the Department of Agriculture's experimental farm, along which the keys and the doctor's bill were found. The group then journeyed to the Arlington Courthouse, where Inspector Shelby, Lieut. Kelly, Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth and Sheriff Howard Fields engaged in a lengthy conference.

All the narratives told by Rosslyn residents and those in environs of Arlington Cemetery have been held not applicable to the killing by the police. Placement of the murder's commission between 6:05 and 8:30 on Friday night has definitely discarded all stories of screams and the reports of pistols being heard between 10 and 11 o'clock.

Inspector Shelby bases his deduction that the crime was committed at the earlier hour on the information supplied that the girl's automobile was seen at 8:10 and 9:45 on Friday at the exact spot where it was found Saturday morning.

Precise Spot Undetermined.

With the abandonment of the theories that the girl was shot while riding between Key Bridge and the spot where she was found came an admission by police that the exact spot of the murder has not been fully established.

After throwing the body over the embankment of Cemetery road into the culvert, it is thought that the murderer proceeded along Cemetery road to Military road, passing the experimental farm of the Department of Agriculture. Then he abandoned the machine 200 feet from the point where Military road intersects with Cemetery road.

Discovery of the keys of her car and a doctor's bill at a point between the culvert and the place where the car was abandoned is puzzling police. Several different suppositions have been advanced to explain the circumstance.

Man May Have Walked to City.

One belief is that after abandoning the car the murderer escaped through the experimental farm and cast away the articles found. Another is that the couple parked there prior to the murder. After the killing the man, who must have been well acquainted with the territory, drove to the culvert and after disposing of the body retraced his tracks and abandoned the car.

On this hypothesis the police think that the man walked from that point to Washington. In the hope that this may be true, police yesterday ordered that Rice Pond, on the Experimental Farm, be drained. When all the water has been withdrawn, police hope, the .32-caliber gun with which she was killed may be found.

There was a great divergence of opinion regarding the type of gun used until the Bureau of Standards, in a report following examination of the bullets, declared that the bullets were fired from a .32-caliber revolver.

Messages Kept Secret.

Inspector Shelby refused to divulge the nature of the messages in the letters found in Miss Baker's Navy Department desk. Neither would he give the identity of the man whose picture was numbered among the batch taken from the desk with the letters.

All are vitally important to the solution of the crime. Police have checked through the pictures. Many proved to be members of her own family. One picture is occupying particular attention. That is the standing posture of a man about 30 years old, who is heavy set, and who may prove to be "the man with the gray cap." About 30 letters are among the zealously guarded collection.

The Washington doctor who issued the bill to Miss Baker for medical services was questioned yesterday. What he revealed is shrouded in secrecy. Inspector Shelby would not say exactly what treatment had been given to Miss Baker by the doctor. He also refused to give the amount of the bill.

Had Number of Married Friends.

Inquiries during the last few days have led to the discovery that the girl had a number of married men among her acquaintances, according to Mr. Gloth. Raymond Kennedy, a Baltimore criminologist, according to Sheriff Howard Field, found gray-streaked hairs on the upholstery in Miss Baker's car. Police have manifested little interest in this reported discovery.

Inspector Shelby, after asserting that he attached no significance to the shots reported in the vicinity of the cemetery, said that all hope for the location of the murderer centers is about the effects taken from the Navy Department desk.

Another slim thread to which the police are clinging to fasten the identity of the slayer is that the gun was recently purchased in a Washington store. Police in every precinct have been ordered to canvass business houses where firearms are sold.

Girl Had No Gun, Belief.

If the murder had been premeditated it is thought that the gun might have been recently purchased. So far as police can learn Miss Baker did not carry a gun in her car.

More than a score of men and women with whom the girl was familiar have been questioned in the last 36 hours. What the quizzing developed is being withheld. Two men were considered important among the group. One lives and works in this city, while the other is employed here and lives in the suburbs.

One of those questioned yesterday was J. W. Timmons, who reported that screams of a woman had been heard near a teahouse in Arlington Heights. Blood-stained undergarments were found near the teahouse but the smears of blood had been bleached by the sun. Reluctant to dismiss any piece of material evidence, the garment was taken for analysis.

Soldiers Beat Underbrush.

Soldiers stationed at Fort Myer yesterday continued their search through the woods for clews. All the underbrush is being beaten down in an effort to find the gun.

While the entire homicide squad of the District scoured the city yesterday in questioning different persons, the Arlington County police massed their attention on the location of the missing hat, coat and beaded bag which was the property of the girl.

Hank Smith, one of the Negroes arrested Sunday at his home in Queen City, commonly known as "Hell's Bottom," under continual questioning yesterday, said that he took the coat, bag and hat. Police reported that they went to the home with him and after a search failed to locate the articles. Then he denied that he took them. Police said that they have already recovered a scarf and a small pocketbook through continued questioning of the colored men.

Smith and James Vollin, also colored, of Queen City, were arrested Sunday. They are said to have confessed that they found the scarf and small purse at the abandoned machine.

ELECTION FUND QUIZ BOARD FORMS TODAY

MRS. M'CORMICK READY

(Associated Press.)

The Senate campaign funds investigating committee will organize today and will go to work next week, with the recent Illinois senatorial primary probably the first point of inquiry.

Busy clearing up other senatorial duties preparatory to undertaking the investigation, Chairman Nye, of the committee, said yesterday he had received no new information. He already has complaints before him, however, from Illinois and Pennsylvania.

Anticipating the Senate investigation in Illinois, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, who defeated Senator Deneen for the Republican senatorial nomination in a bitter contest last week, stated yesterday before a meeting of the National Women's Press Club that she welcomed the inquiry. She told the women reporters that she had kept an account of her work and that she had relied considerably on volunteer workers.

Senator Nye has said that the complaints relating to Illinois involve both Mrs. McCormick and her defeated opponent, Senator Deneen. He has given notice that he means to go "to the very bottom" of the senatorial campaign chests.

Other members of the committee who will go to work with Senator Nye at the organization session today are Senators Goldsborough, of Maryland, and Patterson, of Missouri, Republicans, and Dill, of Washington, and Wagner, of New York, Democrats.

Spanish Dancer to Marry Son of Flour Milling King

Dolores Salazar, Figure in $17,000 Balm Suit, Again Engaged.

Los Angeles, April 15 (A.P.).—Dolores Salazar, Spanish dancer, who recently won $17,000 damages from Ferdinand Pinny Earle, Paris artist, announced through friends today that she is engaged to marry John Holmes, 24-year-old son of the late Patton R. Holmes, Minneapolis Minn., flour milling magnate. The wedding has been set for June.

Holmes, who was identified as a student at the University of Minnesota, met the dancer at a Santa Monica, Calif., beach two years ago.

Miss Salazar has a suit for $150,000 damages, alleging breach of promise to marry and betrayal, still pending against Earle. Her first suit, won recently in a superior court hearing, charged Earle with breach of a prenuptial agreement, in which she asserted he promised to settle $15,000 upon her. She testified she accompanied Earle on a tour of Mexcio and across the Atlantic to Paris, where she declared he deserted her and married his fifth wife, Denise Loncin.

BOMB JURY IGNORES HERMAN BRADY CALL

INQUIRY IS COMPLETED

After waiting three days to testify before the Prince Georges County grand jury, which is investigating the New Year's Day bombing at Seat Pleasant which killed his wife, Herman Brady yesterday was excused from testifying by the grand jury. The grand jury has completed its investigation, it is understood, but is not expected to return any indictments today.

Among those who testified yesterday were Mrs. Ella Brady, mother of Herman and of Lawrence Leroy Brady, Washington automobile mechanic, who is being held in the Upper Marlboro Jail charged with murder in connection with the bombing; Emmett Brady, another brother; Lieut. Joseph Itzel and Sergt. Charles Schalter, Baltimore detectives who investigated the bombing which took a toll of three lives.

Herman Brady, by his refusal to testify unless granted immunity from future prosecution at the preliminary hearing of his brother, caused delay in the early proceedings of the case. He is at liberty on bond as a State witness.

The jury is expected to complete investigation of several other cases today and there is a bare possibility that it might complete its work and adjourn. It is considered more probable, however, that the report will not be made until tomorrow or the next day.

Herman Brady has been in attendance at the grand jury for several days and there has been considerable conjecture as to whether he would refuse to testify before that body. He was not called, however. The reason for the failure to call him was not given.

A jury in circuit court yesterday heard testimony in a suit for damages by the Franklin Davis Co. of Michelville, against the Pennsylvania Railroad, alleging that employes of the railroad were responsible for a fire which destroyed 2.3 acres of nursery trees. State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer represents the nursery company, and M. Hampton Magruder, the railroad.

The jury heard testimony yesterday and decided that a personal viewing of the scene was necessary so the entire panel was escorted to the nursery. The jury is expected to fix damages today. The railroad company admits liability and the difference has to do with the amount of damage.

A circuit court jury which had heard evidence in the suit by the Home Insurance Co. and William A. Woodburn, a sea food dealer against the Lyons-Gibson Co., lumber merchants, for damages of $1,300 resulting from an automobile accident which involved trucks belonging to Mr. Woodburn and the lumber company, returned a verdict for the defendant. State's Attorney J. Frank Parran and Attorney John B. Gray, jr., were defense counsel.

A special meeting of the mayor and town council of Hyattsville will be held tonight to consider reports submitted by the various justices of the peace and the chief of police in an effort to increase police efficiency.

New Divorce Plea Is Filed by Woman

Mrs. Enrique Von Buelow Renews Action Against Her Husband.

Chicago, April 15 (A.P.).—Charging that her young husband, Enrique Von Buelow, told her that he had married her for her wealth, Mrs. Lottie Brenner von Buelow filed a new bill for divorce today.

Last week Mrs. Von Buelow dismissed her first divorce suit, saying that she had become reconciled to her husband since the recent sensational robbery of their Sheridan road home. In her latest suit Mrs. Von Buelow alleges that her husband has incurred liabilities which she has been forced to pay.

The Von Buelow home was robbed on March 31 by three men who posed as census takers and escaped with jewelry valued at $50,000. Six members of the household and guests were bound, gagged and blindfolded with adhesive tape and ropes by the robbers. Mrs. Von Buelow's estranged husband arrived at the home while the robbery was in progress and was one of those bound and gagged.

Six Face Murder Count in Drowning

Attempt to Escape From Alleged Kidnapers Is Blamed for Death.

Miami, Fla., April 15 (A.P.).—Six men were charged with first degree murder in warrants sworn by George Bing, State criminal investigator, today after investigation of the drowning Monday of Joe Durrance, 24 years old. The drowning, Bing said, resulted from Durrance's attempt to escape from a group of moonshiners and bootleggers, who had kidnaped him following his participation in a hijacking expedition.

The six men held were J. K. "Red" Slayton, Frank Hyde, Charles Keen, alias G. S. Slayton; R. S. Burts, George T. Hennessy and Brentley Busbee.

Busbee told officials that he, Durrance and the latter's father, Will Durrance, were kidnaped Sunday night, taken to the Everglades and beaten. According to Busbee's story, when young Durrance attempted to escape his assailants by swimming the Miami Canal, he was so weakened from the attack that he drowned.

chapter of the American Legion, under the leadership of Miss Jane M. Breen, commander, and Miss Mary T. Tatapaugh, adjutant, met the party and formed a line at the entrance. Carrying the Legion standard and the American flag, they preceded the casket, which was flag draped, into the church. At the door they were met by the Rev. Morris, who led them into the dimly lit auditorium, which was banked with flowers.

Dr. Baker Grants Interview.

After the brief service, the funeral party again assembled in order, and followed the body to the grave. There the Episcopal service and the committal psalm were read, and as the strains of "Lead, Kindly Light" were heard over the cemetery, the casket was lowered.

Though grief-stricken, the father of Miss Baker talked with newspapermen in the front yard of the family home, and assured them that he was anxious to have the murderer brought to justice.

Members of the family also assured them that they would give them and the police any possible aid.

Newspapers Are Thanked.

Dr. Baker asked newspapermen to convey for him the thanks of the entire family to those who had helped in their hour of distress, especially the girls of the Bible class in Washington, of which Miss Baker was a member, and who attended in a body.

Members of the family who survive Miss Baker, in addition to her father and mother, are three brothers, Charles, Thomas and William Baker, and two sisters, Virginia and Martha Baker. There are also several cousins and other relatives, who were at the services.

VILLAGES VANISHING, NEW CENSUS SHOWS

creases run from 62 to 80 per cent of the total tallied, but in Michigan and Ohio only 30 per cent show declines.

Illinois, with the largest number of towns reported, shows a decrease in 62 per cent, including one hamlet that was entirely abandoned and recently auctioned as a deserted village. Iowa and Nebraska have a slightly higher percentage of decreases, while Indiana and Minnesota have 75 per cent and Missouri 80 per cent.

Motor transportation over good roads, moving pictures in the larger towns and the broadened view conveyed to farmer and villagers by radio and daily newspapers are said to account for the indicated shift in population.

More modern farmhouses and delivery of goods by rural free delivery have caused tillers of the soil to stay on the place rather than go to the nearby village, and thus have caused the closing of many general stores in the small towns. The old gristmill and the sawmill which formed the nucleus of the hamlets and villages have largely gone the way of the district school and the country church.

Gone, too, is the village doctor, for better men can now reach the farm folks from the larger towns. No longer is there need for the village inn, for travel by automobile gets the passenger from city to city in a day, and when he falls short of his destination, he can use a tourist camp along the cement highway.

Rural delivery of mail long ago did away with the village postoffices and cut off one general store in each small town, for the ousted postmaster could not survive alone on his meager sales of faded calicoes and other rustic articles of bygone days. Now the farmers wear silks and satins like the city folk.

Even the village smithy has begun to disappear with the influx of tractors and automobiles.

One student of population said that all small towns would have dropped in population except for the support given some through the concentration at the chief village in each township, of the district schools and rural churches. Many small towns now have no activities except the township combination grade and high school and the one or two churches, which have, through motor transportation, attracted members of the now obsolete rural churches.

Healthy Business Is Seen in Capital

Most Industrial Plants Ran on Satisfactory Basis, Says Bulletin.

A healthy business tone was indicated in Washington during the last month, according to the Department of Labor in its industrial employment information bulletin, which declared that "except for a slight seasonal curtailment of forces in the confectionery establishments, the majority of the local industrial plants operated on a satisfactory basis."

"While an increased demand was registered near the close of the month for skilled, unskilled, professional, clerical, domestic and miscellaneous outside workers, the supply was more than sufficient for requirements," the statement read.

"Several of the hotels and department stores temporarily released some of their employes, expecting to recall them about the middle of April in preparation for the Easter trade. Building permits recently issued call for the expenditure of over $3,183,000. Federal, civic and private building was maintained in good volume, with sufficient workers of all classes to meet the demand. The public utility establishments operated with their usual forces. The District Highway Department awarded contracts for street construction and alley repairs to the amount of $500,000."

City Board to Discuss Portable School Roofs

Discussion of budget items for District schools for 1932 and a recommendation for strengthening of portable schools against storms are expected to be among important matters to be considered at a meeting of the Board of Education at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Franklin Administration Building.

The finance committee of the board is expected to submit a report on budget items with recommendations for necessary expenditures in 1932. The portable school recommendation is expected to be included in a report from a committee that has just completed a canvass of portable schools following the raising of the roof by wind of a portable building at the Jefferson Junior High School two weeks ago.

Filipino's White Wife Wins Allimony.

Justice William Hitz, in District Supreme Court, yesterday ordered Hermenelgildo Morales, a Filipino, to pay his Caucasian wife $75 a month allimony. The man is said to be an employe of the Government Printing Office. Some time ago the man was arraigned in Police Court on a threats charge, and immediately afterward filed suit for limited divorce.

W. G. Kellogg Severs Farm Board Connection

Chicago, April 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—William G. Kellogg, former general manager of the Farmers National Grain Corporation and later president of the Grain Stabilizing Corporation, today severed his connection with the Farm Board by resignation that was submitted a few days ago

Mr. Kellogg is from Minneapolis and was in the grain trading business before he was appointed to the important post with the Farm Board. There has been much friction in his office and much criticism of his efforts to keep the price of wheat up. The big cooperatives, which now control the Farm Board, are disappointed over the failure of the campaign to bull wheat with unlimited Government resources. Tonight the price of May and July wheat is but 6 cents a bushel over the low quotations on the crop.

Four Men Are Arrested As Rum Raid Is Made

Four men, one Negro, were arrested late yesterday afternoon at the Mount Pleasant Bottle Supply Co., on Eighteenth street near Belmont road northwest, by Eighth Precinct Detectives W. R. Laflin and William McEwen and Policeman H. M. Smith, on charges of possession of 4 gallons of alcohol, 19 pints of liquor and one-half gallon of mash.

They were Harold W. Gordon, 27 years old, and William Mayo, colored, sale of one-half pint of liquor; Jack Ross, 38 years old; Frank J. Cissel, 47 years old, and William Mayyo, colored, 39 years old. All said they resided there. Police said the firm occupied the building only a few days.

Neuland Estate Value Estimated at $280,000

An estate valued at $280,000 was left by William Neuland, president of the National Permanent Building Association, according to the petition for the probate of his will filed yesterday in District Supreme Court. The estate is made up of real estate valued at $250,000 and personal property estimated to be worth $30,000.

Mr. Neuland died March 24, leaving his widow and seven children. The widow is named as executrix. Attorneys James A. McDonnell and Fred J. Neuland appear for the estate.

WaterGymnasium Given To Paralyzed Children

A water gymnasium, for the benefit of paralyzed children, has been established in the swimming pool of the Y. W. C. A. at 614 E street northwest, under the supervision of Mrs. Gertrude Walker, an experienced physiotherapist who will conduct exercises under medical supervision.

Assisted by the buoyancy of the water, children who are practically helpless are aided in their arm and leg exercises by having their heads held up out of the water on air-filled pads. The instructor enters the water with each child to help the patient maintain his balance and confidence.

Moyers Park Man Hurt In Tumble From Ladder

Losing his balance on a ladder while he was painting the roof of a house at Moyers Park near Brentwood, Md., early yesterday afternoon, Richard H. Campbell, 48 years old, of Riverdale, received numerous injuries in a 20-foot fall.

He was rushed by the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad to Casualty Hospital, where he was reported in an undetermined condition, suffering from concussion of the brain and severe lacerations of the scalp among other hurts.

York Slaying Trio Awaits Grand Jury

Three, Charged With Murder, Are Held as Coroner's Inquest Ends.

Charged technically with the murder of Lamar Watson York, 36-year-old Federal prohibition agent, of C street northeast near Thirteenth street, three colored men were held to the next grand jury following a coroner's inquest at the District Morgue yesterday.

Findings by a coroner's jury, under Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, led to the holding of the men, John Borum, 19; John Logan, 24, and Milton Guy, 28. Testimony at the hearing revealed that York met his death from a bullet fired by one of the three shortly after he had refused a bribe to release their car, which they have admitted they were using for rum-running.

Guy, the last of the three to be charged, is alleged to have fired the fatal bullet by Borum, while, according to the testimony, both Logan and Guy say that Borum held the gun which was later found in his possession.

Painter Seriously Injured in Fall.

A possible skull fracture was suffered yesterday by Richard H. Campbell, 48 years old, painter, of Riverdale, Md., when he fell from a step-ladder while painting a house at Brentwood, Md. He was removed to Casualty Hospital, where his condition was regarded as serious.

INDICTMENTS BARE LIQUOR CONSPIRACY

ACTION FOLLOWS RAIDS

Trenton, April 15 (A.P.).—Details of the working of a huge liquor syndicate gathered during raids at Atlantic Highlands and along the Jersey coast last October were revealed today when Federal Attorney Philip Forman made public two indictments involving 59 persons.

Bank accounts in Trenton, Newark and New York under assumed names; participation of police officials in rum deals; wholesale transportation of intoxicating liquors through Mercer County, and shrewd activities of rumrunners who were guided by radio stations were all brought out in the bulky document handed up by the grand jury.

In one instance, Anthony Cassino, identified in the indictment as a "driver" was alleged to have opened an account in the Bank of America, New York, under the name of Charles Ross, and between January 29 and June 28, 1929, deposited more than a half-million dollars.

The complete list of indictments included 32 persons who had not been mentioned in previous indictments. They were identified as boatmen, police officers, owners of boats, financiers, agents and salesmen.

Newark, N. J., April 15 (A.P.).—A police chief and six others were under arrest today while Federal agents sought 43 more indicted as members of a liquor smuggling syndicate exposed in a series of raids last autumn.

Those arrested are Charles McGuire, chief of police of Keansburg, N. J.; Charles Weiner, motorcycle patrolman, Elizabeth, N. J.; John Maillet, described as a rumboat pilot, of Perth Amboy, N. J.; Charles Lee, also listed as a pilot, of Astoria, Queens, N. Y.; Samuel Kessler, alias Cohen, alias Bull, of Hillside, N. J.; Alexander Steele, of Keansburg, N. J., and Manuel Levine, alleged to be one of the syndicate leaders.

The seven are charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act. McGuire and Weiner were held in default of $10,000 bail, and Maillet was released in bail of the same amount.

The arrests were made after a Federal grand jury at Trenton, N. J., handed up 50 indictments based on evidence gathered last October when 130 Federal agents made a series of simultaneous raids along the coast from Highlands, N. J., to Sag Harbor, Long Island.

William J. Calhoun, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, said that warrants for the 43 were in the hands of 17 deputy United States marshals, and he expected the entire list to be arrested within ten days.

Those sought include eighteen persons described as rumrunners together with various petty officials and police officers.

The estate is composed of real estate valued at $135,215, cash amounting to about $50,000 and personal property estimated to be worth $132,500. Attorneys Simon, Koenigsberger, Young & Brez appear for the estate.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

MANY a man would be dismayed, perturbed and disheartened if he were in "Old Joe" Grundy's shoes today.

Mr. Grundy, a senatorial primary candidate in a State where money has long been the most eloquent of all campaign arguments, is to have his expenditures probed by an investigating committee headed by that same Senator Nye who was author not many months ago of a resolution to disbar him from the Senate because he had helped along Gov. Fisher's $2,000,000 primary fight.

But, faced with that unfortunate set-up, "Old Joe" is emphatically neither dismayed nor perturbed nor disheartened.

He has stage-managed a set-up of his own. Was he not the first individual this year to go indignantly before the senatorial inquisitors and demand in clear, clarion and complaining tones that they thrust their probe deep into the political maneuvers of his enemies in Pennsylvania?

AND hasn't he cultivated a proper attitude toward money? He is no stranger to money. He has been collecting it in armfuls for the sake of Republican tickets, State and national. He has ladled it out to the boys with lavish and gorgeous generosity.

But all that was for others. If they needed money to expedite their climb up the political ladder, they should have it, and, by the Great Horn Spoon! no man should say that "Old Joe" ever forgot a tariff favor.

But his own campaign is another matter. In this fight the Senate investigators, probe deep, far and high as they may, will be confronted at every turn by a candidate pure as the drifted snow, a spotless statesman who spurns the filthy lucre as a vote-getter and disdains the fat check as a convincer of wavering minds!

THEY may find, perhaps, that now and then yielding to the expostulations and entreaties of friends, this immaculate man has deigned to accept and disburse a few modest hundreds to defray the costs of printing and the expenses of mailing communications to districts infested by pro-Davis persons.

But beyond that, not a dollar. Millions for that abstract thing, the Republican party; not one cent for the candidacy of the senator, the Hon. Joseph Grundy!

And already his bitterest enemies have sensed and conceded that the probers will at first find him innocent of all financial offering. They made the confession when they charged that he would wait until the last week of the primary fight to dump hundreds of thousands of dollars into the hungry maw of the proletariat.

But the friends who know his mind say his enemies have misread it. Until the last balloting is done, "Old Joe" will adorn the horizon as the man who wins on merit or not at all, the statesman who knows when and where money has lost its purchasing power, its political punch.

Prohibition Is Hit In Geneva Report

Recent Woman Visitor to U. S. Tells of Alleged Dangers to Children.

Geneva, Switzerland, April 15 (A.P.).—Mlle. Marie Chaptal, president of the International Council of Nurses, who recently visited the United States in behalf of the League of Nations council to study social and moral dangers to which children are exposed, today told the league's child welfare committee something of her observations in America.

Considerable interest centered in a document she had prepared and circulated on the results of her American investigation, particularly in sensational allegations which were chiefly to the effect that prohibition in the United States has resulted in exposing children to many moral and social dangers in the cities she visited.

This document, however, was withheld. Well-informed persons explained unofficially that this suppression probably was out of regard for American feelings.

Duchess of York Cancels Parties

Official Announcement in London Intimates New Baby Is Expected.

London, April 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—An official announcement this afternoon that the Duchess of York has canceled all her engagements for the summer caused much interest today, for it was an intimation that she was expecting a child.

If a boy should be born to her he would be, pending the birth of a child to the still unmarried Prince of Wales, the direct heir to the throne of England.

At present the Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, is the heir to the throne in the younger generation. She would be supplanted by a boy. If the Prince of Wales should marry and have children his offspring would take precedence in the order of succession of those of the Duke of York.

Siddons Says Conservation Plan Is Gossip in Giving Mandamus Writs.

On the heels of a decision handed down last week by Justice Jennings Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, Acting Chief Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the same court, yesterday backed his associate in declaring President Hoover's oil conservation policy illegal. The acting chief justice issued mandamus writs in three cases requiring the Secretary of the Interior to reinstate applications for permits to prospect for oil, gas and other minerals on the public lands. As in the cases decided by Justice Bailey, the Government has noted an appeal.

The latest decisions were handed down in cases involving the following petitioners: R. L. Puris, of Artesia, N. Mex., and George C. Retherford and Ethel M. McClennon, of California.

Justic Bailey in his opinion held that the Secretary of the Interior was without authority to withhold permits and indicated that the President's oil conservation policy was mere newspaper gossip. The acting Chief Justice referred to Justice Bailey's opinion and declared that he "concurs both in its reasoning and in the conclusions reached by the learned justice."

Judge Clamps on Ban After Seeing Film Play

Chicago, April 15 (A.P.).—Judge W. B. Lindsay allowed "Party Girl" to be shown in Chicago theaters under protection of a temporary injunction against the censor board until he saw the film himself. Today he cancelled his own injunction writ.

"It is unfit entertainment for adolescent Chicago," he commented.

Counsel for the cinema interests protested that the show was advertised "for adults only." Judge Lindsay replied that such advertisement would naturally attract children and he had seen girls of 10 and 12 years at the show last night. The court ordered the police to close theaters exhibiting the film today.

STATE DELEGATIONS STUDY CANDIDATES

Hours Set Aside for Them Are Devoted to Matters of Interest.

MANY FETES ATTENDED

The hours set aside for meetings of D. A. R. State delegations and National committees yesterday were marked by discussion of national programs and State affairs and methods of securing election of the vice presidential candidates. Many State groups had their meetings in the form of teas, and luncheon at one of the D. A. R. buildings, hotels or home of members.

The District of Columbia Society, according to custom, did not hold a meeting yesterday as many of the State officers and members are serving on committees. The annual State meeting of the District of Columbia was held in March when Mrs. David Caldwell the retiring State regent was nominated as candidate for vice president general and Miss Helen M. Harman, the vice State regent, was elected State regent. Mrs. Caldwell was a guest at many of the State meetings yesterday and her election seems assured.

At the meeting of the Utah delegation yesterday some of the members reminded State Regent Mrs. Ralph E. Bristol that although the society is now 39 years old Utah has never had a vice president general. Mrs. Bristol has the unanimous indorsement of her State as candidate.

At the Ohio State meeting reports were made on the Caroline Scott memorial at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, and congratulations on the dedication and completion of this memorial to the first president general of the society were contained in speeches by members of the delegation.

Mrs. Walter L. Tobey, State regent, presided, and Mrs. Thomas Kite, honorary vice president general, was one of the guests of honor. Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general, also attended the Ohio meeting and luncheon, and made an address of greeting and told of the dedication of the Caroline Scott Harrison memorial.

The New York State meeting and luncheon was held in the small ballroom of the Willard. Ralph Cain, president of the Tamassee D. A. R. Industrial School in South Carolina, was the guest of honor. It was announced that through the kindness of Mrs. William H. Pouch, New York chairman of better films, a projector has been presented to the school.

Mrs. William Cumming Story, honorary president general, was one of the guests of honor at the luncheon.

The Michigan delegation luncheon was held at the Mayflower. Mrs. Charles F. Bathrich, State regent, held a tea for the delegation on Sunday at the Mayflower. Mrs. Henry B. Joy, vice president general from Michigan, was one of the guests of honor and Senator and Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, were also present.

The Kentucky delegates met for luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel and later held their State meeting. State Regent Mrs. Stanley Reed presided and made her report. Kentucky has an enviable record in marking historic spots and preserving of graves of Revolutionary soldiers.

Mrs. Theodore Hoover was the guest of honor at the California State luncheon held at the Hotel Hamilton and presided at the State meeting, which immediately followed it. A special feature of the California activity is the work among the Indians. The Mother Colony House at Anaheim and the old Custom House at Monterey was among the California activities discussed at the meeting.

The Indiana State meeting was held in the Indiana room in Memorial Continental Hall with State Regent Mrs. James Bliss Crankshaw, of Fort Wayne, presiding. The graves of eleven daughters of Revolutionary soldiers have been located under the chairmanship of Mrs. Walter Kerr. Tribute was paid to Mrs. Samuel Elliott Perkins, honorary State regent, who died last June.

Mrs. William H. Vaught, retiring State regent of West Virginia, was the special guest at the West Virginia luncheon. Representatives of three new chapters organized recently in the State were greeted. Mrs. Vaught said that the special interest of the chapters has been work among the foreign born.

The Virginia delegation met at the Hamilton Hotel for luncheon and State Regent Mrs. Nathaniel Beaman, of Norfolk, called the State meeting immediately afterward. All the pledges of the Virginia D. A. R. for Constitution Hall have been redeemed. Virginia has 56 memorial chairs and one pair of the thirteen entrance doors at Constitution Hall to their credit.

The special work of the Maryland State D. A. R. for patriotic education on correct use of the flag was stressed at the Maryland meeting with State Regent Mrs. Robert A. Welsh making the chief report. Maryland has contributed generously to Constitution Hall.

Special greetings were given to Mrs. Charles Linthicum, wife of the Representative from Maryland, who is known as the "Flag Lady" as she has presented the great central flag in Constitution Hall with an electrical device to lower and raise it.

The Pennsylvania State delegation held their luncheon at the Willard, and then attended a tea given by Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor, and a buffet supper given by Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, wife of the former representative from Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Otis Wingo and her daughter, Miss Blanche Wingo, were hostesses at luncheon to the delegates from Arkansas.

The guests were Mrs. Martin L. Sigman, the retiring State regent, and Mrs. W. H. Arnold, the incoming State regent; Mrs. S. P. Davis, Mrs. John Weinmann, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Henry J. Richardson, Mrs. John Mills, Mrs. Arthur Mills, Mrs. Hardy, Miss Stella Hardy, Mrs. John Farrell, Mrs. Garrett Whiteside, Mrs. Ethel Smart, Mrs. W. C. Nelson, Mrs. Robertson, Miss Marie Lloyd, Mrs. C. B. Rendleman, Mrs. Paul Heerwagen, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Wolgrims from other cities could boast that they had attended 20 or 30 of these Continental Congresses in Washington.

Mrs. Hobart received the guests standing on the platform of Constitution Hall, which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion. She then presented them to the honorary presidents general, who stood next to her, and they passed down the line greeting the members of the national board of management. State regents had impromptu receiving lines of their own, down which the delegates passed after they had completed the formal greetings.

The chairman of the reception committee was Mrs. Frank M. Dick, assisted by the following vice chairmen: Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett, Mrs. Myers Young Cooper, wife of the Governor of Ohio, and Mrs. Finley Shepard, formerly Miss Helen Gould, of New York.

FUNCTION GIVEN D. A. R.

Earlier in the day the D. A. R. had adjourned its formal sessions in order that various State meetings might be held and that a pilgrimage be made to Mount Vernon to lay wreaths on the tombs of George and Martha Washington. The Mount Vernon pilgrimage was led by Mrs. Hobart and members of the national board of management. A brief address was made by Mrs. Hobart standing in front of the tomb of Washington.

Cheers Greet Speakers.

Cheer after cheer arose at the single session of the day that was held in the morning in Constitution Hall when Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, chairman of the building committee of Constitution Hall, and Mrs. Russell Scott Magna, chairman of the finance committee, reported the progress made on this $3,000,000 auditorium in which the Continental Congress was meeting for the first time.

Mrs. Brosseau, who is an honorary president general of the D. A. R., was given an ovation when she appeared on the stage to report that Constitution Hall was now a finished structure. Mrs. Brosseau called special attention to the new mural tapestries depicting sey, Mrs. Luce and Mrs. L. J. Horner. Miss Blanche Wingo and Miss Katherine Mills are pages.
colonial and Revolutionary history, which are the gift of Mrs. William Butterworth, honorary vice president general from Illinois.

Mrs. Brosseau also recalled in her report that most of the furnishings in the hall were of early American periods, thus harmonizing with the architecture of the building. The one exception is the Lafayette suite, which when completed is to be placed at the disposal of the President of the United States, and the First Lady of the Land whenever they visit Constitutional Hall. That suite contains the Du Barry antique furniture.

Mrs. Brosseau asked that other antiques of colonial and early American type be contributed for the future beautification of Constitution Hall. The chairman complimented, also, John Russell Pope, the architect of the building, who has given splendid service in its erection.

Says $1,070,000 Raised.

The monumental sum of $1,070,000 has been raised in cash during the past two years for Constitution Hall, according to the report made by Mrs. Magna. Mrs. Magna was paid the tribute of an ovation and admiration for her services was given even more substantial recognition a little later on in the program when more than $15,000 was raised in a few minutes for the special gifts announced by her at the close of her report as available for those who wished to pledge them.

This achievement of raising the million and more dollars stands out in financial history of such movements, because it was the work entirely of Mrs. Magna and her well-organized committee.

One of the remarkable features, according to Mrs. Magna, is that 98 per cent of all pledges for the buildings and furnishings have been paid in full. "There are no relinquished pledges on anything subscribed for since the last congress," declared Mrs. Magna, amid cheers. She estimated that at the close of the present congress the cash collected during the week will total many thousands of dollars.

Reports of national committees showing the patriotic and educational work of the D. A. R. will feature the daytime sessions of the congress today. Tonight the nominations will be made, and animated campaigning is in progress for the coveted eight posts as vice presidents general and the one vacancy in the office of honorary vice president general.

PASTORS IN CLASH ON WAR CHAPLAINS

Dr. Pierce Flays Baltimore Cleric for Criticism of Church in Conflict.

YATES BACKS REPROOF

A clash between a Washington and a Baltimore pastor over the place of chaplains in the Army and Navy and the part that Christian churches took in the World War was revealed yesterday when the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, made public a letter of protest he had written to the Rev. Peter Ainslie, nationally known pastor of Christian Temple, Baltimore.

The letter voiced sharp objections to certain utterances of Dr. Ainslie at the Washington church on Monday during a union Lenten service.

The statements that aroused Dr Pierce's ire were: "There is no more justification for being a chaplain in the Army or Navy than there is for being a chaplain in a speakeasy" and that during the World War "churches and nations were indifferent and unconcerned with underlying questions of right and wrong but were concerned solely and wholly with winning the war."

In reply, Dr. Pierce, who is a reserve chaplain, declared: "You have insulted your country, the churches of the United States and the chaplains of the Army and Navy. * * * We did not want war, did not start the war, were powerless to prevent the war; but once drawn in we prayed and fought for victory and peace."

Col. Julian E. Yates, chief of Army chaplains, who was in the congregation, heartily indorsed the Washington minister's reply.

Woman Asks $10,000 for Hurts.

Alleging that she suffered permanent injuries on last October 7 when she says she slipped and fell, Susie Walker, of 720 Virginia avenue southeast, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against F. W. Woolworth, Inc., seeking to recover $10,000. Negligence on the part of the corporation is alleged. Attorney Milton T. Broome appears for the plaintiff.

NOTES OF THE D. A. R.

The far-flung banner of the Daughters of the American Revolution encircles the world for there are chapters of the society composed of American women in Cuba, China, England and France. One of the interesting delegations at the congress is that from the China chapter, composed of Mrs. Harold S. Dickerson, State regent; Mrs. Hollis Wilbur, State vice regent; Mrs. Nettie MacNair, alternate; Miss Emma Sester, alternate, and Miss Elizabeth Wilbur, alternate.

One of the active branches of the Daughters of the American Revolution is the National Officers Club, composed of past and present officers of the society. At the annual meeting Mrs. George Mayard Minor, of Waterford, Conn., honorary president general, was elected president for a term of three years. Other officers elected were six vice presidents, including Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, honorary president general; Mrs. Charles Banks, of New Jersey; Mrs. Robert J. Johnston, of Iowa; Mrs. James T. Morris, of Minnesota; Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, of Georgia; Mrs. Charles B. Boothe, of California; Miss Emma Strider, of the District of Columbia, was elected corresponding secretary; Mrs. John P. Mosher, of New York, corresponding secretary. The four directors are Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, Mrs. Harbert Beckus and Mrs. John M. Beavers, of the District of Columbia.

Miss Beatrice Aitchison, daughter of the Interstate Commerce Commissioner and Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison, is one of the pages at the congress. Miss Aitchison is a graduate of Goucher College in Baltimore and has taken special courses at Columbia University, New York. She is now taking a special postgraduate course at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. Miss Aitchison made her debut in Washington during her last year at Goucher. She spent her week days at college and came to Washington every week-end.

Mrs. Arthur W. Norton and Miss Shirley Farr received at the Willard on Sunday in honor of the Vermont delegation.

Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, a leader in the Connecticut delegation, has served as national officer and committee chairman at every congress. It was under Mrs. Buel's administration as State regent of Connecticut that the manual for immigrants, so generally used by the National Society of the D. A. R. for distribution among the foreign born, was first issued. Mrs. Buel is the national president of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots and presided at the meetings held in Washington last week.

Miss Dorothy De G. Jenkins, chairman of pages, marshals the white-clad girls every morning in the lounge of the auditorium and has them fall in line with the State flags in true military fashion to escort the president general to the platform to open the session. The American flag is carried at the head of the procession by Mrs. Jenkins as chairman and the D. A. R. flag by Mrs. Jean J. Labat as vice chairman.

Miss Bertha Coontz, personal page to the chaplain general, is the daughter of former Chief of Naval Operations Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz and Mrs. Coontz. Miss Coontz made her debut in Washington three years ago.

Mrs. J. B. Montgomery, of Multnomah Chapter, Portland, Oreg., is attending her twenty-eighth continental congress. Mrs. Montgomery was the first D. A. R. in Oregon, invited by Mrs. Benjamin Harrison. She is National No. 1005 and organized the D. A. R. in Oregon, also the Colonial Dames and the Patriots and Founders in her State.

HIGH COURT TO PASS ON RUM BUYER GUILT

U. S. Will Also Seek to Have Purchaser Punished for Revenue Fraud.

TEST CASE IS APPEALED

(Associated Press.)

The liability of the buyer of liquor under the national prohibition law probably will be examined by the Supreme Court before the end of the first term in June.

The question will come before the court as a result of its decision yesterday to grant the Government an appeal in a test case against James E. Farrar, of Boston, Mass., indicted on a charge of purchasing liquor from a bootlegger.

Chief Justice Hughes announced that the case would be set down for argument on April 28, following the Norris case from Philadelphia, in which the Government contends that the purchaser who orders liquor shipped to him is guilty of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The Government lost both cases in the lower courts. The Federal District Court for Massachusetts held in the Farrar case that the provision of the prohibition law requiring purchasers of liquor to have permits applied only to those authorized under the law to purchase liquor and did not cover purchases from bootleggers.

In the Norris case, the Circuit Court of Appeals held that the purchase of liquor was no offense under the prohibition law and that the transportation incident to delivery of the liquor to the purchaser did not render the purchaser liable to prosecution on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act.

The Government is urging the court to pass on another phase of prohibition enforcement. It would have the highest tribunal hold that violators of the prohibition law may be punished under the internal revenue laws for defrauding the Government of revenue, as well as under the prohibition act.

EUROPEANS INJURED IN CALCUTTA RIOTING

arrest and conviction of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and Mayor J. M. Sengupta, of Calcutta, both leaders in the Gandhi movement, caused serious riots in Calcutta. Minor outbreaks north of the city resulted in many persons being sent to hospitals.

At least seven British officials, a British woman motorcyclist, Miss Bench, and many members of the Calcutta fire brigade were injured during a battle between students, other sympathizers and police. Miss Bench had attempted to ride through the riot section against advices of police. She was stoned and her injuries caused her to be taken to a hospital. Armored cars were functioning before the police had succeeded in restoring order late in the afternoon

Gandhi's Secretary Seized.

On the other side of the continent—at Karachi—a hartal also was observed, although the day passed without incident.

Today's outstanding arrest was that of Mahadev Desai, Gandhi's private secretary, who had been left in charge of the Gandhi school at Ahmadabad. The leader himself remains immune although a police superintendent and a dozen constables at Dandi today silently watched volunteers prepare plans for the manufacture of forbidden salt. After the volunteers gathered about the pans the police quietly disappeared.

Gandhi spent the day in the village of Umber, where he spoke twice. He exhorted a group of women to take part in the campaign and called the attention to the arrest of Pandit Nehru, saying "he has been punished because he is the greatest of us all."

The second speech was to the men, whom he urged to defend the salt pans, as symbols of their principles, with their lives. "From your sufferings will rise into being not only complete independence, but a nonviolent army for its defense," he told them.

Answering a telegram from the President of Bombay provincial committee inviting him to Bombay, Gandhi replied:

"I am hourly needed in Gujerat to consolidate my work, but I will come when I am absolutely needed."

Two disobedience leaders of Madras lost their automobiles today because of their activity in the campaign. They were the former Assemblyman Prakasam and a newspaper editor, Nageswara Rao. When they refused to pay fines of 500 rupees their cars were taken.

CANNON GIVEN OPPORTUNITY TO REPLY TO LOBBY CHARGES

Representative Tinkham told the committee that $65,300 of a $172,000 contribution made by E. C. Jameson, a New York capitalist, to the Hoover 1927 campaign fund had been paid to Bishop Cannon, who was chairman of the anti-Smith committee of Virginia, and that a report had been made of only $17,000 of the amount.

In a statement which was not permitted to be placed in the record, Representative Tinkham said that what "is now of pertinent interest, and of which so far as I know no record exists and no disclosure has ever been made, is what Bishop Cannon did with the balance of $48,300 of the amount he obtained from Mr. Jameson."

Permission to place it in the record was refused by Senator Caraway, on the ground that the committee was limited to an inquiry into lobbying activities, and was not empowered to investigate political contributions.

Representative Tinkham said in his statement Bishop Cannon had explained that he had acted as banker for the committee, and had advanced it his personal funds when needed and had been repaid when money was available.

The witness also read a letter he said had been written in 1926 by Bishop Cannon to Senator Curtis, then Republican leader and now Vice President, asking "whether those in control of legislation in the Senate are willing for the country to understand that they are willing for Congress to adjourn without passing important prohibition legislation."

"This letter," Representative Tinkham asserted, "was clearly an audacious sectarian appeal with an implied threat of political reprisals. I submit that it is a letter which no senator should receive without a feeling of resentment and indignation."

Representative Tinkham presented the committee with statistics which he said showed the Antisaloon League, through its national and State organizations, had spent $67,565,313 from 1883 to 1926, inclusive. The expenditures from 1920 to 1925, inclusive, were given also, with $2,000,000 the estimated disbursement for 1926.

The Federal corrupt practices act was passed in 1912, Representative Tinkham said, adding that no reports of political expenditures were made by the league until 1920, "in complete defiance of the law," and that since then only nominal reports had been made.

(Associated Press.)

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, asserted in a statement last night that a charge that his organization had paid the campaign expenses of Andrew J. Volstead was "false."

"The statement of Congressman Tinkham before the Senate lobby investigating committee this morning charging that the Antisaloon League of America had paid the campain expenses of Andrew J. Volstead, knowing that Mr. Volstead was to introduce the so-called Volstead act and was to be chairman of the committee to which it was referred, is false," McBride said.

"Good building materials have the same merit as Class A bonds. They represent permanent value" . . . .

NATHAN S. JONAS

THE choice of materials is one of the most far-reaching decisions you make when building. Often, paying a few dollars more at the time of building saves many hundreds later. Bankers appreciate this fact, and such men as Nathan S. Jonas advise you to build for permanency—with lasting Copper, Brass and Bronze.

In skyscraper or modest home, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts, Brass or Copper pipe and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures invariably prove an economy in the long run. These metals cannot rust. They give satisfactory service for the life of the structure.

The Building Service Department of the COPPER & BRASS RESEARCH ASSOCIATION, 25 Broadway, New York, will be glad to advise you without charge about the uses and proper application of these metals.

THE WORLD COURT.

President Hoover's address before the Daughters of the American Revolution has given rise to much discussion on account of his reference to the so-called world court. The society he addressed is uncompromising in its adherence to American traditions, and is particularly opposed to political entanglements with foreign nations. Mr. Hoover paid a high compliment to the patriotic composition of the D. A. R, and his address was a broad review of America's duty, as he saw it, in promoting world peace as evidence of true patriotism. If Mr. Hoover succeeded in convincing the D. A. R. that it is the part of patriotism to accept the Root-Hurst formula for subjecting the United States to the jurisdiction of the world court as an adviser of the League of Nations he accomplished more in one speech than his predecessors and their Secretaries of State succeeded in doing during ten years of effort.

"The contention on this question," remarked President Hoover, "rests upon the details of special stipulations under which we should join. It is not my purpose to go into those contentions here. I have no doubt they can be solved and that the United States will sometime become a member of the court."

The opposition to American commitment to the court centers upon the nature of the court itself. The Senate refused to join the court except upon acceptance by all other nations of a positive bar which would prevent the court, except by this country's consent, from entertaining any request for an advisory opinion on questions in which the United States has or claims an interest. The court acts as judicial adviser of the League of Nations. The questions referred to the court by the league council may be of supreme political importance, affecting the vital interests of a nation. The Senate, while approving of a world tribunal of justice, insisted that this tribunal should not, as an agency of the League of Nations, give advisory opinions on matters affecting this country except with this country's consent. The Senate's reservation, in its essence, exempted the United States from the jurisdiction of the court as an agency of the League of Nations.

The "special stipulations" under which it is now proposed that the United States shall accept the jurisdiction of the court are a reversal of the Senate's reservation. These stipulations provide that the United States shall accept the jurisdiction of the court as an advisory agent of the League of Nations, and that, if the United States should persist in objecting to the council's request for an advisory opinion touching American interests, this country can then withdraw from the court.

The Senate's reservation is a bar against the court itself. The "special stipulations" subject the United States to the advisory opinions of the court, just as if the Senate reservation had never been adopted. The league council has power to require advisory opinions touching American questions. The only recourse then, if the United States objects, is to rupture American relations with the court.

Fortunately, Mr. Hoover's interpolation of the word "sometime" in expressing his conviction that the United States will become a member of the court is an indication that he will not press this question before the Senate at an early date. The injection of the world court controversy into the forthcoming discussion of the three-power treaty would tend to confuse the situation and might prove very unfortunate. Since the United States already enjoys the right to resort to the court for the settlement of an international dispute, there is no reason why the world court protocol should not lie on the table indefinitely.

THE BRITISH BUDGET.

In examining a copy of a British newspaper one can not help being impressed by the number of estates and pieces of property that are offered for sale at ridiculously low prices. What is the explanation? The property-owning Briton is so tax-ridden that he no longer can keep up his estate or live on the property that was his home before the war. Under Britain's new budget, introduced by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, the tax burden of the upper classes is to be increased. In his speech of presentation, on Monday, Mr. Snowden said:

> In making this budget I have placed burdens on the shoulders best able to bear them. I have placed no direct tax on industry and have not taken from the poorest of the land any part of their inadequate means. This new taxation does not mean deprivation of necessities nor even of the reasonable luxuries and amenities of life for anybody. I am merely asking that a favored section of the community shall contribute to the needs of the state in proportion to the benefits which the state has conferred on them.

The basic rate of the income tax will be raised from 20 per cent to 22½ per cent. Supertax rates are to be increased and heavier death duties are to be imposed. Legislation is promised to provide a tax on increases in land values, and the McKenna tariff duties affecting automobiles, motion picture films, matches, &c., are to be retained. The only paragraph of the new tax laws that may affect the poor man is that which increases the excise tax on beer. There will be no increase in the income tax for single persons having incomes of less than $2,500 or married persons having incomes of less than $4,000. Mr. Snowden estimates that only one-quarter of the income-tax payers will be affected by the increases announced and that the heaviest burden will fall on the 50,000 Britons best able to pay.

Naturally, a budget of this nature will not meet with the approval of the Conservatives. But what could the chancellor of the exchequer do other than fasten a greater tax burden upon the wealthy? He inherited from his predecessor, Winston Churchill, a deficit amounting to more than $70,000,000. Yields from existing taxes have been diminishing while the national expenditure has been increasing. The middle and lower class can not stand heavier taxes; there was no alternative to increasing the levy upon the upper class.

There is, however, a point beyond which taxes throttle the prosperity of a country or the hope of a return to prosperity. Great Britain, under the new budget, must collect total revenues almost as large as those that will be collected by the United States. Yet Great Britain's population is less than one-third as great, with considerably less than one-third the number of large incomes. The British government must absorb funds that otherwise would be put into industry. The excessive tax burden, particularly the death taxes, will influence Britons to invest their funds abroad and otherwise to evade the law. Mr. Snowden promises legislation designed to barricade avenues of evasion, but as soon as one loophole is stopped up another is discovered.

The new British budget inexorably responds to the dire necessities of the country. A radical reversal of conditions must occur before the British Isles can escape from crushing taxation. The Labor government has not made any move to bring about better conditions. On the contrary, it has encouraged unemployment by granting more charity at national expense. The country's exports are decreasing and the Labor government has not found any means of stimulating trade.

TRIAL BY JURY.

The decision of the Supreme Court to the effect that a defendant may waive his right to trial by jury in certain circumstances is of unusual interest because of the current movement to encroach upon that right. Since trial by jury is primarily for the protection of the accused, Associate Justice Sutherland held that this right may be waived with the consent of the accused, the Government counsel and the court. But he charged the courts to avoid any unreasonable departure from the regular mode of trial.

In view of the Law Enforcement Commission's plan to have minor prohibition cases tried without juries, regardless of the defendant's wishes, the court's emphatic defense of trial by jury is the most interesting part of the opinion. "Not only must the right of the accused to a trial by a constitutional jury be jealously preserved," Justice Sutherland wrote, "but the maintenance of the jury as a fact-finding body in criminal cases is of such importance and has such a place in our traditions that before any waiver can become effective the consent of government counsel and the sanction of the court must be had, in addition to the expressed and intelligent consent of the defendant."

Justice Sutherland calls attention to the common-law right of trial by jury. "These common-law elements embedded in the constitutional provisions," his opinion says, "are beyond the authority of the legislative department to destroy or abridge." There is an abundance of legal opinion to sustain this view. Since the Supreme Court first touched upon the subject, the right of trial by jury has been held far beyond the reach of the legislature. "In the absence of a valid consent," the opinion continues, "a district court can not proceed except with a jury, not because a jury is necessary to its jurisdiction, but the accused is entitled by the terms of the Constitution to that mode of trial."

The court's opinion came at a fortunate moment—just when the movement for non-jury trials in prohibition cases is on the verge of collapse in the House. The decision was announced as a part of the routine business of the court, but its timeliness gives it the effect of a voice of warning.

WHAT IS BORNO'S GAME?

The plan worked out by the Forbes commission for restoration of constitutional government in Haiti has struck a snag. The day set for election of a temporary president has passed without action. Before the commission left the island republic complete arrangements were made for the election of Eugene Roy as chief executive until a national assembly could be elected. All factions agreed to this program, but now President Borno intimates that the council of state favors another candidate. On pretense of forestalling adverse action he adjourned the council.

Circumstances surrounding this turn of events throw suspicion on the good faith of the Haitian President. During the investigation he balked at the commission's plan to eliminate him from the political field. After much persuasion he pledged support to the commission's program, and there was no indication that anything was amiss until he adjourned the council just before the election was to have taken place.

M. Borno's excuse for postponing the election seems hollow. The council is appointed by him and he has authority to remove any stubborn members. He resorted to that very procedure a short time before the Forbes commission arrived in the island. When it serves his own purposes M. Borno is not slow in making the council obey him, but when the question at issue is selection of his successor to the presidency, he issues a proclamation saying that "the executive power can only solemnly affirm the absolute and intangible right of the council of state to elect freely a president, in conformity with the constitution and without the intervention of any foreign power."

The situation is confused, and it appears that M. Borno wishes it to be so. His term expires on May 15, and unless a successor has been elected before that time Haiti will be left without a government. The State Department has issued a warning that no other candidate than Eugene Roy will be acceptable as temporary president. It remains to be seen whether M. Borno will comply with this ultimatum.

This incident suggests the precarious condition of the Haitian native government. The commission worked out an airtight arrangement for restoration of constitutional government in the island, but the Haitians are having difficulty in carrying it out. It is not a plan of government that they lack, but the ability to function as an independent nation. Unless the United States keeps close watch over the island, as it is bound by treaty to do, native politicians may plunge the Haitian people into chaos at any time.

DISARMAMENT BY PURCHASE

From the Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Melvin Traylor, one of the two American financiers who recently helped organize the international bank, suggests that the questions of disarmament and interallied debts might well be discussed together at an international conference. He thinks that if the United States should offer to cancel the debts our former allies would agree to disarm on land and sea. It would be good business for them to do so, he says, because they would save not only the costs of military preparation but also the annuities paid to this country; and for our part, we should about break even because what we should lose from nonpayment of the debts would be balanced by the saving in our military expenditures.

This suggestion, of course, is not a new one. It has cropped up from time to time since the war. It has never made much progress. Every time the proposal has been offered some one has asked why the nations of Europe have to be paid to disarm, and to that question no adequate reply has been made. Europe would save money if it reduced its armaments and it would save more money if it didn't have to pay its debts. The fact that the United States insists on payment is or ought to be an incentive to armament reduction abroad, and if the nations of Europe do not respond to the incentive we may safely conclude that they do not want to disarm and do not intend to disarm for reasons of their own. Confirmation of this conclusion is to be found currently in London. We agree with Mr. Traylor that European budgets would be more readily balanced if the costs of armament were reduced, but if that is so why do not the nations of Europe proceed to disarm without putting a price on an action which is plainly in their own interest? Why must they be bribed to disarm?

Perhaps the reply will be that the victorious allies must maintain great military establishments only in order to exact those payments from Germany which the allies in turn transmit to Washington. This would establish a logical connection between the question of disarmament and the question of the war debts, but unfortunately the explanation does not accord with the facts. The size of the British navy, as every one knows who has followed the London conference, is not determined by the strength of the German navy, but rather by the strength of the French, Italian, American and Japanese navies. The size of the Italian army is not determined by Germany's military strength, but by France's; and if the French army were only as large as would be required to invade the Ruhr again to force payments, French military costs could be cut in two and still leave a margin of safety.

It should also be noted that American experience in purchasing disarmament has not hitherto been particularly reassuring. At the Washington conference we didn't get our money's worth. We sacrificed our investment in the strongest navy in the world confident that our offer to scrap our battleship superiority would be matched then or later by other nations which excelled in other categories. Our confidence was misplaced. We paid in battleships, and that was all that happened. The best that we can now expect from the London conference is a huge bill for the construction of cruisers and other auxiliaries to match the existing strengths of Britain and Japan. Is it not likely, in the light of this experience, that if we forgive the debts expecting disarmament in return we shall again find we have bought a particular kind of disarmament, leaving other categories open to unlimited expenditure?

It is significant that the suggestion of trading disarmament for reparations has not come from a responsible official of a European government. As long as the suggestion comes from this side we are buying in a seller's market. It would be more prudent to let the other fellow make the first bid. Frankly we doubt if such a bid will be forthcoming, and, if it is, whether it will be acceptable, but at any rate such a bid would merit serious attention.

Meanwhile our situation might be compared to that of a banker who has lent money to Mr. Jones. Mr. Jones' wife is extravagant and poor Jones is having some difficulty in meeting his interest. Mr. Traylor suggests to the banker that he cancel Mr. Jones' note if Mr. Jones will agree to curb Mrs. Jones' expenditures. When Mr. Traylor as a banker pursues such a policy toward his customers we may view his international proposals with greater sympathy.

A Man's Right to Smoke Must Depend on How His Pipe Smells.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE chief cause of misunderstandings between men is muddle-headed thinking.

Men handicapped by prejudice or natural stupidity see but one side of a question—the side that appeals to their self-interest—and maintain that no other side exists.

Consider, for example, the matter of law.

All men of common sense concede that man has certain natural rights, among them life and liberty.

If he lived on earth alone, his rights would be unlimited.

But in a world densely populated, the existence of natural rights imposes natural duties.

The moment you concede rights to one man, you obligate other men to respect those rights.

Thus natural rights and natural duty are made inseparable.

Natural duty pledges all men to observe and protect the rights of the individual.

But the unlimited rights of a man living on earth alone are lessened when a second man appears with rights of his own, and the greater the population grows and the more individual rights there are to observe, the fewer rights remain to anybody.

One man driving alone on the highway has a right to the entire road; but when a second driver appears the right of the first is cut in half, and further increase of traffic at last limits his right to the space his car occupies.

In short, one man's rights end where another's begin.

If one man has the right to blow a cornet, his neighbor has the right to peace and quiet; and the natural right of the second, being supported by the similar rights of other neighbors, must outweigh the right of the cornet player and impel justice to suppress him as a nuisance.

When rights conflict and overlap, the right that survives is the right of the greater number.

That is common sense and common justice.

This does not mean that might makes right, for a majority may be wrong or vicious or tyrannical; but it does mean that the natural right of the many must have precedence when it conflicts with the natural right of the few.

Man's right to liberty extends only so far as it can be exercised without trespassing on the right of others to peace, security and freedom from annoyance.

Thus the individual's inalienable right to preach, swear, smoke, dance or yell is surrendered when the exercise of it threatens the good of the many.

Once that truth is fixed in your mind, you can't go wrong in judging the merit of laws made to define and limit the rights of free men.

THE GOOD LIFE.

Oh, whether you dwell in a cottage or a castle on top of a hill,
There are hunger and thirst of the spirit that are certain to follow you still,
There is pain that you can't get away from, and loss that you'll have to endure,
For life doles out anguish and heart-aches which money and fame can not cure.

Oh, whether you're master or toiler, or rich man or poor 'tis the same,
You'll never know joy if you're friendless; you'll never be happy in shame.
Food hunger seems trifling compared with the hunger of men for respect
For there's nothing that fortune can offer to pay for the name that is wrecked.

Oh, the good life is builded on courage and honor and kindness and cheer,
It gathers its friends where it finds them and clings to them year after year.
And whether in cottage or castle the true man may chance to abide There shall come those dark days of disaster when he must have a friend at his side.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Snowbirds, Flickers, Robins, Song Sparrows, Crows, Grackle, Phoebe, Starlings, and Cardinals Are Here.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Saturday morning while walking in the little stretch of woods south of the Lincoln Memorial reflecting pool I saw quite a number of birds, the majority of them giving vent to their sweet songs because of the warm spring weather. There were a few snowbirds twittering in the trees. It is rather late for these birds to remain in Washington. Soon they will be only a memory until they return with cool weather next October.

The flicker or yellowhammer was present Saturday. Its song is not sweet in tone, yet there is something about the song which makes one stop and listen to it. I saw robins and song sparrows in large numbers. Several crows stopped in the tree tops for a few moments. Every one in Washington is familiar with the purple grackle. They are seen in all the parks and public places. Soon the grackles will be nesting in the top of pine trees or in ivy vines.

There was also a phoebe flying around in this group of woods. It would dart after an insect and then fly back to its perch on a dead limb and wait until it sighted another insect. The phoebe builds its nest of mud on the undersides of stone bridges or on the underbeams of wooden bridges. Occasionally they build on the sides of overhanging rocks.

The starlings were present in vast numbers, but they were out on the grass searching for food. A few of the male birds were in the trees trying to mock other birds, in that rusty singsong manner of theirs. At times they imitate other birds perfectly; that is, the calls of other birds, but not the songs. The starling is not capable of singing sweetly.

This little stretch of woods is a wonderful spot in which to watch the habits of birds. It is a little too early for the warblers, but if this warm weather keeps up one will soon find the yellow warbler and the black and white warbler in these woods. The brown thrasher and the wood thrush will soon be with us again. The cardinal was there with the other birds Saturday, but it remains here throughout the entire year. It has a very pretty song and is often found in the city, where it builds its nest in a rambling rosebush or in honeysuckle vines. A. W. K.

Virginian Suggests Replica of Monticello in Washington as Suitable Monument to Jefferson.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It does seem strange that the plea of your correspondent "Democrat" for a major memorial of Thomas Jefferson at the National Capital should be necessary. I feel certain that eventually it will be provided by the Government or otherwise.

The most fitting memorial, it seems to me, would be a replica of the Monticello mansion and grounds. Owing to the fact that he himself designed the mansion and attended to all the details of its erection, its reproduction here would be particularly appropriate. How intimately it was associated with his personality, the following extract from "Jefferson and Monticello," by Paul Wilstach, will show:

"The house was one of his playthings as long as he lived. It may have been that he preferred not to feel that nothing more could be done to it. Work on it, in some degree, seemed always to be going on. Indeed, he is reported to have said, 'And so I hope it will remain during all my life, as architecture is my delight, and putting up and pulling down one of my favorite amusements.'"

If, as has been suggested, the States of the Union are ever specially represented in the beautifying of the Federal City, the State of Virginia could not do better than provide for a memorial such as I have proposed. Apart from its memorial significance, a Monticello Park, displaying distinctive arboreal and other botanical features of Virginia, with the mansion serving the purpose of a colonial museum, it would become one of the favorite beauty spots of Washington.

VIRGINIAN.

Refrigerant May Make Hot Summer Bearable and Reduce Tropical Terrors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Before the meeting of the American Chemical Society in Atlanta, Ga., on April 8, a new refrigerant was demonstrated which can be used to cool sleeping rooms during the summer. This method of cooling the air may also prove beneficial in submarines and mines.

Thomas Midgley, jr., discoverer of ethyl gasoline, and Dr. A. L. Henne, Belgian chemist, demonstrated the new substance, which is a compound of carbon, chlorine and fluorine, technically known as fluro-chloro-methane. It is a clear white liquid which possesses a boiling point of 18 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. It is noninflammable and acts as a fire extinguisher. Experiments on animals have shown that it is not injurious when present in large quantities.

Mr. Midgley said: "This refrigerant is nonexplosive and we believe nonpoisonous. I have breathed quantities of it without lasting bad effects. When I took enough it produced a sort of intoxication. Instead of exhilaration, such as is credited to alcohols, these fumes do not rouse a desire to sing or recite poetry."

The refrigerant is still in the experimental stage, but should it prove safe, practical and economical, its most beneficial results should be refreshing sleep on hot nights. It may make tropical lands more habitable. About half of the surface of the earth is in a zone which causes the northern races to become weakened because of the heat. E. P. STEED.

SENATE TO CONTINUE WORLD COURT DELAY

London Treaty Will Get First Consideration as Being More Important.

NO NEED OF HASTE SEEN

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The London naval treaty will be given preference over the world court in the administration's plan to submit these instruments to the Senate for ratification. It thus appears that no action is to be anticipated by the Senate on the world court protocol this year.

President Hoover's indorsement of the world court in his address to the Daughters of the American Revolution Monday evening is not interpreted to mean that the President sees any need of haste in precipitating a battle in the Senate over this issue. There is a growing impression at the Capitol that Mr. Hoover has acted wisely in maintaining the present status quo respecting the world court instead of risking embarrassing consequences by inopportunely seeking to bring about ratification.

All the advantages which the President referred to, in connection with the world court as an agency of pacific settlement of international disputes, remain at the disposal of the United States irrespective of ratification.

Court Functioning Now.

Senators point out that the World Court has so far functioned without America being a member and will continue to function along the lines indicated by Mr. Hoover regardless of the Senate's action. The only important question respecting the United States, it is added, concerns the moral support which America may be deemed to give to this League of Nations tribunal. And the moral support of the administration has already been emphatically registered for the benefit of Geneva, according to Republican leaders who are most anxious to have the status quo maintained.

Nothing has so far occurred to convince the Senate foreign relations committee that America would gain any advantage from adherence to the World Court protocol which this country does not now possess respecting the Geneva tribunal. All the machinery of the court for the adjudication of international disputes is as completely available to America now as it would ever be after ratification. America is free at any time to submit a dispute to the World Court for settlement. America is likewise free under present conditions to ask the World Court for advice on any matter pertaining to a dispute with another nation.

The only difference which senators see between remaining benevolently outside of the world court and becoming involved in membership is that American membership would insure to the European and Asiatic nations the right to make use of advisory opinions and have a voice in the management of America's own affairs. While America remains outside the court the people of this country are free from the possible effects of advisory opinions.

Principle Led to Reservation.

This principle of freedom of interference in American affairs without America's consent led to the Senate reservation No. 5 when the world court protocol was ratified in 1926. This reservation was an ironclad guarantee against such interference. But the League of Nations powers refused to accept American membership on these terms. The substitute plan, drawn by Sir Cecil Hurst, of Great Britain, and Elihu Root, restores the right of the European and Asiatic powers to render advisory opinions relative to American affairs without America's consent but provides a right of debate for America and a right of protest, including withdrawal by the United States from membership in the court.

Respecting the suggestion that America would have a moral obligation to contribute to the expenses of the court if this tribunal were utilized by the United States, senators are convinced that the European nations would find a means of making America pay handsomely whenever a dispute was submitted by America to the court. It is conceded to be only fair that America, under such circumstances, should pay her proper share of the expenses. But there is some doubt at the Capitol as to whether American taxpayers should be called upon to help pay the expenses of international litigation concerning European and Asiatic countries respecting matters which do not affect the people of the United States.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 12 noon and recessed at 4:30 p. m. to 12 noon today.

Confirmed the nominations of William J. Carter to be Federal attorney for the Eastern District of Tennessee, Charles B. Kennamer to be Federal attorney for the Northern District of Alabama, Tom W. Dutton to be United States marshal for the Eastern District of Louisiana, and Phil E. Baer to be United States marshal for the Eastern District of Texas.

Senator Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, proposed further restriction of immigration and repeal of the newly established national origins basis of determining quotas.

Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, again appeared before the lobby committee and charged that the Antisaloon League has repeatedly violated the Federal corrupt practices act.

Senator Hayden (Democrat), Arizona, in opposing the Harris bill for tighter immigration quota restrictions, asserted that stricter administration of the immigration regulations during the last year has sharply decreased Mexican immigration and has done away with the necessity for legislative action.

Passed and sent to the President a House bill authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to investigate cotton ginning and to establish experimental ginning plants and laboratories.

George A. Marr, secretary of the Lake Carriers Association, appeared before the commerce committee and charged that the La Follette seaman's bill would "tie Great Lakes commerce in a knot."

Agriculture committee received testimony of officials of five States, who urged adoption of the Walsh resolution to give States power to establish live stock and poultry quarantines in cases not covered by Federal regulation.

HOUSE.

Met at 12 noon and adjourned at 4:25 p. m. to 12 noon today.

Military affairs committee decided to formulate legislation to provide authority for the leasing of Muscle Shoals to a private corporation after discarding the Norris resolution to authorize Government operation of the project.

Representative Vinson (Democrat), Georgia, appearing before the agriculture committee, demanded that legislation be approved that would either place cotton exchanges under Government regulation or abolish them.

Approved the conference report on the appropriations bill carrying funds for the State, Commerce, Justice and Labor Departments.

Representatives of civic associations in New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles appeared before the foreign affairs committee and urged a reduction of American passport fees from the present level of $10.

Philip Weld, vice president of the New York Cotton Exchange, appearing before the agriculture committee, opposed the Vinson bill to bring cotton exchanges under Government supervision.

not build up, even though she reserves the right to do so.

The problem is to construct a safeguarding clause strong enough to satisfy the admiralty and British opinion that British strength against France and Italy is provided for in all contingencies, without, at the same time, making Americans think that the Rapidan figures are so contingent that their solemn adoption in a treaty is scarcely worthwhile.

Drafting Committee Has Huge Task.

Beside this problem all others outstanding are insignificant. The drafting committees continue their work night and day and issuance today of 144 pages of small type comprising the six adopted reports which form some, not all, of the bases of the treaty, show the vast task on which they are engaged. The next to the last clause of the treaty, it was learned, inserted at Japan's request, will provide that nothing in the treaty shall prejudice the rights of the signatories to demand new ratios or new conditions at the conference of 1935.

King George V, it was rumored today, was asked by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to preside at the signing of the treaty, but declined. Instead of an imposing ceremony in the House of Lords, rivaling the pomp of the opening of the conference, which would certainly have occurred if a five-power limitation agreement had resulted, the delegates will sign in Queen Anne's small drawing room in St. James' Palace, where there will be room for only a few newspapermen, and there will be no particular ritual.

The king's reported reluctance to appear again may possibly be assumed to represent the British monarch's unspoken criticism of what has been accomplished during the twelve weeks of negotiation here.

questions, to some of which they replied:

That frozen noses, cheeks and toes were commonplace with the expedition.

That learning to ski was their principal recreation and that some never did learn.

That the South Pole is a large flat plain 10,000 feet above sea level.

That the recreational value of golf clubs in Antarctica is about nil.

That they forgot to eat lunch in the excitement of discovering an unmapped range of mountains.

That it was not particularly cold at the South Pole, especially in their heated plane.

Capt. Parker was pilot of Admiral Byrd's plane on the famous "eastern" flight, on which the mountains in Marie Byrd Land were discovered—the flight on which the explorers became so interested in their discoveries that they forgot their lunch.

Capt. McKinley and Thorne will remain here briefly to permit the former to do some work on his pictures. Capt. Parker will leave for the East tomorrow.

French War Debt Funding Is Ended

$4,025,000,000 in Gold Bonds Paid to Treasurer by Envoy Claudel.

(Associated Press.)

Delivery to the Treasury yesterday by Ambassador Claudel of France of $4,025,000,000 in French treasury gold bonds reflected the final action of the French government in funding its war debt to the United States.

The action was in accordance with the French debt settlement approved by Congress and signed by President Hoover last December. The French government previously had approved the plan.

When the new gold bonds were presented at the Treasury, the first four were marked paid and returned to the ambassador. The French government has been credited with that amount, $125,000,000, from previous payments made to the United States.

U.S.-CUBA SITUATION IS CALLED SINISTER

Envoy From Island Urges Economic Union Against Political Interests.

SAYS TRADE DECREASING

Houston, Tex., April 15 (A.P.).—Describing relations between the United States and Cuba as "sinister," Dr. Orestes Ferrara, Cuban Ambassador to this country, tonight advocated a Pan-American economic union which would push political considerations into the background.

The ambassador addressed delegates to the Southwest foreign trade conference. He said his desire would have been to go into the relations between his country and the United States "but the picture would have been too sinister for a gathering so successful and therefore so optimistic."

"I should have been obliged," he said "to point out that we are witnessing the decrease of our reciprocal trade, that our reciprocal duties are on the increase; that equally the greatest sugar consuming country near to the greatest sugar producing country is breaking this neighborly proximity and in consequence a large number of thousands of tons of sugar need now to navigate 7,000 miles before entering the United States.

"I should have been obliged to say that our sugar crisis is ruining our interests and at the same time yours also. So the once large and prosperous American companies established in Cuba are going into the hands of the receiver, one after another; and in our present distress we regard with sympathy those investors in Cuban businesses who share our disaster, and who have seen their investments reduced from one billion and a half to less than seven hundred millions.

The ambassador dealt at length on the potentialities of a Pan-American customs union.

"Through an evolution of more than a century," he declared, "we have reached a status of commercial relations in the international field very similar in principle to that which provoked the rebellions of the Americas against their respective metropoles. I mean that we have today, as we had at the time of George, III of England, of Ferdinand VII of Spain, political conditions dominating economic interests.

"A union of political entities or nations in one economic system seems to be the only solution for the great productive capacity of the present world."

MISSIONARIES' FATE IN CHINA UNKNOWN

TELEGRAPH WIRES CUT

Shanghai, April 15 (A.P.).—The condition of foreign missionaries remained uncertain today in bandit-infested provinces of south China, where telegraphic communication was disrupted. Stirred by foreigners protests, the Nationalist government dispatched airplanes from Canton to drop bombs upon Communists and bandits ravaging cities and the countryside along the border of Kwangtung and Kiangsi provinces.

Captured April 9 at Powchow, Province of Szechewan, C. A. Bridgman, Canadian-United Church missionary from Winona, Ontario, was taken by bandits to mountains of the upper Yangtse River and held for ransom of $200,000. The British consul at Ichang has requested the Nationalist government to obtain Dr. Bridgman's release and that of a Chinese pastor captured with him.

Bandit forces swarming over Kiangsi province have severed telegraph wires, keeping fast the secret of the fate of sixteen American Catholic missionaries held in the besieged city of Kanchow since early March.

The brigands' siege of Namyung, Kwangtung province, has been lifted but missionaries feared the robbers would return and telegraph to authorities for aid.

Missionaries at Linchow, northwestern Kwangtung, recently menaced by a bandit army, are cut off from wire communication and their condition is unknown.

merits of the appointment and not on pressing political considerations.

There is no question now but that when and if the nomination comes to the floor there will be a more bitter fight than that waged on Chief Justice Hughes.

There has been some suggestion that final determination might be avoided until the next session of Congress in December. The Senate has only about a month and a half to remain at work, according to present plans, it is pointed out.

For his four years of service with the reparations commission he received decorations from four foreign governments. He was proposed as comptroller of Austria but declined.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Tour of Spain Is Completed By Mrs. Keyes

Wife of Senator From New Hampshire to Visit Capital.

By JEAN ELIOT.

AFTER visiting Spain and most of the daughter nations of Spain in South America in search of material for magazine articles, Mrs. Henry Wilder Keyes, wife of Senator Keyes, of New Hampshire, will land in New York on April 26 and will come to Washington shortly thereafter, presumably to stay for a while. She has been away a full year and has had many adventures, of which she has written an illuminating commentary for the magazine, to which Frances Parkinson Keyes has been a contributor for years, beginning with the popular "Letters of a Senator's Wife."

Mrs. Keyes sailed from Ecuador on April 13, having pretty well completed the circuit of South America. As a prelude to this journey she went to Spain last summer to attend the Ibero-American Exposition at Seville, featuring the cultural heritage of the Americas from Spain. On this lap of her travels she was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Sherley, who was in charge of the Children's Bureau exhibit at the Seville exposition.

Miss Sherley returned to Washington months ago, but word has just been received from Gov. Thomas R. Campbell, commissioner general of the United States to the exposition, that the Children's Bureau exhibit has been awarded a gold medal and that to Miss Sherley goes a diploma for her work in assembling it.

So great has been the interest throughout Spain in this exhibit of what Uncle Sam is doing for child welfare that it has been arranged to leave part of the material permanently in Spain, notably projecting machines and several interesting films on health education. Moreover, on urgent request from Brazilian authorities, copies of all the models displayed at Seville have just been shipped to Rio de Janeiro for use by child welfare organizations. And, except for the material left in Spain, the original exhibit will eventually be taken "on tour" in South America.

In arranging the exhibit for the Seville exposition, the Children's Bureau officials had the invaluable assistance of Senor Don Ramon Padilla, son of the Spanish Ambassador, who was then serving as attache of the Spanish Embassy in Washington and who is now at the foreign office in Madrid. Senor Padilla prepared the Spanish text for all the exhibits and also translated the child's bill of rights, written by President Hoover, illuminated copies of which, in English and Spanish, were hung in the room with the exhibit. It will be remembered that the King and Queen of Spain viewed the Children's Bureau exhibit with keen interest and spent much time studying the various models.

Four West Point Teams To Visit Washington.

The outdoor stage is set for one of the important sports events of the year in the coming of four teams from the United States Military Academy at West Point, the baseball, lacrosse, rifle and tennis teams, due in town on Friday, April 25. Never before has West Point sent four teams to Washington at the same time, although the lacrosse and tennis teams have played Washington and the baseball nine has, of course, played the Navy at Annapolis in former years.

The squads will comprise 54 cadets and ten officers and coaches, for whom elaborate plans are formulated for a dinner dance at the Wardman Park Hotel on Saturday night, April 26.

This year the Army baseball and lacrosse men will play the University of Maryland, the games taking place Saturday afternoon after their arrival. The tennis match will be with George Washington University and the rifle team will compete against Georgetown University.

The West Point contingent will make their headquarters at Wardman Park.

Ovation Given To Winner of Primary Fight

Women's Press Club Is Host to Mrs. Ruth McCormick.

Welcoming its own, the Women's National Press Club had Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick as speaker at its weekly luncheon held at the Willard yesterday. She told in vividly interesting fashion something of how she had built up the great organization of volunteer workers which brought her smashing victory in the Illinois primaries. The first woman ever nominated for the United States Senate, Mrs. McCormick is a member of the Women's Press Club, eligible through being owner, editor and publisher of the Rockford Republic.

With Mrs. McCormick yesterday was Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, wife of the Speaker. The two had been much regretted absentees at the Press Club's annual dinner and cabaret grill, held on the very day of Mrs. McCormick's victory, when Mrs. Longworth was in Chicago helping her count the votes. Both were given a warm welcome yesterday by the club and Mrs. McCormick received something of an ovation after her talk.

Club members were out in force, many of them entertaining friends. A guest of honor was Mrs. Carrie Clarke, owner and publisher of the Daily Republican, of Trenton, Mo.—"home town" of the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Arthur M. Hyde. Her family has controlled this paper for over 60 years.

Others glimpsed at the luncheon were Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor, who admitted that, having a campaign in the family, she was there to learn about campaigning from Mrs. McCormick; Mrs. Clyde Kelly, Mrs. James R. Mann, widow of a former Speaker of the House; Miss Violet Oakley, famous artist, whose "Geneva Drawings" are rousing so much interest at the Corcoran Gallery of Art; Mrs. Minnigerode Adams, Mrs. Peter Arthur Drury and Adams Mrs. Peter Arthur Drury and Mrs. Henry Parsons Erwin.

The second annual card party of the Phi Gammi Pi Sorority will be held on the evening of Monday, April 28, at 8:30 o'clock at Sholl's, in new La Salle Building at Connecticut avenue and L street northwest.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Rollandet will arrive Sunday at Wardman Park Hotel from Denver, Colo. They will pass several days here before sailing for the Netherlands.

Mr. Rollandet is Vice Consul for the Netherlands in Colorado and New Mexico.

Mrs. William R. Bull, of Pelham Manor, N. Y., is at the Carlton for a brief stay. She is accompanied by her two daughters, Miss Frances Bull and Miss Barbara Bull.

Mrs. John A. Hull Leaves for Chicago.

Mrs. John A. Hull left yesterday for Chicago, where she will be the guest of Mrs. Arthur Bendalare until Saturday. She will go thence to Ponca City, Okla., to be the guest of Mr. E. W. Marland, donor of the heroic memorial to the pioneer woman, which Mrs. Hull will unveil on April 22. She will also visit Gov. Holloway of Oklahoma, and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips on their ranch for a few days, returning to Washington on April 30. CENSUS COUNT ENDS IN MANY DISTRICTS

DIFFICULTIES ARE MET

The census count in 225 enumeration areas of the District were completed last night, according to J. Sterling Moran, supervisor, and all save 50 or 60 of the 403 districts are expected to be recorded by tonight. The figures on the District tabulation will be available within a month, he said.

Despite the fact that a number of enumerators have resigned because they contended they could not earn enough at 4 cents a name, a survey of 20 of the best workers reveals that they have averaged $6 and $8 a day since the census began, according to the supervisor.

In Anacostia, where one enumerator threw up the job after getting only 11 names during three days, another worker counted 1,055 persons, 17 farms and filled out 100 voting and unemployment sheets within 35 hours, averaging $10.30 a day on an eight-hour basis.

Apartment houses have offered the greatest problem to the enumerators, some of them having had to call eight or ten times before finding any one at home. There have been between 50 and 60 refusals to answer the questions, but as yet no action has been taken. The penalty is $100 fine, 60 days in jail, or both.

One family in particular has proved a problem to the local Census Bureau. A man, his wife and his mother-in-law have greeted every question with "You'll have to see Vice President Curtis." And no argument has been able to produce anything additional as yet.

Any persons who have not been enumerated by tonight are urged by Mr. Moran to write to the District Census Bureau for blanks to be filled out. Some families are bound to be missed for one reason or another, and these are asked to cooperate by notifying the supervisor's office.

You don't COOK SPAGHETTI BLINDFOLD

Why BUY it BLINDFOLD?

COOKING with bandaged eyes! It's no more of a handicap than buying blindfold—asking for macaroni or spaghetti without any maker's name imprinted to guarantee its purity.

Every package of Mueller's macaroni, spaghetti, egg-noodles or elbow-macaroni is triple-sealed. You know that nothing has touched the product since it left the factory.

Why Take Chances?

Do you know the same about macaroni or spaghetti that you buy "in bulk"—loose, out of some barrel or box that has lain, perhaps open and exposed to dust and dirt?

You owe it to yourself and to your family to buy food about which you are absolutely sure. When you buy Mueller's, you are sure beyond question—and you know also that it is made of a special blend of farina, the most nutritious part of the finest wheat.

Unexcelled Nourishment

Mueller's macaroni products are made according to special, exclusive processes, which assure an exceptional lightness when boiled nine minutes according to the directions on the package. This prevents the frequent mistake of overcooking. No other macaroni or spaghetti cooks up so light and "fluffy," or so high in food value.

Rudy Vallee Thrilled By His First Record

Authorities at Maine University Allowed Him to Use Campus Buildings for Practice Purposes; Tests and Contracts Later Obtained.

By RUDY VALLEE.

CHAPER XXV.

It's in the Wax.

Making phonograph records always had a great fascination for me. My first thrill of hearing my voice in song or saxophone in solo came when I was at the University of Maine in 1921.

The authorities of the University of Maine were interested enough in my musical efforts to allow me the use of some of the buildings on the campus for my practice. The agricultural part of the college had a large building known as Agricultural Hall where one learned all the science of the soil and animal life of the farm and barn yard. High up on the fourth floor were large class rooms that were empty at night. In one of these I used to practice certain very disagreeable sounding exercises. For instance, for the development of saxophone tone I started with the lowest note on the sax and held it as long as the deep breath I had just taken would permit. I have held certain notes of the saxophone for two minutes.

Of course nothing could be more monotonous or unpleasant to hear than these long tone exercises since it took me one hour to come up the scale, holding each note as long as possible. Therefore, to avoid driving others to insanity, I sought complete isolation where I had the comfortable feeling that I was disturbing no one and likewise would not be disturbed.

Used Dictaphones There.

In some of the various offices on this floor were Ediphones, or dictaphones, as they are more commonly known. Since a letter dictated into one of these could be reproduced for the stenographer's ear, I saw no reason why I could not likewise reproduce music; and so I recorded on these round dictaphone cylinders several simple melodies on the saxophone, announcing them very much in the fashion the old Edison cylinders announced the name of the record.

Although the dictaphone is perfected for the recording of speech in letter form, it is far from perfect when one attempts to record a sustained musical tone on it. The rotation of the wax disk upon which a musical sound has been recorded must be absolutely perfect and the tube or horn, which leads the sound to the needle that scratches upon the wax disk must be of a certain type and size to catch all of the notes being reproduced. The dictaphone being imperfect in this respect proved to be quite unsatisfactory for perfect reproduction of my musical efforts.

However, it gave me some idea of phrasing, style and tone. I still have several of these old dictaphone cylinders stowed away and prize them very highly, perhaps as highly as some of our Victor records that today are so popular.

Audition by Edison Co.

Easter vacation, 1922, saw my first chance to really record a saxophone solo. The Victor Co. had written me in response to my letter inquiring about the possibility of recording a saxophone solo, that they had their saxophone artists and saw no opening for me.

However, the Edison co., having no great saxophone artist, promised me an audition and a test recording.

The Columbia Phonograph Co. maintains what is known as a personal record department which will record, for the sum of $50, any vocal or instrumental sounds which can be recorded on a 10-inch record, that plays for three minutes. This recording is done in the same room that the greatest of their artists use, on the same machines and with the same experts that are devoted to these artists. Then they allow you the choice of one of two proofs, as in the case of proofs of photographs and the one selected can be purchased singly at $1 or in lots of 500 at 50 cents each.

Wanted to Hear Whiteman.

It was worth $50 to me (although that seemed a lot of money then) to go to New York and do this. So, I arranged a day during my Eastern vacation of 1922 to perform a simple solo. I left Bangor, Me., with three great objectives: First, to see and hear Paul Whiteman's orchestra at the Palais Royal; second, to meet Rudy Wiedoeft personally (as his manager had promised me an appointment) and, third, to make my first solo record.

As the train stopped in New Haven for a few minutes and I saw those young college boys, dressed in the height of college fashion, I never dreamed that I would some day be on that same station platform, likewise a Yale man, and wearing the same type of clothes.

In New York, I realized every one of my ambitions. It was my first visit to the metropolis and I was duly impressed, as every small town person probably is.

Sits Among Band Players.

The Palais Royal was at its height in beauty and popularity. Whiteman's band was never better. After introducing myself to one of the finest men in the band—a young Californian named Don Clark, who arranged a great many of Whiteman's wonderful recordings and who was likewise a Wiedoeft protege and perhaps as great a saxophonist as Wiedoeft himself—I sat among the players and was thrilled as only a country boy listening to the world's greatest band could be.

Clark was very interested when he knew I was going to meet Wiedoeft and we became quite firm friends.

The following day came my appointment with Wiedoeft. His manager, Joe Davis, whom I have mentioned before, had been very friendly in his letters to me and finally did lead me to the greatest saxophonist in the world.

I found Wiedoeft so wonderful that I have told you about him, more in detail, elsewhere.

Two days later I made my first real record. I will never forget how nervous I was as I made the Columbia record of a simple semiclassic called "Japanese Sunset."

After making two "masters" of this tune I went over to the Edison recording laboratories, where I was given a test and where they asked me if I could record a very fast technical solo. But I had only been studying the instrument a little over a year and my mastery was far from the brilliant technical solo stage. I knew my limitations and told them that I could only play a simple tonal solo, such as "Mighty Lak' a Rose." They recorded this, and although it was satisfactory tonally it was not the type of solo they wanted, so nothing came of it.

Returns to Maine Happy.

I went back to Maine very happy with the realization of all my dreams.

My first recording with a band came when I substituted for a sick saxophonist in a Boston band then playing in New York. This was back in 1923, when I was playing for Gilda Gray at the Rendezvous with a group of Yale boys. We did a phonograph record for Victor which was not released, but which I heard many times afterward and which showed me that I had a good recording tone.

That same summer I recorded another solo for another company. I paid them even more than I had paid the Columbia company, but this record was a fine investment. On the strength of it the English phonograph companies promised me the opportunity of making many records, for which they agreed to pay me very well.

I made my decision to go to London after two years at Yale, and with a wonderful contract in my possession I sailed for London in the fall of 1924.

Very Busy in London.

No sooner had I arrived in London than I found myself in a very fortunate position. The Havana Band with which I was placed and which was composed wholly of Englishmen was just finishing a contract with Columbia and was about to enter into a new contract with the Victor Co. Columbia knew that they were losing a fine drawing card and so began recording the Havana Band in a series of oldtime waltzes which could be released long after the termination of the contract. The Victor Co., on the other hand, wished to be able to release several records as soon as the contract had begun. And so I was kept very busy during my first few weeks in London, jumping from the Columbia Co. to the Victor Co. and getting three times the number of recordings that the Havana Band had formerly been enjoying.

The extra pound ($4.86) I received, along with the pianist and the director, convinced me that my recording work was satisfactory, especially since I had not asked for it. It seemed that my barytone saxophone "took the wax" exceedingly well, and it brought me a great deal of extra recording while in England.

I also had the extreme pleasure of accompanying Beatrice Lillie and Gertrude Lawrence in their first English Victor record. And I will never forget how happy I was to ride back to London from the little country town where the English Victor Co was in the car owned by Miss Lillie, who had been kind enough to offer me the lift back. It gave me a great deal of pleasure to meet her again when she came to the Shubert Theater in New Haven while I was at Yale.

Back to Yale in 1925.

I returned to Yale in the fall of 1925. During the winter I led four other boys at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club at Rye, the greatest country club in the world. At the end of the winter season of this little orchestra I interested the boys in making a personal Columbia record of "You'll Love Me Some Day, So Why Not Now?" and several tunes on the opposite side of the record.

The other side of the record was paid for by a man who sold records on campus territory. He ordered a thousand of the records and the Yale students bought them like hot cakes. Many of the boys sent them to their girls at various girls' schools, and even today I get a tremendous thrill when I find that little personal record in various places.

When I returned to Yale for my senior year there had been so many demands for more of this record that the dealer decided to purchase more. The tunes on the other side were now out of date; so on the afternoon preceding the Yale-Princeton game, 1926, I recorded a saxophone solo of "Kiss Me Again." And again the record sold excellently.

Learned He Had Recording Voice.

I did not record again until the summer of 1927, following my graduation, when I arranged a recording date with the Edison Phonograph Co. for the Yale Collegians, with whom I had been in vaudeville for the second time. We made "You'll Love Me Some Day," and another tune, which was released later.

During the summer, however, I received the first inkling that I had a recording voice. A band with which I had once played in Maine several years previous was playing in New York City and I watched them making some Edison records.

They had a vocal trio which did not sound so good on the "play back;" the leader asked me if I wished to try singing. Nothing loath, I consented and I did the finished records with them, receiving nothing for it. That was in September, 1927.

It was the January following that I began at the Heigh-Ho Club with my present group of boys. Soon after we organized we made several tests for a small company, which did not turn out well.

In the summer of 1928, when we played at Rye, the writer of "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby," arranged a test for me with Victor; and even though I was suffering from a severe sore throat and cold, the test was quite satisfactory and I was promised some incidental vocal choruses with some other bands.

The fall found us recording with a small company, a subsidiary of the Columbia Co. These records netted this company a small fortune; in fact they are still making considerable profits on records we made before we finished recording with them.

The Victor scouts saw our possibilities, and I likewise saw the realization of my dreams in a wonderful Victor contract. They gave me complete freedom of the laboratories, which is something unheard of. They put on a great advertising campaign and our relations with Victor have been most pleasant.

Describes Process.

Recording work is interesting. As I feel that the average layman is just as curious about the art of making records as I had been, I will describe the process.

Today all recording is done through the microphone, which is simply an electrical means of conveying the sounds from the instruments, or the vocalist, to the needle which records the sound upon a wax disk. In the old days of horn recording, horns were used to conduct the sound.

We get to the laboratory about 9 in the morning and run over the first tune once or twice to get warmed up. When the tune has been sufficiently rehearsed we play it over once into the microphone; then the recording director, by placing a different type of needle on the wax grooves which have just finished catching the sound, plays it right back to us and we listen to the sounds we have just made, very much like a dictaphone recording.

This "play back" enables us to check up on incorrect positions of some of the men, and the length of the record, and indicates places where certain individuals are too strong or too weak.

After making the necessary adjustments, which we check up on by more "play backs," we finally make a "master." With the knowledge that it is a "master," everyone becomes all nerved up, since one very bad note spoils the whole piece. However, unless luck is completely unfavorable, four "masters" are made of the tune. These go to the factory, are made into finished records and the best out of the three or four "masters" is the one that reaches the Victor stores.

There is no more tense or disheartening work than making records, because there are times when it seems impossible to make one "master." In England, he who spoilt a "master" twice had to take the whole bunch out to a nearby pub for a drink.

I am very proud of the fact that the Victor Co. has faith enough in us to leave us to our own salvation without the usual monitorship of a recording expert. All our records have been our own original ideas. The Victor Co. has just renewed our contract for two years. This act, done by their very conservative directors at Camden makes me happy, as it shows their faith in us as a permanent musical attraction and that they believe we are not a fad. Now, I have reached the exact opposite records, which today strikes the recording executives as extremely humorous.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

THE man credited with first staging the Black Bottom as a dance, Mr. George White, is on his way to town with his latest edition of "Scandals," scheduled to open at Poli's Theater next Monday night—for a week's run.

* * * * *

EASTER Monday in Washington, therefore, will see the downtown theater district all dolled up for the egg rolling. Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, managing director of the National Theater Players, is all het up over a revival he plans; a revival of Otis Skinner's celebrated vehicle, "The Honor of the Family."

* * * * *

UNTIL "The Honor of the Family" occupies the National stage, the players will continue to serve up a delectable little farce called "Nancy's Private Affair," a play by Myron Fagan that gives Miss Marion Wells her first real opportunity since coming here as leading lady.

* * * * *

ROGER PRYOR, former leading man with the National Theater Players, has landed on Broadway as juvenile in a play called "Apron Strings." Mr. Pryor, it may or may not be remembered, is the son of the celebrated Arthur Pryor, former trombonist in the United States Marine Band and now leading his own—band.

* * * * *

THE box-office boys down at the National, led by Mr. Russell Thomas, the keen-cut treasurer, wish to remind the public that there is a single performance in the offing: George C. Tyler's all-star cast in Sheridan's comedy, "The Rivals." The booking is for Sunday night, May 11—and tickets are now on sale.

Bingham Group Visited By New Commissioners

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, newly appointed District Commissioners, yesterday paid another visit to the Capitol, meeting members of the Senate District subcommittee on appropriations headed by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut.

The call, Commissioner Reichelderfer said afterward, was a matter of courtesy. "We thought," he explained with a slight smile, "that perhaps some time in the future we might have to go before congressional committees and that it might be of advantage to the District and to Congress that we should meet the senators and congressmen and they should know us."

Maybe Youre Paying too Much For Gas - - - - because You're Paying too Little

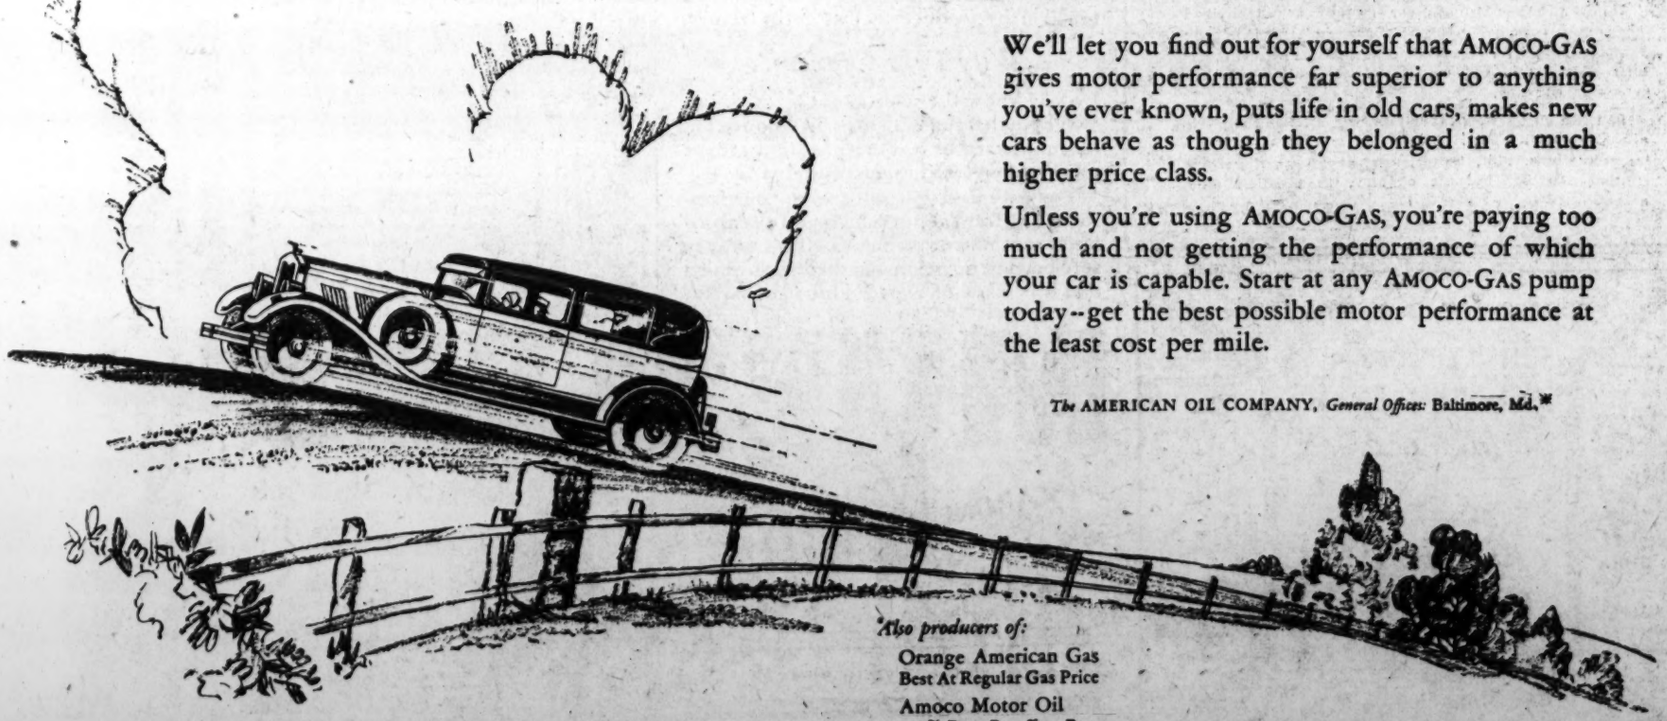
UNLESS you're using AMOCO-GAS, you're paying too much for gas. For although AMOCO-GAS costs more per gallon, it actually costs less per mile.

You'll find, first, that AMOCO-GAS gives extra miles to each gallon—enough of them to make up for the extra initial cost. And you'll find over a period of time that AMOCO-GAS substantially reduces operating costs, cuts down on your repair bills, keeps your car on the road and out of the shop.

Hundreds of big users operating thousands of trucks have proved the economy of AMOCO-GAS by actual and accurate tests. Motorists in ten states have proved it. Let your own car prove it to you.



We'll let you find out for yourself that AMOCO-GAS gives motor performance far superior to anything you've ever known, puts life in old cars, makes new cars behave as though they belonged in a much higher price class.

Unless you're using AMOCO-GAS, you're paying too much and not getting the performance of which your car is capable. Start at any AMOCO-GAS pump today—get the best possible motor performance at the least cost per mile.

TODAY'S Buying Decisions

are made in the Vita-Minute hours!

YOU'RE in the middle of your newspaper, some morning, when it occurs to you that you should have new shoes. It was probably an advertisement that put the idea there—an advertisement which you may not have been conscious of seeing, but a picture of shoes, or the word itself, registered in your mind and stopped you.

If another glance at the shoes-idea in your mind confirms it, if you do want shoes, you most probably buy shoes that same day.

It was a Vita-Minutes idea; it came while your mind was fresh, rested, quick-thinking, quick to decide. By coming at the right time, "shoes" became a part of your day.

Suppose the "shoes" idea came to you while you were in the midst of your day? The chances are that nothing would be done about it that day; it would be put off.

You know what mostly happens to things that get put off! Their place on your what-to-do program is a vague one.

The morning idea, the idea that comes during the Vita-Minute hours, gets attention.

There is one of the great values in the morning paper to both reader and advertiser. As long as the Vita-Minute hours are the hours during which plans are made, and are also the hours during which the morning paper is read, the morning paper will contribute to that day's buying-ideas.

The morning Post, in other words, helps you to buy and helps merchants to sell. Its intensive coverage of Washington and its large outlying circulation give the merchant the buying-audience he wants; and the fact that he has this valuable tool to use in the increase of his sales enables him to offer you both better merchandise and better values than if he couldn't reduce his selling cost (as he does) by making The Post an extension of his show-windows.

If he could only get you to look in his show-windows during the Vita-Minutes! His advertisement in the morning Post is the next-best thing.

BOY SHERIFF IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Ousted Official Not Named as Prosecutor's Slayer at Inquest.

SANITY QUIZ SUGGESTED

Mauston, Wis., April 15 (A.P.).—Lyall Wright, ousted "boy sheriff" of Juneau County, was bound over for preliminary hearing on a murder charge today a few minutes after a coroner's jury refused to name him as the assassin of Clinton G. Price, district attorney.

The jury deliberated only 44 minutes before returning a verdict that Price had died Monday from gunshot wounds inflicted four hours before by a man unknown, who fired on the district attorney as he stood in the kitchen of his home. Wright, who has been held since a few hours before Price's wounds caused death, entered no plea when he was arraigned. Preliminary hearing was set for April 22.

At the inquest Sheriff Edward Hempelman and his deputies repeated their stories of gathering the circumstantial evidence which caused Wright's arrest. They told how a trail of stains believed by them to be blood, led from the rear of Price's home to Wright's home, with only a few breaks. Doctors testified that the former sheriff had a severed artery on his right hand which would cause the blood to spurt forth.

Defense attorneys let it be known that they may seek a sanity hearing for Wright. It was recalled today that Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, after removing Wright from office in 1928, had suggested such a hearing. Sheriff Hempelman said his prisoner had been extremely nervous and has been talking incoherently ever since he was jailed.

Sheriff Hempelman announced he was searching for Stanley Smitzki, a friend of Wright, who was seen talking with him on the street Saturday to question him.

$10,000 Suit Is Filed In Death of Boy, 10

Roberta V. Corby, administratrix of the estate of her 10-year-old grandson, Warren M. Stearns, who was killed several weeks ago when struck down by an automobile, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against McGuire & Rolfe, Inc., paving contractors, who are alleged to have owned the truck that killed the lad.

Damages of $10,000, the maximum for death, are asked. Negligence on the part of the operator of the truck is charged. Attorney Maurice M. Grudd appears for the plaintiff.

Bill Seeks Closing Of Roads for Work

Construction of Alice Deal School Causes Move by Commissioners.

Closing of several streets and alleys in the Reno section is authorized in a bill prepared by the District Commissioners and sent yesterday to the House District committee with a request that it be introduced and enacted at this session of Congress.

The streets involved are through property which has been or is in process of being acquired for a site for the Alice Deal Junior High School in the vicinity of Fifty-eighth place, Pesenden and Howard streets. Four squares already have been acquired by the District and Federal governments, and parts of two others and condemnation proceedings have been instituted and awards made to the owners of the remaining property in the two squares to which title has not been entirely acquired.

Streets which it is proposed to close include Emery place, Vincent street, Donaldson place and McPherson street, together with the public alleys in the area embraced within the high school site. Funds for construction of the new school are provided in the 1930 appropriation act, and work will be begun immediately the hindering technicalities are removed.

Man Faces Contempt Trial After Threats

John Mack, colored, who is alleged to have threatened to stab Richard Cox, acting chief of the vice squad, in the witness room adjoining the District of Columbia Branch of Police Court will be arraigned tomorrow morning before Judge Isaac R Hitt on charges of contempt of court.

The Negro is alleged to have intervened in a conversation Cox was holding with several of his men, accusing him of using vile language in the presence of his wife. Court attaches said the Negro threatened to stab Cox with a pocketknife, which was later found in his possession. Cox was waiting in the witness room to testify against the Negro's wife, Anna, in a liquor-possession case.

The blend that revolutionized smoking

THE INCOMPARABLE BLEND of Camel Cigarettes is probably the most important discovery in the history of smoking. It made cigarette smoking popular. Camel changed the smoking habits of the nation and has given pleasure to more millions of people than any other cigarette.

This exclusive blend assures in Camel a smoothness, a mildness and a mellow fragrance that cannot be imitated. It preserves all the excellent qualities of the choice tobaccos of which Camels are made and melds them all together into a delightful harmony of smoke pleasure. It sets Camel apart as a cigarette of distinctive character and provides for Camel smokers the very highest form of smoking luxury.

MINE CHIEF TO FACE CONTEMPT CHARGES

John Lewis Revokes Charter of Subdistrict of United Workers.

INJUNCTION CAUSES STIR

Springfield, Ill., April 15 (A.P.).—Coincidental with the revocation of the charter of subdistrict 4, Springfield, of the Illinois district of the United Mine Workers of America today by John Lewis, international president of the "regular" miners' union, the Sangamon County Circuit Court announced that Lewis would be cited for contempt tomorrow morning as the result of his activities in this State since October of last year.

In revoking the subdistrict charter, Lewis charges John Hindmarsh subdistrict president, and other officials of the division with open secession from the union and with making efforts to set up a dual organization.

President Lewis explained that ordinarily the subdistrict officers would be given a hearing before the international executive board, but that under an amendment to the constitution of the Mine Workers, the president is given the power to act immediately in case of revolt. John Young, of Springfield, was named provisional president of the subdistrict.

Judge Orders Citation.

Announcement that Mr. Lewis will be cited for contempt was made by Circuit Judge Frank W. Burton here this afternoon following a conference with Judge Norman L. Jones, who issued the restraining order. The citation will be issued by Judge Burton when the court convenes tomorrow morning.

The citation order is to be made returnable April 30, court attaches revealed. Whether the hearing will be held before Judge Burton or Judge Jones has not been decided.

Attorneys for State President Harry Fishwick, of the miners' union, asked that Mr. Lewis be called into court for contempt, after the international president established a provisional government for the union in Illinois about a month ago. The temporary restraining order specifically forbade Lewis to set up a provisional government.

Enjoining Order Approved.

The enjoining order has been approved by the appellate court, which held that Mr. Lewis might damage property rights of members of the United Mine Workers of America in this State by revoking the Illinois charter.

Officers of the provisional government here, contend, however, that the injunction which was issued in October of last year does not apply to the present situation. They claim that by participating in the reorganization convention here in March at which Alex Howat, of Kansas, was elected president of the new "International Mine Workers of America," the Illinois officers are guilty of dual unionism and are no longer members of the union.

Negroes Ask President To Refuse Parker Place

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today made public a letter written to President Hoover in which the Chief Executive was asked to withdraw his nomination of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, as associate justice of the Supreme Court.

The announcement said receipt of the letter had been acknowledged by the White House.

Judge Parker's nomination as associate justice is opposed by the association because he is alleged to have made remarks "adverse to the Negro's voting" during a political speech.

Hope Abandoned For Missing Flier

Wreckage Found in Ocean Not That of Student Airman's Plane.

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—The search for Ralph White, aviator, who disappeared i na fog Sunday during a solo flight over Long Island, centered in the Atlantic Ocean off Rockaway Point today, but the bit of wreckage found tossing about on the water was not that of the student flier's black and orange ship. The wreckage was sighted by steamships off the point near Fort Tilden, N. Y.

Fellow pilots have given up hope for White's safety. He had only a four-hour supply of gasoline when he took off from the Curtiss Airport at Valley Stream, N. Y., and a heavy fog disappeared in a fog Sunday during a landmarks shortly after he had gained the air.

The search for the missing pilot and plane continued throughout the day. A fleet of 50 craft engaged in the hunt.

Clean-UpCampaign Urged for Capital

Reichelderfer and Crosby Make First Appearance at Finance Hearing.

Characterizing trash-filled, weedy vacant lots as eye sores particularly undesirable in the tourist season, Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, yesterday urged District officials to sponsor a clean-up campaign affecting both public and privately owned property.

The two new Commissioners, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, made their first appearance yesterday before the District subcommittee of the Senate appropriations committee, which met to consider proposed changes in the District appropriation bill. Several representatives of women's organizations appeared with requests that funds be provided for the maintenance of the House of Detention in its present quarters during the coming year. As passed by the House the appropriations bill did not include rental for the institution, which is scheduled to be moved into property being purchased by the District in the municipal center area.

Recommendations as to changes in the bill will not be announced until the measure is reported by the appropriations committee.

Mississippi Officials Charged With Bribery

Jackson, Miss., April 15 (A.P.).—A Senate committee investigating State offices today brought charges of bribery against Bryce Alexander, Mississippi railroad commissioner, and R. E. Steen, representative in the Legisalture from Sharkey County, in connection with the granting of bus franchises.

The committee report alleged that Alexander and Steen engaged in "shakedowns" of certain applicants for franchises to operate bus lines in the State. No recommendation was made to the Legislature as regards action against the officials.

How I coaxed him to eat!

"ONCE I was worried. Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and was beneficial to the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

It is a known fact that when a man's system gets "run-down," he hasn't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play. It is dangerous to let the red-blood-count remain below normal.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

It is natural to expect, when you get your blood cells up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, and those skin troubles to disappear. You should get hungry again, sleep soundly, and firm flesh take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong and your nerves become steady.

You owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

S.S.S.

S. S. S. is daily helping people to regain their strength. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It promotes a keen appetite, gives vitality to the body, clears the skin and wards off disease. All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. © S.S.S. Co.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to get rid of cutworms which have in the past seasons ruined all my best dahlias and also my early annuals.
MRS. GODFREY F. J.

If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to tell you of a proprietary perparation that will entirely eradicate your garden of these pests.

My English ivy, which I keep in my steam-heated office, is continually getting new shoots, but as soon as these appear the old ones die. Please advice me how to overcome this condition. P. N.

Better keep your ivy as far removed from the radiators as possible. It is usually a lack of fresh air combined with warm, dry air that is responsible for this condition. Be sure to spray your plants at least every other day with cold water.

Please tell me what you mean by the inclosed statement pertaining to manure which I read in this paper a few days ago. I want to follow this suggestion, but I do not know how to proceed. S. J. S.

I am sorry, but I am unable to answer your question. First, I did not write the article of which you inclosed a few sentences. Second, with only a few detached sentences, I do not know what the writer meant. If you had sent the entire article, I feel sure I could have helped you. The writer is evidently recommending a commercial fertilizer.

Please tell me of a cheap chemical one can use on leaves to cause them to decay. The name I am inclosing will do the work, but it is too expensive for my purse. ETHEL R.

I am so sorry, but the chemical to which you refer is the only one I know that is said to cause leaves to decay, and, to be truthful, I only know of this preparation. I have never had any personal experience with its use.

I am interested in the pyrus japonica, but can not find a firm that lists this shrub. Will you please help me?
MILDRED K.

I am sorry, but we can not publish names or addresses in this column. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you the names of several firms listing this shrub.

Please tell me why, when I have just removed my geraniums from small pots and placed them in rich soil in large pots, they cease to bloom. It is not a case of too little water, for I water them every day and sometimes even twice a day.
HARRIET Y. L.

You have no doubt overpotted the plants and are giving them too much water. Geraniums must be kept on the dry side and must be a trifle potbound if they are to produce flowers and not just foliage.

Please tell me when to sow sweetpea seed. I usually do this in the fall, but last year, due to illness, I was unable to do this.
MISS MABEL H. T.

Better sow your sweetpea seed at once. The sooner you do so the earlier you will have the plants in bloom.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift directly in this column if addressed in care of this newspaper, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

DAHLIAS FOR THE HOME.
(Bureau of Plant Industry.)

Planting—Dormant roots can be planted as soon as all danger of frost is past and green plants somewhat later. Dormant stock is sometimes held for planting until June without any difficulty, except that of continued storage. Late planting is absolutely necessary in the South, because unless delayed in growth, the plants would reach maturity in midsummer; the stems would harden up, and the growth become so stunted that few if any flowers would result.

After preparing the soil as directed, the roots should be set in the field in rows 3 to 4 feet apart and as far apart in the row as is desired. If the plants are arranged so that they do not come opposite each other in the rows, but are staggered, some space is saved. Plants spaced equidistantly in this way or in a rectangular plan produce finer specimens than those crowded in the row, and when so planted, can be given extra food and care with resulting flowers of finer size and quality. The root should be laid on its side with the growing shoot nearest the stake. This stake should be set in place at planting time in order that no damage may be done to the new roots late in the season and that the young plant may have the support of the stake from its earliest development.

The plants should be kept well and deeply cultivated until blooming commences. After that ordinary tillage is sufficient. This treatment is better than any amount of water, as it produces normal rather than a sappy growth.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Taffeta has a way with it—for instance, there is a swish and a swirl to this yellow one with its lovely black flowers. (Courtesy Redfern, Paris.)

Paris, April 15.

HAVE you been a regular spectator at the yearly fashion fur race, given under the auspices of Miladi Elegante? There is always, of course, one fur way ahead of the others; but just when you think that particular "beast" has won the race, there is a spurt from behind, a rush ahead, and presto, pronto, another fur is in the lead!

The never-very-humble ermine has taken the lead on the last lap of the fashion race. Ermine has become so popular that almost no black or navy blue summer frock or suit is really complete without a touch of it. And three tiny tails or a very narrow border or edging do give a delightfully brightening touch to those dark colors. There is a certain richness of effect in ermine, in the very whiteness of it, that is never achieved in quite the same way by any other fur.

Such a delicate touch as that of ermine is applicable to the long black gloves that Miladi does so love to wear with her new mode—and what would you say if tiny ermine tails were attached to her black suede handbag, for instance? Or if the "feather in her cap" were an ermine tail or two?

Not to mention the smartest of all, tiny cape-like coats snug and short and short-sleeved, in the manner of the hug-me-tight, made entirely of ermine, and lined with black georgette like the dress or suit under it! This is a Worth idea and is particularly smart with black for dressy afternoon or for evening wear.

Oh, ermine has a way with it!

Black flowers, printed as though they were painted on with an airbrush, on pale yellow taffeta, is the latest thing in Redfern art. There are certain kinds of tropical flowers which show no colors in the moonlight, yet when the moon is deeply full and low in the sky, the night is bathed in an old gold light, and trees and flowers in black.

Let's see, where was I? Oh, yes, it was the yellow taffeta gown that I have sketched for you today.

Dolling up your kitchen a la Dare—you might guess it would be good! Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, and find out for yourself how good it is. There are ideas for curtains and linoleum, a tricky apron design for a special apron for washing dishes, a novel and practical recipe book you can make yourself, and lots of other original ideas both for the smart modern kitchen and the smart little lady in it. You'll be tickled to death with this leaflet—better send for it!

Sleeves are going to be short this summer, so may I not suggest that you give more than a passing glance to the beauty of your arms from the elbow down? It can have its face cream and nourishing skin food, as well as your face, you know. And an application of peroxide one day and spirits of ammonia the next will bleach out that fuzzy down long before you'll wish that you didn't have it.

And there are other beauty hints of value in the weekly Dare fashion letter that appears in the big Sunday Post each week.

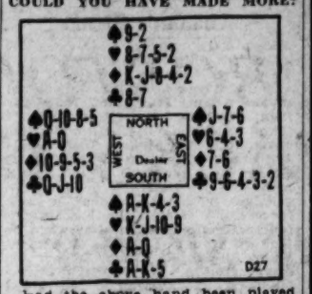
WORK'S BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE MADE MORE?



had the above hand been played in a game of Auction Bridge, South would have bid one No Trump; West might have doubled although his hand was a little weak for that declaration. If he had, East would have bid two Clubs and South two No Trumps. If West passed, North and East also would have passed.

At Contract Bridge South, with a hand counting 24 and all four suits thoroughly stopped, bid three No Trumps; which was followed by three passes.

West led the Spade Five which South won and, noting that dummy held no entry in Spades, Hearts or Clubs to enable the running of the Diamonds, led the Ace of Diamonds to trick 2, and the Queen of Diamonds to trick 3. North overtaking with the King. North then led the Jack of Diamonds. South discarding the Trey of Spades; but when it turned out that West had the Ten of Diamonds remaining, dummy could take no more tricks. So Declarer's next effort was to lead a Heart from dummy and finesse in closed hand. West won, established his Spades, and when South led a second Heart to establish that suit, West won and took in two Spade tricks and one Diamond trick. The Declarer won the remaining tricks easily; but as West had captured two Spades, two Hearts and one Diamond, he had saved game.

Could you have made more than the Declarer did with this hand?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The Declarer should have appreciated that the probable division of the six adverse Diamonds was 4-2 (only about once in three times are six adverse cards evenly divided) and that as West had led the Five of Spades, dummy and closed hand holding the Deuce, Trey and Four of Spades, West had held only four Spades and could not take more than two Spades, South having the Ace and King. The Declarer could lose two Spades and two Hearts and still make game; so the best play to trick 2 would be to lead a Heart, conceding two Heart tricks to the adversaries and not risking the possibility of unnecessarily making good an adverse Diamond.

Played in this way West would win the first Heart and establish his Spades; but the Declarer, then establishing his Hearts, could be sure of game regardless of the distribution of the adverse Diamonds.

You will find lasting protection in the new fitted, softer Kotex

Kotex deodorizes; Kotex is softer, more absorbent, and thus adds both daintiness and comfort to sanitary protection.

YOU want a feeling of security and safety in your sanitary protection. But you want more than that, and Kotex gives you more.

First of all, it deodorizes, keeps you dainty, fresh, immaculate at times when that is doubly important. It is fashioned to fit securely. Under the closest fitting gown it is inconspicuous—a fact that smart women are quick to appreciate.

Lasting softness

Kotex is so soft, so comfortable after hours of wear. Many pads may seem comfortable at first, but they soon become stiff and chafing. Kotex stays soft, because it is made of a most unusual substance, known as Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. This is the very same absorbent used by 85% of our great hospitals today. It is not cotton, but a cellulose substance which, for sanitary purposes, performs the same function as the softest cotton—with five times the absorbency.

Kotex is disposable

And don't forget that Kotex is disposable. That alone has changed the hygienic habits of women all over the world. Once you try it, you, too, will change to this newer, smarter sanitary method. Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness that lasts for hours.

Pegler

NEW YORK, April 15.—The formal resumption of business at the Giants' ball yard was accomplished this afternoon with just enough ceremony to touch off the season without boring the patrons, a tactful adjustment when you consider how many aldermen, borough presidents and commissioners of one thing and another, there are in this town who could have been prevailed upon to march to the flagpole with their spats flashing in ragged unison and their walking sticks waving at the populace.

His honor, James J. Walker, the best dressed mayor the town has ever had, a compliment which always sets me to wondering just who was the best undressed mayor, lent the prestige of the current administration to the flag raising. The colors went up the short stump of a mast which stands atop the clubhouse in center field to the strains of the anthem blown into the nagging wind of a chilly afternoon from the horns and wood winds of an unidentified band in blue uniforms with scarlet linings in their capes.

Hay-Foot Parade Turns Back.

The athletes stood in the customary slumped, pigeon-toed attitudes of ball players standing at attention during the spring and autumn flag-raising ceremonies, the music rose to the warlike crescendo of the closing bars, the flag stood out like a painted flag on the gray back drop of the April sky, the hay-foot parade turned about and back across the field to the grandstand, and to the dugouts came the procession, there to disband and let the proceedings proceed.

His honor, the mayor, marched in the civilian group with Mr. John McGraw, who has marched all told as far as Gen. Coxey himself, out to the flag poles and back to the bench at spring openings, pennant hoistings and world series rites in his nigh onto twoscore years in the game. Also present were representatives of the stockholding interests of the two baseball firms, Mr. Charles A. Stoneham, preceded by his abdominal protuberence which protrudes a bit farther with each succeeding springtime, and Judge Emil Fuchs, proprietor of the Boston Braves.

The Mayor Orates In Microphone.

There was a last flurry of suppressed hysteria as the mayor gave his personal indorsement to the impending sport and the cause of the Giants in a brief oration into the microphone, and, finally, amid yelps from the crowd the athletes began to play a game of ball.

The show was a dramatic success, too, for it was not until the last half of the ninth inning that a boy came sliding across the plate on his spine with the run that won the contest for the Giants, 3 to 2, and that runner was young Eddie Marshall, a new second baseman trying to get along. With two men out, he had forced a runner at second and now he came tearing around to score from first on a long hit by Leach which rolled to the left field wall.

The display, on the whole, was quite expert, and it is no exaggeration to allege that any heavyweight prize-fighter who could box half as well as either of the teams played ball would

197,000 FANS SEE INAUGURAL GAMES

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—Although cold and threatening weather held down the attendance in some places, nearly 200,000 fans turned out today to see the opening games of the 1930 baseball season.

AL SIMMONS, SIGNED, HAMMERS HOMER ON FIRST TRIP TO PLATE

Yankees Held to Six Hits; Ruth Robbed of Circuit Clout.

Koenig and Lazzeri Pull "Twin Boner," Unparalleled.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

PHILADELPHIA, April 15 (A.P.).—Picking up the winning habit where they left off last October, Connie Mack's sprightly young band of Athletics started their 1930 American League campaign impressively today and to the complete satisfaction of 33,000 fans by trouncing the New York Yankees, 6 to 2.

It was a cold, gray day, more suited to football than to baseball, but otherwise there was nothing to disturb the home-town enthusiasm for the dashing and effective manner in which the world's champions got off their marks at the expense of the club generally picked to make it tough for them.

Macks Collectively Brilliant.

Al Simmons celebrated the last-minute signing of his contract by clouting a home run on his first turn at bat, Robert Moses Grove southpawed the Metropolitan Clan into an almost complete state of subjection and the A's collectively displayed every intention of going places and doing things this season. They jumped on the right-handed offerings of George Pipgras with considerable vehemence and made most of their eight hits count, aided and abetted by some very erratic Yankee defensive work. In short, the Mackmen looked and acted the part of the world's champions they are.

It was a typical Grove day with dark clouds overhead to make the field a bit hazy and Robert Moses made the most of the favorable circumstances after a somewhat slow start. After the third inning when the Yankees scored both their runs, Grove was virtually invincible. He allowed only three hits in the last six innings and only six altogether, as he mixed a baffling curve with his smoke-ball, and collected nine strikeout victims, including everyone in the Yankee lineup except Koenig and Gehrig.

Ruth Robbed of Homer By Loudspeaker.

But for some sloppy fielding by himself and Jimmy Foxx in the third inning, Grove might have had a shutout, in spite of a tremendous clout by Babe Ruth that was kept from going over the fence by striking the loud-speaking device in deep right center.

Koenig walked with one out in the third and Ruth then belted one that was labeled home run all the way.

Pirates Beat Reds, 7-6, Lead Changing 4 Times

Cincinnati, April 15 (A.P.).—Heavy hitting and a lead which changed hands four times featured today's opening game, which Pittsburgh won from the Reds by 7 to 6. Thirty-two hits were made for a total of 42 bases. Bartel and Hemsley hit consecutive home runs at the start of the second inning. Paul Waner led the Pirates' attack with four hits in as many times at bat. Both starting pitchers, Lucas and Kremer, were knocked from the box. The attendance was 30,112.

Giants Win in Ninth From Braves, 3 to 2

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—The New York Giants opened the National League season here today by taking a close but poorly played game from the Boston Braves, 3 to 2.

Bill Walker, Giant lefthanders, continued his winning streak of 1929 by pitching a fine game. An error was partly responsible for the two Boston runs and deprived him of his chances for a shutout. Harry Seibold, of Boston, was a bit weaker and received even worse support.

Seibold walked in the first run after a contributing error and another misplay gave New York its second counter. From the fourth inning to the ninth it was a scoreless duel. The winning runs came after two were out in the ninth. Leach doubled to bring in Marshall, who had reached first on a fielder's choice. The Braves had the better of the hitting, eleven blows to nine.

Sweetland, of Phils, Shuts Out Robins, 1-0

Brooklyn, April 15 (A.P.).—Lester Sweetland, Philadelphia southpaw ace, took complete charge of the opening game here today and shut out the Robins, 1 to 0. Sweetland held the Brooklyns to three hits, scattered through the first three innings, and his double in the eighth opened the rally which gave the Phillies their one run.

The largest opening-day crowd on record for Ebbets Field, estimated at 27,000, saw Sweetland and William Watson Clark, his left-handed rival, engage in a spectacular pitching duel. Sweetland needed help only in the first inning, when Hurst dived across the foul line to knock down Hendrick's bid for a single with two on base.

After the third inning, Sweetland retired eighteen men in order. Clark kept his hits well scattered until the late inning, with the run coming in the eighth. After the opposing pitcher's double, Clark nearly saved the game by fanning O'Doul on three pitches, but Klein came through with a hit.

10th Straight Game Won By G. U.

White, in Box Debut, Defeats Bucknell, 7-2, Fanning 11.

Georgetown Gets 14 Hits, Taking Lead at Start With 3 Runs.

By JACK ESPEY.

AN injury of the knee and the fact that it was his season's debut seemed to aid rather than hamper Russell "Packy" White, husky Georgetown University southpaw, as he chucked them by the batters of Bucknell yesterday at Washington Barracks.

"Packy" flipped them so well that Georgetown fairly coasted in to its tenth straight victory of the campaign, equaling the total number of wins registered by the Blue and Gray on the diamond last year. The score was 7 to 2, the Hilltoppers punching out fourteen hits and running wild on the bases.

White showed a nice change of pace, a tantalizing curve ball, a "hard" one that whizzed by the Bisons before they could lift their bats, and fair control. Eleven of the visiting batters flailed the air on third strikes and only three received passes. Their eight hits were scattered and White never seemed in danger.

White Indicates Old Form.

This was White's first start, his appearance being delayed on account of a knee injury sustained during the past basket ball season. Last year he was the most dependable hurler at the Hilltop, at times, and yesterday's exhibition indicated that he is due for another successful season.

The next most notable fact about the game, which was comparatively drab, was that only 1 hour and 35 minutes were consumed in completing it. That is express train speed for collegiate tossers. The first six innings were run off in less than an hour.

Forrest Long, who had little else but an arm and a ball, pitched the first seven innings for Bucknell, while Clark Hinkle, the leading football scorer of the country last fall, hurled the eighth and escaped unscored on. Previously he had held down first base. Neither his first basing nor pitching was related to the brand of football he played last year.

Score 3 Runs in First Inning.

Georgetown gathered an early lead and was never headed. Three runs on four hits and two errors were tallied in the opener, one run on one hit and an error in the second, and three runs on four hits in the seventh. Johnny Dunn led the attack with three singles in five trips plateward, while Capt. Ralph McCarthy, Walter Morris and Phil Mooney each hit safely twice. McCarthy showed the way to his mates on the base paths, stealing three bases. Mooney pilfered two and Dunn one.

Shortstop Shuman, of Bucknell, was injured at second base in a collision with McCarthy in the first inning and had to retire. Others of the Bisons might have gone along, too, for the game wouldn't have felt their absence. They didn't look like ball players.

California Probes Carnera Fiasco With Fans Enraged

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15 (A.P.).—Boxing circles buzzed today as the State Athletic Commission started to investigate conditions surrounding the heavyweight bout last night in Oakland between the giant Italian, Primo Carnera, and Leon Chevalier, San Francisco Negro.

Carnera won on a technical knockout in the sixth round, but the sudden and unexpected ending did not set well with spectators, who started a small riot.

The commission's stated plans were to determine why Bob Perry, one of Chevalier's seconds, tossed in a towel, thereby signalizing defeat for the Negro. Chevalier was not in much worse condition than his huge opponent at the time. Perry, hired for the evening, had no authority to throw in a towel, even if Chevalier had actually been in distress. Only the chief second is permitted to terminate bouts in that manner.

Spectators Attack Second.

Infuriated spectators attacked Perry and severely beat him, while many of Carnera's own countrymen mounted chairs and shouted "fake," meanwhile demanding that the bout be resumed.

Carnera's end of the purse, totaling $13,239, and Chevalier's $1,500, were held up pending the investigation. Commission members were particularly investigated in statements made by Mrs. Chevalier in which she declared her husband had been told he must lose the bout.

Questioning of Carnera and his retinue of handlers, including Leon See, of France; William "Bill" Duffy, of New York, and Frank Churchill, of Los Angeles, was scheduled for tomorrow.

Offer for Dempsey Bout Withdrawn.

An offer of $150,000 made yesterday to Carnera to meet Jack Dempsey "somewhere in California," was withdrawn today by William P. Kyne, San Francisco sportsman and one of the officials of the Tanforan Race Track near here.

The National Athletic Club at Seattle canceled Carnera's scheduled appearance there April 25 as a result of last night's bout.

10,000 See St. Louis Rally in Closing Rounds in Vain.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 15 (A.P.).—The slugging Chicago Cubs, champions of the National League, pounded five St. Louis Cardinal pitchers for fifteen hits and won the opening game of the season here today, 9 to 8, despite a ninth-inning Cardinal rally which threatened to turn the tide. Official attendance was 14,000.

The Cub attack included six doubles and a triple. Flint Rhem, who started on the mound for the locals, was knocked out in the third inning after he had allowed five doubles and three singles.

Then followed a parade of Card pitchers—Hill, Grabowski, Haid and Sherdel. The veteran Hill, who was released by the Pirates last year via the waiver route, proved the most effective, allowing only three hits and one run in five innings. He struck out four men, including Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson in succession in the seventh inning.

Grabowski and Haig Pounded by Cubs.

Hill was taken out for a pinch hitter, and the Cubs landed on Grabowski and Haid in the eighth for four runs, which seemed to put the game on ice. This rally came after the Cardinals had taken advantage of Guy Bush's wildness in the seventh and put over three runs.

In the ninth, Frisch tripled and Bottomley walked to start a rally. Fisher hit his fourth single of the game to score Frisch. Then Delbert, with two men on, struck out.

Webb Is Seen Successor To West

Big Outfielder From Reds Joins Team; Hits Ball Hard.

Hadley to Face Sox Today; Governor Tosses Out Ball.

Special to The Washington Post.

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Mass., April 15.—Outfielder Earl Webb, acquired by the Nats from the Cincinnati Reds via the waiver route, lost no time in reporting to Manager Walter Johnson, arriving here about noon and hustling to the ball park from the station.

While Manager Johnson will give no inkling as to his plans in connection with Webb, fans need not be surprised to see him, instead of Sam West, alternating in center field with George Loepp. West, who still rates highly as a fielder, has not shown much of a batting punch and there is no question but what stick power is what the Nats lack most.

Not only does Webb's ten-year record in baseball show that he always has been a slugger, but he hit the ball to all corners of the park in the pregame practice here this afternoon. West, no doubt, will get a longer trial, but the chances are that if he does not soon start delivering, he will find Webb filling his shoes against right-handed pitchers. If matters work out this way, the chances are that Johnson will use West in games in which the Nats take a lead, as there is no question of West's fielding or pegging ability.

Farmed and Recalled By Giants.

Webb started his professional career with the Memphis Chicks in 1921 and almost immediately was shunted to Clarksdale, of the Cotton States League, coming back to Memphis the following season. The Giants gave him the once over in 1923, but sent him to Pittsfield, of the Eastern League, where he remained through their pay roll for two seasons, going to The Mud Hens kept him until the fall of 1925, when the Giants recalled him and sent him to Louisville, where he remained the next season.

The Chicago Cubs bought Webb from the Colonels and he remained on their payroll for two seasons, going to Los Angeles last year, where he hit .357 and otherwise looked like a real ball player. The Reds then bought him, but had so much good fly chasing talent that they let him go and the Nats grabbed him at the waiver price. There is considerable wonder as to why a player of Webb's apparent ability was allowed to get out of the National League, especially as he is a clean-cut, hard-working type of player. The only reasonable answer obtained to the queries along these lines is that most of the clubs who could use Webb are rebuilding and passed him up because of his age, he being 30 years old and too old to fit in with any plans dealing with the future.

Boston Opener Is Hit by Chill.

Today's opener here was a small imitation of that staged in the Clark Griffith Stadium yesterday. Although the sun was shining brightly and trying to do its bit, it made little headway against the chilly breezes and this football weather kept the crowd down to a mere 7,500.

There was the usual running around of a flock of still and movie photographers, who snapped everything in sight, with Gov. Frank Allen, of the Bay State, and Acting Mayor Billy Lynch of Boston, sharing the first ball-tossing honors, the governor toeing the slab and flinging to the acting Hub head. Gov. Allen made several throws, in all of which he showed much better control than did President Hoover in the Washington inaugural.

Manager Johnson is making elaborate plans for giving his charges plenty of batting practice after they return to Washington for their long home stay beginning April 22. President Clark Griffith is now rounding up a number of District amateur and semipro pitchers who will be hired to throw to the Nat batters by the hour. One of those already lined up is Leon Riley, the Alexandria youngster who was given a trial two or three seasons ago.

Hadley Nominated to Pitch Today.

For the second game of the series here tomorrow, Manager Johnson plans to start Irving Hadley on the rubber, with Milton Gaston, former Nat, probably doing the Boston slab work.

Pitcher Lloyd Brown evidently did not profit from Umpire Vangrafian's lessons given during the Nats exhibition series. He was charged with a balk for failing to bring his motion to a full stop in the third after Ruffing had been penalized for the same reason in the top half of the same round.

Bill Narlesky came through with a brilliant catch in the Nats' fourth which robbed Rice of a hit and the Nats of two runs. Bluege and Ruel were on third and second, respectively, at the time and both were winging, as two were out. Narlesky went to short left to drag down a near Texas leaguer which certainly looked like it would fall safe until he grabbed the ball as it was sailing over his head.

FENWAY PARK, Boston, April 15. With "Lefty" Lloyd Brown living up to the promises made by his exhibition game work, it was a very simple matter for the Nationals to turn the tables on the Red Sox here this afternoon, thus giving Walter Johnson's team sweet revenge for its loss before a home crowd in the Capital yesterday. The scoreboard read: Washington, 6; Boston, 1, at the finish today, with the Red Sox never having had a chance to win.

Despite the cold weather which kept the crowd down to 7,500, the Nats' young southpaw showed mid-season form, mowing down the Red Sox in order in six frames and gran

CRAZY COOT AND EQUIPOISE WHITNEY WINNERS

Stable Scores Double Win At Graw

Workman Gets Crazy Coot Home in Front by 3 Lengths.

Star o' Morn, Choice, Outclasses Field in Fifth Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 15.—Harry Payne Whitney may not be starting Whichone or Boojum in the Derby, but he seems to have a very capable representative in Crazy Coot, which won the Glen Oaks here today. There are four Whitney eligibles in the Derby and until the race of Crazzy Coot no one of them had shown under silks this season. Crazzy Coot is eligible for the Preakness as well as the Derby, and he may or may not go in those big specials, but he certainly seems in good form if a 6-furlong sprint will give any line on his ability as a route horse.

The Glen Oaks was at three-quarters and eight came out for the race, the support of the public being divided between Crazy Coot and Billy Blake, the latter going to the post favorite. He came home second, three lengths back of Crazy Coot, but lucky to land second honors, for he was stopping fast and Skid was coming on so fast he was beaten only a head. Skid's price of $5.70 to be third was longer than the $4.50 which Crazy Coot paid to win, which gives some idea of how the betting was confined to the first and second horses.

Blue John, Billy Blake Set Smart Pace.

Crazy Coot did not win without a struggle even though it was a cake walk for him in the stretch. The break found Blue John and Billy Blake away first with Crazy Coot next. Crazy Coot had to move along smartly in order to head these two, but once he was in front Sonny Workman let him go along without urging. Coming into the stretch the Whitney horse was a length to the good. He increased this margin in the run to the wire even. He was going very easily. The time of 1:14 1-5, was nothing to boast of but Crazy Coot carried 120 pounds which is considerable weight for the first race of the season. He conceded seven to Billy Blake, and more to the others.

Whitney got a double on the day as a result of Crazy Coot's score as his smart 2-year-old colt, Equipoise was a winner in the second race. A. Robertson, rode this horse and Fred Hopkins trained him. It was James Rowe who saddled Crazy Coot. Equipoise now has two races and he has won both. The triumph today was just as decisive as that at Bowie and again it was a Rancocas Stable horse which was second.

Glidella ran second on the occasion of Equipoise's debut and Schooner was two lengths back of him today. That two lengths might have been twice as far if Robertson had elected to push Equipoise. But apparently Equipoise does not need pushing. He went to the front right after the break and stayed there without difficulty. Three lengths back of Schooner finished Uncle Sam, a first time starter.

Ross' Poinciana Beats Maiden Fillies.

Samuel Ross, of Washington, furnished the winner of the first race for 3-year-old maiden fillies in Poinciana in a hair-raising finish with George D. Widener's Finita. Mombassa, from the Dorwood Stable, was third, back a length and a half.

The finish between Poinciana and Finita was heads apart. The winner returned $38.80 for $2. Brown Sinner was fourth in the 5½-furlong dash, run in 1:08 flat. Eleven fillies started. Poinciana led all the way, leading by several lengths before reaching the home stretch, but at the eighth pole Finita was doing her running and almost caught the High-Time filly. Mombassa was favorite. McGinnis had the mount on the winner.

Sande Out of Money as Equipoise Wins.

Harry Payne Whitney's colt, Equipoise, favorite in the Albemarle Purse for 2-year-olds, won by two lengths, remaining unbeaten and increasing his importance as a factor in juvenile racing. The Rancocas Stable's Schooner was second, and Lee Rosenberg's Uncle Sam third. Just Believe was fourth. Sande had the mount on Farr, carrying the Rancocas colors. He rode at 115 pounds today, Farr carrying 3 pounds overweight.

Schooner jumped out in front at the start, but Robertson had Equipoise in front in a few strides and he kept up his fast pace all the way, winning the half mile in the good time of 0:54 2-5. The record is 0:53 flat. Equipoise was under restraint most of the way and increased his popularity for the rich Aberdeen Stakes to be run here. He is a chestnut colt by Pennant—Swinging.

Malolo Easy Winner In Third.

Charles Grafagnini's Malolo, last in his recent start at Bowie, showed decided improvement with Workman up today, winning by three lengths, eased up, from Folamile, which was ridden very hard to get the place from Fair Bob, third. Business was fourth. The time was 1:13 4-5. Westover's Abbey got away first and was hard pressed by Fair Bob. At the far turn, Malolo was in the van and the race was over, for the son of Dis Donc merely galloped. He paid $13.80. There was no decided favorite in the race.

Star o'Morn Never Headed in Fifth.

The Black Dot Stable's Star o' Morn led all the way to win the fifth race, styled the Edgewood Purse, by four lengths and Ormonbird was second, carrying the sliks of Miss E. F. Fullerton. R. B. Strassburger's Glossin, a 4-year-old, making his first start, was third, and his race was the feature of the running.

R. Tilden rode Star o' Morn and did a good job, but his task was easy for he had the best horse. Ormonbird should have been closer.

FINITA, away well, was allowed to drop back, came with a rush in the stretch and would have won in another stride. MOMBASSA was hard ridden all the way, but could not improve her position. The Events Leading Up to the Tragedy —By H. W. Webster

—Havre De Grace Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 15. The Harford Handicap, $10,000, the first big stake of the Maryland season, enlivens the program here tomorrow. It is the fifth race on the program and has attracted a notable field of sixteen horses, several making their first start since last year, and introducing horses that made turf history.

The Harford is at 6 furlongs. This is its eighteenth running. Famous horses have contested for the early spring prize. Billy Kelly won it three times, Exterminator once, Noah won it twice for H. P. Whitney. My Sis won the stake last year and is entered for the renewal. The Harford is the first of the four $10,000 stakes offered at this meeting. Its running always draws a large crowd.

The selection for the Harford is the Sagamore. Stable-Pierce. entry. of BALKO and THE HEATHEN. THE HEATHEN is fresh, a quick breaker, and will help in the early pace to counteract the early speed of horses like BEACON HILL and MY SIS. BALKO likes the track and will put up a sensational finish. It appears probable that the Glen Riddle Farm's BATTLESHIP GREY will be the contender. This horse is at home on the Havre de Grace track, is at the top of his form for his first start of the year, and may prove very dangerous to BALKO in the stretch run. Another dangerous contender is JOCK, from the E. B. McLean Stable, making his first start of the year. This should be a flashing race from start to finish. BEACON HILL is a possibility and MY SIS is sure to cut a figure at some stage of the running. This is one of the best fields ever to start in the Harford.

In the first race, for Maiden 2-year-old fillies, LITTLE AMERICA is the outstanding probability. She has never started but once and that was in Miami. She got off last and finished third. She never started at Bowie. Her form has been well concealed. Her workouts at Bowie indicate that she can run with the best. H. P. Whitney will send a daughter of Chicle—Maud Miller to the post in SUMMER DAY. PETABIT, handled by Max Hirsch, is highly regarded by the clockers. Admiral Grayson's richly bred Bright Comet—Overshady Lass, ALPINE GIRL, and others should give a forecast of the best juvenile fillies.

SECOND RACE—GENUINE starts again in the second race and is over due. He ran another game race on opening day. A contender all the way, but beaten by Gerard, he should win this race easily. RED BRIAR, Bedwell's Preakness candidate and the Glen Riddle Farms SHIPMASTER will furnish the contention.

THIRD RACE—MEANDER, smart Bowie winner, should repeat in the third race, at a mile and a sixteenth. VOYAGE is a probable contender on Bowie form, while PRICKLY HEAT may be more dangerous than his rating of third in this forecast.

FOURTH RACE—The good and Gay Purse for fillies, 3-year-olds, fourth on the program, has attracted a smart field. HER GRACE, after her fine race at Bowie, winning the Holy Beach Handicap, over Billy Blake, should repeat. The Jeffords' filly, GOOD AS GOLD, is reported ready and is regarded the contender in her first start of the year. ST. PRISCA, which ran well on Friday, may get third money. LOST AGNES and MURKY CLOUD each has a chance.

SIXTH RACE—ULVERSTON, after his runaway winning effort at Bowie, looks like the outstanding horse in the sixth race. He will be the favorite. EASTER may be the contender. Her winning race at Bowie was a good one. COMPANION may be the third horse. His effort was good enough to win from a fine field.

SEVENTH RACE — CUDGELLER should repeat in the seventh. His race Monday was a fine effort. The Bedwell plater is at his best on this track and meets no better company than he defeated. FIRE OPAL seems the contender again. PRAIRIE GIRL has shown improvement and has an outside chance. She should be in the money.

GRAW NOTES

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 15. Candidates for the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby are making some fast moves here of mornings. The Seagram Stable's Sun Craig, pointed for the Preakness, went a mile in 1:44 2-5 easily, the 6 furlongs in 1:17 1-5.

W. J. Salmon's Snow Flake breezed 6 furlongs in 1:19 1-5; his Swinfield, both for the Preakness, showed a sparkling move in 6 furlongs, 1:13 3-5. Dr. Freeland, also from the Salmon Stable, winner of last year's Preakness and pointing for the Dixie, showed a mile in 1:43 4-5. H. G. Bedwell's Preakness candidate, Red Briar, turned in 3 furlongs in 0:37. Ral Parr's Her Grace, only Derby candidate out yesterday, went a half mile in 0:49 3-5.

Sande Signs to Ride For Rancocas.

Earl Sande was engaged again to wear the white jacket and green sleeves of the Rancocas Stable which he made famous on the 2-year-old Farr yesterday, but the colt could not get off the eligible list. Frank Hayes, Mayor of Waterbury, Conn., has signed Jockey F. Dougherty for the remainder of the Maryland season. The lad rode 65 winners last year.

The haltermen, who claimed nineteen horses at Bowie, began with a rush at the Havre de Grace opening, taking Rockslide for $2,000, Fair Bill for $1,750 and Starboard Light for $4,500. P. E. Fitzgerald, who trained Rockslide, said he claimed the gelding for $2,000 and won fourteen races with him.

The following jockeys have begun road work to reduce weight: Henry Erickson, Willie Curran, A. Robertson, Johnny Leyland, J. E. Aby, H. Little, R. Russell, J. Shanks and G. Quackenbush.

13 TEAMS WILL SEEK CAPITAL CITY SENIOR TITLE

League Play Will Open May 18

Entry Deadline Set on May 1; Try-Me Aces in Line.

Split Season Voted; Play-Off to Decide Title.

ONE of the largest number of teams ever to compete in one section of the Capital City League will start the season Sunday, May 18, it was decided at a spirited meeting of 13 team representatives last night in the offices of the Municipal Playground Department.

The teams which announced their intentions to seek the senior title and the individual gold baseballs awarded by The Washington Post are the Lionels, Vic's Sport Shop, Majestic Radios, Neighborhood House Senators, Fairlawns, Roamers, Potomacs, Pierce A. C. of Hyattsville, Try-Me Aces, 1929 champions; Miller Furniture Co., C. A. O'Briens, Olmstead Grills and Metropolitans.

Other teams will be permitted to enter until midnight of May 1, the hour set for the posting of franchise fees and player contracts.

Schedule to Be Split Into Two Sections.

The team managers decided to play the series in two sections with the champions of each section meeting in a three-game play-off series at the end of the sectional schedule.

A majority of the teams entered were contenders for the junior championship last season. The Vic Sport Shop Nine won the junior championship after a spirited battle with the Lionels. The Majestics played as the Langleys last season. The present Metropolitans were formerly the Calhouns, and the Neighborhood House Senators played as the Ty Cobbs last season.

The Roamers, Try-Me Aces and Miller Furniture Co. teams played in the senior division last season.

Builders' Pin League Plans Handicap System

At a meeting of the Building Contractors Bowling League at the Arcadia last night, prizes were distributed and plans made for a handicap system next year. A committee composed of G. T. Short, A. G. Romero and R. A. Moyer was appointed to draft changes in the by-laws to that end. Additional teams may be admitted to the circuit next season.

St. Alban's Wins Again; Downs Woodward, 9-5

The St., Alban's baseball team captured its fourth straight victory of the season yesterday on its diamond on Wisconsin Avenue, defeating the Woodward nine, 9 to 5.

The winners got off to a 8 to 0 lead in the four innings and were threatened only once, a 5-run inning by the losers in the fifth being the only flare-up of the Woodward nine. Crouch pitched nice ball for the winners, striking out ten batters.

Spring Grid Practice At Central Concluded

Spring football training for the Central High School 1930 grid candidates was to be completed this morning, at which time the last of the early season drills was scheduled to take place. Coach Ty Rauber has been sending some half-hundred candidates for next fall's Blue and White Eleven through the paces everymorning from 7 to 8:30 o'clock for the last month.

Although he had planned to select men for the training camp at Annapolis next fall on the showing made in this practice, Rauber admitted that so many men had turned out, that it has been impossible to accurately judge them all. It may result in a larger number than ever going to the early season camp next fall at the Maryland town.

EMERSON 11-3 VICTIM OF CENTRAL

Western, Eastern Had Bowed to Emerson; Result Surprises.

CHAMPIONSHIP stock in Central High School's 1930 baseball team took a decided rise yesterday when that nine scored an overwhelming and convincing victory over Emerson Institute, 11 to 3, in the Columbia Heights stadium. Previously Emerson had whipped Western and Eastern, both by decisive scores.

Without a single holdover from last year in the line-up, Central nevertheless looked every bit the part of a strong contender for the interhigh title, as it outplayed the Prep School lads in every phase of the game. Once again Coach Ty Rauber produced several inexperienced pitchers who thoroughly puzzled opposing batters, with John Bettencourt, the starting hurler, breezing through the first four innings without granting a single hit. Wright, Embrey, Young and Alley all performed in the box looking equally effective.

Central Has Nine Miscues Afield.

Notwithstanding its nine errors, Central also showed well in the field, several members of the winning team contributing fielding bits that were outstanding. In the second inning, with an Emerson runner on third, King lined a hit over third that looked like a sure double, but Herman Harrison, the Blue and White third baseman, leaped high in the air to snag the ball with his gloved hand and come down on the bag for an unassisted double play.

Joe Kiernan, midget catcher, also put up another fine exhibition behind the bat, while Humphrey Miller's play in the shortfield was outstanding. Two double plays by the Central infield also helped the Blue and White pitchers out of troublesome holes. Altogether, Rauber used nineteen players in the rout.

Dr. Claytor Winner In Golf Tournament

One stroke difference in handicap was the narrow margin by which the annual golf tournament of the Clinico-Pathological Society was decided on the course of the Chevy Chase Club yesterday afternoon. Competition was eighteen holes, medal play, handicap allowance, and Dr. Thomas A. Claytor, with a card of 90—15—75, was the winner. Dr. J. Allan Talbott, whose gross score was also 90, had a 14 handicap, and with a net 76 lost out by 1 stroke.

An 18-hole putting contest followed the round and Dr. J. W. Burke and Dr. Lee McCarthy tied with cards of 38 each. In the play-off Dr. McCarthy won. The event was followed by a dinner in the clubhouse.

Pare Defeats Allison In Pinehurst Upset

Pinehurst, N. C., April 15 (A.P.).—Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., ranking tennis ace, and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., seventh in ranking, went down in defeat in the third round of the North and South net tournament here this afternoon, furnishing the best upset of the meet so far. Both are Davis Cup stars.

Hunter fell before J. Gilbert Hall, of East Orange, N. J., 6—3, 3—6 and 6—4, while Emmett Pare, of Philadelphia, defeated Allison two out of three sets, 4—6, 7—5 and 6—3. Both matches were hard fought, but Hall and Pare displayed a marvelous brand of tennis that carried them to victory over the two net favorites.

Another third-round upset was marked up in the defeat of Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., sixth in national ranking, by Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, 6—3 and 6—4.

Press Box Crowded With Relatives, Friends.

The press box was generously crowded with members of the clergy, the laity and their relatives and friends, and among those present one saw a gray-haired bush league manager from Newark who used to dash about the outfields of the American League with an easy, graceful lope and the range of two outfielders. This was Mr. Tris Speaker, whose business season has not yet started, enjoying a sort of hack driver's holiday watching a game of ball.

Another witness, who watched with a special eye the work of the Marshall boy at second base, was Andy Cohen, who came up to the Giants from the minor leagues soliciting the favor of the customers on a similar day two years ago. For reasons which remain one of the many house mysteries of the Giant firm, Rogers Hornsby had been sent away to play in Boston that spring and, in the opening game of the year on these grounds, Hornsby met the young man, shook his hand and wished him well in his work. He lasted two years, in and out of the line-up, but on that opening day he made some hits and fielded his job with such dexterity that within a week three separate versions of his autobiography were running in the local press.

It wasn't that Mr. McGraw didn't wish him well. Mr. McGraw's public includes a million or more who keep Kosher with more or less fidelity, and he was showman enough to appreciate the box office value of a hero by the name of Cohen. But in time Andy vanished from the Giants, and today he looked on as another candidate for the departed Hornsby's job closed his first day at work in a cloud of glorious dust at the plate.

That winning run of Marshall's should be good for at least two autobiographies and a series of essays on clean living and regular habits.

PENN IS HOST TO G. U. NINE TODAY

Hoyas on Two-Game Trip; G. W. Tennis Team Away.

LOCAL college teams have nothing to offer the fans here today, the only two contests scheduled being held on foreign fields. Georgetown's Baseball Team, seeking to run its winning string to eleven games, meets Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, while the George Washington Tennis Team, undefeated in two matches to date, engages the Johns Hopkins netmen at Baltimore.

Tomorrow Catholic University's nine will return to action at Brookland Stadium, meeting the tossers of Bucknell, who lost yesterday to Georgetown. Lou Hurley, leading pitcher of C. U., probably will be called on by Coach Chick Gagnon.

Bill Lomax, sophomore star of Georgetown's mound staff, will face the Quakers today at Philadelphia. He has won three games thus far and saved another which was credited to a teammate.

Georgetown will remain in Philadelphia to oppose Drexel tomorrow. Earlier in the season the Hoyas easily defeated this club, 10 to 3.

May, Luney, D. C. Boys, Seek M. U. "Stick" Jobs

University of Maryland's squad is growing, not diminishing, as the season progresses.

Charlie May, football half back who, decided he wasn't hitting enough to stay with the varsity ball team, and Bill Luney, who tried baseball and basket ball in his freshman year, are both showing skill with the lacrosse stick and doubtless will be valuable men before the season is over. They are playing attack.

Both are former Washington High School b oys, May from Business and Luney from Western.

While Coach Jack Faber of the Old Liners will be prepared for the game with Georgia, Saturday at College Park, he is working on the general development of his team and looking ahead to the invasion of the Army twelve on April 26.

While all of the other students are enjoying a week's vacation starting today, the Old Line baseball, track and lacrosse squads will continue to toil at College Park. The nine meets Virginia Poly Friday and the track team takes on V. M. I. Saturday prior to the lacrosse engagement.

VA. POLY SET TO BATTLE TARHEELS

Game With Champs Precedes Journey; Play Md. Friday.

BLACKSBURG, Va., April 15.—The North Carolina Tarheels, whose war clubs banged out a Tri-State League baseball title a year ago, will oppose V. P. I.'s nine in the 1930 league inaugural in Miles stadium Wednesday afternoon.

The Tarheels arrived this afternoon with a veteran array but without several of the slugging outfielders on the roster last spring. Despite a disastrous game with University of Maryland, preceding games have shown that Coach Jim Ashmore has another club to be reckoned with in the title chase.

George Kircher, pilot of the V. P. I. nine, will probably name Lloyd Murden for mound duty. This lad ran up a great record as a sophomore last year and allowed but three bingles in seven innings, his only time on the mound this spring.

Maryland, Virginia To Be Played.

After the opening Tri-State encounter with the Carolinians, the Gobblers will take to the road for the first jaunt of the season. The squad is to leave here Thursday morning for College Park to meet one of the heaviest hitting University of Maryland nines in Old Line history, Friday afternoon. The team will return by way of Charlottesville to play Virginia on Lambeth Field the following day.

The Gobblers fulfilled heavy-hitting predictions of preseason training in the two games with Emory and Henry last week. If Capt. Muddy Rule, Sam Rice, Bird Hooper and the other Tech sluggers can keep their eye on the ball for another week they should make a successful start in the pennant scramble. Five home runs and a mild flurry of other extra base wallops rang from Gobbler bats in the trio of opening battles prior to the regular league season. The team lost the services of Captain-elect Jim Coffey, its slugging first baseman, but Bird Hooper, V. P. I.'s captain-elect for football, not only is coming through in the field but also is showing Coffey's talent for long hits. Game time is 4 o'clock.

William-Mary Nine Out To Win Sixth Today

Williamsburg, Va., April 15.—With five straight wins tucked away, William and Mary's ball tossers meet Bridgewater College and Princeton in the sixth and seventh games of their schedule this week. The Indians, by defeating Hampden-Sidney, 3-0, last Saturday, won their third shutout game of the week and their fourth of the season.

Bridgewater's Eagles come to Cary Field Wednesday for a Virginia conference game, while the Princeton Tigers cross bats with the Indians Saturday and then wait over for a second game on Monday. William and Mary defeated both teams last year, easing through with a win over Princeton in a 13-inning thriller.

BROWN AND CRONIN STARS AS NATS WIN

West fouled to Berry and Narlesky made a nice catch to turn Rice's near hit into the third out.

After this frame, Ruffing settled down and retired the Nats in order until the eighth when Myer's opening triple was turned into a run by Cronin's long sacrifice fly almost to the fence in left center. Ruffing gave way to Mulrooney starting the ninth and this rookie set the Nats down in rapid order.

Following the Red Sox's small splurge in the sixth, Brown, too, pitched "three-up and three-down" ball against the Sox, finishing the game looking just as strong as when he started.

33,000 SEE MACKS TURN BACK YANKS

It was headed out of the park, sailing a good 6 feet over the wall, when the ball suddenly bounced off one of the speaking cones and back into the field. Ruth was held to a double and Koenig at third base. The amplifying device was silent at the time but Ruth had plenty to say when he found his prospective round trip of the bases cut in half. Gehrig then rolled one down the first base line to Foxx, whose throw to the plate was poor and then fumbled by Grove, allowing both Koenig and Ruth to score.

These two runs tied the score, offsetting Simmons' homer over the right-field wall in the first with Haas on base, but the Athletics clinched the game in their half of the third, aided by a "double-bone" play by Lazzeri and Koenig that probably has had no parallel.

Koenig-Lazzeri Comedy Is Tragic.

After Max Bishop scored what proved to be the winning run on his single, a passed ball and Haas' drive to center, Cochrane flied out and Simmons hit to shortstop for what looked like a certain double play. Koenig's throw to Lazzeri forced Haas, but the Yankee second sacker assumed this to be the third out, made no attempt to thorw to first and tossed his glove to the ground.

In the confusion Koenig retrieved the ball and started galloping after Haas in the direction of third base, although the latter had already been put out, during this weird performance—reminiscent of Heinie Zimmerman's famous chase of Eddie Collins across the plate in an old world series game—Simmons dashed to second base. He scored on Foxx's single to center.

The Athletics scored another in the fifth on Bishop's walk, Haas' sacrifice and Cochrane's single. They tallied their last run off Henry Johnson in the seventh, Bishop crossing the plate for the third time on another pass, a single by Haas and a wild pitch by Johnson. The Yankees meanwhile were swinging earnestly but with great futility at the offerings of Robert Moses.

V. M. I. TAKES 7TH IN ROW BY 9-3

Noble's Relief Hurling Stops North Carolina After 4th.

LEXINGTON Va., April 15.—Virginia Military Institute won its seventh consecutive game and its second Tri-State League game here this afternoon by slugging out a 9-to-3 victory at the expense of North Carolina University.

The Cadets chased Shields from the mound in the first inning, getting to him for three doubles in succession and two singles to score five runs. Capt. Biggs slammed one against the bank for two bases and Grow duplicated the feat behind him.

Carolina retaliated in the third inning, getting to Lefty Williams for two doubles in succession, a single and a base on balls to tally twice. Williams retired in the fourth, after he had walked the first man up, in favor of Noble, who held the visitors to one hit for the remainder of the game.

John Bigga and Hull were the leading clouters for the Keydets, Biggs getting a homer, double and single out of five attempts and Hull getting a triple, single and a base on balls for three attempts.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 15.—The remainder of the week brings plenty of action for Episcopal High School in track, tennis and baseball. Tomorrpw afternoon the tennis team will meet Friends School in the second match of the season. Captain Morgan led the team to victory in the first match and hopes to repeat tomorrow.

An Thursday afternoon Episcopal's netmen will meet Tech High School in another match at the Episcopal courts. Tech's baseball team will visit Alexandria tomorrow afternoon to play Episcopal on Hoxton Field, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. Coach Callaway's boys are fast rounding into shape[and on Saturday when they play Virginia Episcopal School, from Lynchburg, in a State game, they should be in first class condition.

The game on Saturday will mark their first bid for the State championship in the prep schools. Barnes will more than likely face Teck, with Tilton taking the mound against the Virginia Epuscopal boys.

Coach Tompkins' tracksters will face a much harder test on Thursday afternoon when they meet Eastern High School. The meet will start promptly at 3:30 o'clock on Hoxton field. Episcopal, a little weak in the running events, is exceptionally strong in the field events. Last week Tech outscored Episcopal, 31 to 17, in the running events, but the locals came back strongly to nearly make a clean sweep in the field events. Led by Capt. Coles in the shot put, discus and javelin, the local school should have one of the best teams that has ever represented the Episcopalians since Harry Flippen starred there in 1926.

'Athletics at Alexandria High School will thrive for the balance of the week when both the baseball and track teams swing into action. Tomorrow afternoon the baseball team will play Western High School on Hayden Field, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. Coach Reynolds is pleased with the showing of his team during the past two weeks, and on Friday afternoon they will open their fight for the Third district championship title. They will meet Washington-Lee High School at Ballston in first game of the Third district.

Coach Diffey, of the Arlington County school, will send his strongest team on the field against Alexandria. It is reported that he has one of the best teams that has represented the Washington-Lee in a number of years. A large number of Alexandrians are expected to accompany the team to witness their first game.

On Thursday afternoon the local high school will hold the first interclass track meet that has been held at the school since 1922. A great deal of interest is being shown among the students and the meet is expected to be a big success. The class winning the meet will receive a trophy donated by the merchants of this city.

HOW DO I KNOW THIS IS GOING TO WORK?
YOU'LL KNOW, IF IT DOES.
INTO THE TUBES WITH YOU. IT MAY BE THOUSANDS OF YEARS BEFORE WE ARE RESCUED!
THEN I LOWERED MYSELF INTO ONE OF THE TUBES AND SCREWED THE LID ON. WHAT HAPPENED AFTER THAT? I DON'T KNOW. YOU RESCUED ME. THE OTHERS ARE GONE.
AMAZING! WHAT COULD HAVE HAPPENED TO THEM?
WE'RE ALMOST TO MARS NOW.

COPPER PRICE CUTS SEND STOCKS DOWN

Rally in Last Hour, However, More Than Cancels Early Losses.

ANACONDA CLOSES FIRM

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—An ax that had been hanging over stocks for some time finally dropped today, but found the market well armored. The long expected reduction in copper prices appeared, and the market sold off substantially for a time, only to accomplish brisk recovery in the last hour, which more than canceled the day's losses.

The cut from 18 to 14 cents a pound in copper, while reducing the red metal to the lowest level in more than a year, is expected to end the consumers buying strike and help to reduce the heavy stocks of the metal that have been piling up during recent months. Wall street has been growing increasingly certain that the 18-cent level could not be maintained.

Other unsettling factors were the break in the London Stock Market in response to the increased income taxes, and the passing of the Willys Overland dividend. It is felt in some quarters that the unsettlement in London will only result in increased participation of foreign funds in this market. Also, Wall street has become reconciled to the prospect of reductions in dividend rates by certain automobile manufacturers.

Moderate Volume of Sales.

The selling was orderly and for the most part well absorbed. Trading continued in moderate volume, sales aggregating 4,218,550 shares. The price index of 90 leading stocks gained 1-10 of 1 point for the day. General Electric reported 50 cents earned per common share during the first quarter, compared to 48 cents on the same share basis in the like period of last year.

Walter P. Chrysler, head of the Chrysler Corporation, told stockholders that underlying factors in the business situation were reassuring. William H. Woodin, chairman of American Locomotive, said there was no prospect of an early reduction in the company's dividend. Directors of Jewel Tea declared an extra dividend of $1.

The copper shares generally sold off 1 to 3 points to new lows for the year, but several rallied later. Anaconda closing steady. Case Threshing jumped 10 points to a new high for the year at 309, and American Can, Best & Co., Standard Gas, Starret Corporation and Westinghouse Electric sold up 2 to 5 points to the best levels of the year, although several of these gains were whittled down before the close.

U. S. Steel Proves Active.

United States Steel, American and Foreign Power, Eastman Kodak, Electric Power & Light, Foster Wheeler, General Electric, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck were also well bought. Allied Chemical, Atchison, American Telephone, Missouri, Kansas, Texas, National Air Transport and National Biscuit lost 2 to 5 points, while Peoples Gas lost 9.

Call money held firm at 4 per cent, reflecting midmonth banking requirements, New York State income tax payments and payment by the Treasury of interest on the fourth Liberties. Foreign exchanges were irregular. Sterling cables were barely steady, cables ruling at $4.86 5-16, off 1-32. The French franc was firm, cables rising 5-16 to 3.92 cents.

Commodities were inclined to sag. Wheat futures closed 1¼ to 1⅞ cents lower, reflecting further bearish weather reports, and slack demand from flour mills. Corn closed barely steady. Cotton lost $1.15 to $1.70 a bale, in sympathy with foreign markets.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 15 (A.P.).—Fresh downpours bringing relief to drought-stricken grain fields Southwest, led to a lively setback in wheat prices here today. The extra drop in value was in the face of authoritative midmonth unofficial Nebraska-Kansas-Oklahoma-Texas crop summaries indicating 10,000,000 to 26,000,000 probable reduction of wheat yield since the Government forecast of April 1. The general run of reports from the Southwest and West implied that wheat would show improvement in the sections where rains have been received.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at virtually the day's bottom level, 1¼c to 2½c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¾c off to ½c up, oats ¼c to ⅝c down and provisions varying from 5c decline to a like advance.

Collapse of wheat prices toward the close promptly followed word of rain in Oklahoma. Buying power seemed to have exhausted itself in establishing advances earlier, and the market gave way in earnest when selling broadened out on account of news of more moisture. A further bearish influence was the fact that export demand for wheat from North America remained of disappointing volume, total purchases for overseas being figured at noe more than 500,000 bushels.

Transient strength which developed here early was associated with relative firmness of Liverpool quotations and with assertions that unless further rains were received 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 acres of wheat in Kansas would have only a short crop. Temporarily, the market was affected bullishly by reports that a steady export demand for domestic hard winter wheat was in prospect because foreigners preferred this wheat owing to its high protein content. However, the weather map showed rains had fallen nearly everywhere throughout the North American grain belt, and many holders of wheat appeared to lose backbone completely after late advices came that threatened to remove drought altogether as an immediate market influence.

Wet weather checking field work tended to strengthen the corn market. There was also buying of corn against selling of wheat to close spreads.

Oats sympathized with wheat rather than corn.

BOND PRICES SLUMP IN SAGGING SESSION

Sale of $31,550,000 Issue of New York State 4s Features Market.

FOREIGN LIST IRREGULAR

New York, April 15 (A.P.).The bond market drifted lower in a sluggish session today. Representative domestic corporation issues sold off by small fractions, while United States Governments again sagged. Foreign bonds were irregular and the convertibles generally heavy.

Sale of the $31,550,000 issue of New York State 4s was the outstanding development of the day in the market. Purchase of the entire offering by J. P. Morgan & Co. for private account on the high bid of 102.077 was somewhat above the expected price, although a substantial premium had been anticipated. Nearly a dozen syndicates or banks participated in the bidding and the successful tender, representing a premium of about $650,000 to the State, was the best price received by the State since 1924. The previous flotation, made slightly more than a year ago, brought just a shade above par.

Bankers pointed out that the success of today's sale indicated a belief that money rates would continue easy. The keen bidding also demonstrated the current popularity of State and municipal securities, demand for which continues despite the apathetic attitude toward corporation bonds.

Money remained firm throughout the session, but an easing in the demand rate would be logical now that the customary midmonth requirements have been met.

Losses of 1/4 to 3/4 of a point developed in such standard obligations as Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s, American Telephone 4s, Armour Real Estate 4 1/2s, Rock Island 4s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, International Match 5s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, Northern Pacific 6s, and West Shore 4s. Nickel Plate 4 1/2s, Morris & Essex 3 1/2s, Lehigh Valley (Pa.) general 4s, and Southern Railway 4s, Utah Light & Traction 5s and Utilities Power & Light 5 1/2s sagged a point. Exceptions to the general downward trend included St. Louis & Southerwestern first 4s, up 2 1/4 on fair trading, and Wabash second 5s, up 1;. St. Paul adjustment 5s made a new low.

American Telephone convertible 4 1/2s responded to the early pressure against the stock by dropping 6 points to 186, but picked up strength in the later dealings and closed only 1 3/4 lower. International Telephone 4 1/2s, American International 5 1/2s, Southern Pacific 4 1/2s, with warrants; Atchison 4 1/2s, and General Theaters 6s were also heavy.

Berlin City Electric 6 1/2s encountered further liquidation on the appearance of a $15,000,000 issue of 6s at 90 1/2. Brazil 8s, Chile 7s, New South Wales 5s and Oriental Development 5 1/2s were other heavy spots. European government loans held firm.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Bulova.

L. T. C.—Are there any particular developments in regard to the company of Bulova Watch, as I notice this stock has advanced quite steadily in the market?

Answer—In reliable quarters it is reported that recent buying of the stock has been based on knowledge of increased business being done so far this year. Revised estimates of 1930 earnings are between $7.50 and $8 a share. Company intends to add new lines to its attractive merchandise, which should reflect in increased earnings.

Adams Express Co.

A. P. B.—Will you please give me information regarding the financial condition of Adams Express Co., nature of its business and dividends paid on the common? Would you think it a safe investment around $35 a share?

Answer—Adams Express Co. is a joint stock association, organized in New York in 1854. It now functions only as an investment trust of the general management type. Balance sheet as of December 31, 1929, gave investments of $52,609,808, comparing with $29,810,104 at the end of 1928 and surplus of $35,490,281, comparing with $11,435,006. Total assets amounted to $73,332,376, against $34,005,595 at the close of the previous year. Earnings on common stock for 1929, $4.90.

Initial dividend on new common of 40 cents a share quarterly, after 10-for-1 split-up, was paid December 31, and balance of $4.50 was paid on old $100 par stock. In addition, a stock dividend was paid July 15 last to common stockholders in ratio of one share for each share held. Stock looks quite attractive as a speculative investment.

Continental Diamond Fiber.

Miss H. O'D.—Kindly give me information as to Continental Diamond Fiber Co. What sort of a company is it?

Answer—Company, engaged in manufacture of vulcanized fiber and bakelite products used in electrical insulation, reported for year ended December 31, 1929, net income of $1,880,682, equivalent to $4.18 a capital share, an increase of almost 30 per cent over net of $1,332,048, or $2.96 a share in 1928. Inclusion of earnings of European subsidiaries will increase results to approximately $4.30 a share. Dividend lately increased from $2 to $3 per annum.

Consolidated Textile Corporation.

C. A. T.—I am a daily reader of your column and will appreciate it very much if you will give a statement of earnings of the Consolidated Textile Corporation for years 1928 and 1929 and also prospects for 1930. Likewise, advise if you would recommend this stock for the long pull.

Answer—For year ended December 31, 1929, company reported a net loss of $928,627, compared with a net loss of $475,632 in preceding year. Reflecting depressed conditions in textile industry, earnings have been unsatisfactory in recent years, with 1927 only profitable period since 1920. Current liabilities, December 31, 1929, amounted to $2,366,379, leaving net working capital of $5,814,881, approximately $1,000,000 under that of 1928. Even though stock is selling at about lowest price in its history, it does not look at all attractive, either for long or short term.

Pilot Radio & Tube.

L. O.—I am a daily reader of your column and would like to have any available facts on Pilot Radio & Tube and Congoleum-Nairn.

Answer—Profits reported by the Pilot Radio & Tube Co. for 1929 were equal to $2 a share on the class A stock, which carries a dividend of $1.20 per annum. Pilot is planning to manufacture television sets this year, and is making some changes for production on a large scale, this new field being regarded by the management as a profitable one. The stock may be regarded as a speculative investment, with attractiveness for long-term holding. Earnings of Congoleum-Nairn have not been satisfactory, and as the stock pays no dividends, it must be regarded as speculative.

Mavis Bottling Co.

S. R. B.—I am contemplating the purchase of some stock in the Mavis Bottling Co., listed on the New York Curb Exchange. Any information and advice that you will furnish me with in this connection will, I assure you, be greatly appreciated.

Answer—The stock, on which no dividend is paid, is considered highly speculative and not suitable for investment. Latest information is that, on March 17, 1930, stockholders of the Mavis Bottling Co. of America approved an agreement with the Nu-Grape Co. of America whereby the latter company would acquire control of the Mavis Co. physical properties in exchange for 80,000 shares of Nu-Grape stock.

Servel, Inc.

R. S.—I would be pleased to have you inform me as to the earnings, financial condition and prospects of Servel, Inc.

Answer—Company reported for year ended December 31, 1929, net loss of $599,886, which, after allowing for prefered dividend requirements, resulted in a loss of 38 cents a common share. Report showed inventory adjustment of $1,391,118. Sales of $13,080,391 were 35 per cent above those of 1928. No dividends have been paid on either class of stock to date. On December 31, 1929, current assets were $5,805,857 and current liabilities $745,909. Sales outlets for distribution of Electrolux refrigerators as of December 31, 1929, totaled 1,100, against 535 as of January 1, 1929. On March 19, 1930, H. W. Foulds, vice president, said customers' orders for company's Electrolux gas refrigerators on books of representative dealers in January and February, 1930, showed increase of more than 100 per cent over corresponding period of 1929. Present outlook for company appears considerably more promising. However, stock is highly speculative.

Best & Co.

H. A. F.—I am a stockholder in Best & Co. and I would like to have some information about the company and your opinion of the stock.

Answer—The investment buying which has been going on in the stock has resulted in a new high price for the year. The company has a big plan of expansion under way which should result in larger earnings in the future. In addition to operating a large retail specialty store on Fifth avenue, New York, it also has branches at Palm Beach, Fla.; Garden City and Southampton, L. I., and recently opened a store in Mamaroneck, N. Y. It also has purchasing offices in Paris and London.

Earnings last year were equal to $4.21 a share on the common stock. Dividends on the common stock are at the rate of $2 annually. This is equal to $4 a share on the stock, which was split two-for-one last September, as compared with $3 a share on the old stock before the split-up. Sales so far this year are exceeding those for the same time last year. Earnings for the current twelve months are expected to approximate $6 a share on the common. The stock may be regarded as a speculative investment suitable for long-term holding.

Highlights of the World War

As Related by Veterans Themselves

Doughboys' Friends

When the storm troops wait at the river banks,
And each stone bridge is blown,
And the stream's too deep for the fat old tanks,
And pontoons must be thrown,
Where the water boils with the shell and shot,
It's "Engineers 'toot sweet,'"
They will lose one-half the men they've got,
But build that bridge, complete.

The above is a verse from a poem by Berton Braley, dedicated to a branch of the service about which little is known by the average civilian, but which is greatly respected and admired by the fighting men. When the account of a battle is flashed to the world one only hears of the deeds of the Infantry, the Artillery and maybe the machine gunners, but never does he learn of the part played behind the scenes by the "pick and shovel" crew. As our old major used to say, "the damned job's a big one, but the reward is small." I will herewith try to tell you of the "small" part played in the first eleven days of the Argonne offensive by the 112th Engineers, part of the Thirty-seventh division.

When the first wave of Infantry went over the top at 5:30 a. m. on the morning of September 26 after one of the greatest bombardments in the world's history, they were preceded by a detachment of Engineers, whose job it was to bridge the enemy's front line trenches so that the Infantry would not be delayed. Another detachment of Engineers at the same moment was at work in the shell-torn streets of Avacourt, tearing down barbed wire entanglements and filling holes and trenches in order to allow the Artillery and tanks to advance behind the Infantry. This detail was protected by a dense smoke screen projected by the Corps Engineers. The main axial roads of the Thirty-seventh, Ninety-first and Seventy-ninth Divisions all centered in Avacourt and the Engineers rendered valuable services in aiding troops of all three divisions to reorient themselves in the smoke screen and go out on their own roads. Of the road across No-Man's-Land which was to be the main axis of the Thirty-seventh, no trace remained. Where it was not overgrown with grass and cut up by trenches it had been blown to atoms. The new road was cut through nearly on the site of the old one by the vigorous work of the Engineers.

For over 3 kilometers the new road was built until it joined the old road in the valley called the Ravine de la Fuon, 4 kilometers south of Montfaucon. This road was in fairly good shape after cleaning off the mud and filling a few craters. Another road running to the southeast from the Ravine de la Fuon was used for traffic to the rear after repairing its corduroy surface and building a road around an immense crater near its junction with the Avacourt-Malancourt road. By 3 p. m. machine guns and light horse-drawn vehicles were passing freely, but it took constant work by the Engineers to keep this traffic moving. Later in the evening Corps Engineers appeared and took over maintenance of these roads and the 112th Regiment moved up farther toward the front, still working on roads. When darkness came the 112th was working close up behind the attacking Infantry and it was ordered to fall back and bivouac for the night. On the 27th road work was continued. About noon A, E and F Companies were ordered up in reserve to the Infantry in expectation of a heavy counter attack, armed with rifles instead of picks. These three companies were relieved from this duty on the morning of the 28th, when the attack failed to materialize. The 112th Engineers were among the first troops to enter Montfaucon after that stronghold was wrested from the Boche, and there they did herculean work, tearing down the reinforced concrete posts set as obstructions in all the roads and clearing the street for passage of both the Thirty-seventh and Seventy-ninth Division trains. They cleared the roads almost up to Clerges and then were again placed in reserve for the Infantry for 24 hours. Two platoons of C Company were on duty with the 25 whippet tanks and cleared a path and made road for them when needed. They advanced in the Seventy-ninth Division sector, reaching the base of Montfaucon Hill at 6 p. m. on the 26th. Clearing out many machine gun nests on the way, they advanced up the slope, destroying many nests, but were driven back by the Artillery. After the capture of the town next day the tanks were sent to the left front, going up through Ivoiry and then against Clerges on the 30th, where they again did very effective work. All night of the 29th the Engineers carried up gasoline for the tanks, in preparation for the second attack, at the conclusion of which they rejoined the regiment on road work. On October 2 the Thirty-seventh division was relieved, but the 112th Engineers were attached to the corps and worked behind the Thirty-second Division until the 7th. The last three days were spent improving the roads running east from Cheppy.

When it is considered that most of those eleven days were spent in a cold, driving rain and with hardly anything but iron rations for subsistence, it can readily be seen that the Engineers lived up to all the traditions of the American Army and played the game without a murmur. More power to the U. S. Engineer Corps.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PERIL OF CHROMIUM POISON.

THE hazard of chromium poisoning has increased greatly since the World War. This is the opinion of Dr. C. T. Graham-Rogers. This is due to the far wider use of chromium plating. Processes that were locked up in Government files or were known to but a few manufacturers have been made matters of common information and have come into much more general use.

In many chrome plating establishments no proper means for protecting employes are in operation; and in others workmen are either ignorant of the danger or willing to take chances. The most frequent ill effect is a chronic skin eruption commonly called eczema. A more serious disorder is ulcer of the nose, producing a hole in the septum or causing the end of the nose to cave in.

This nose ulcer is merely one of the ulcers of mucous membranes liable to result from chrome. In chrome plating the metal to be covered is placed in a solution of chrome acid in a vat. An electric current is sent through the liquid. This not only deposits the chrome acid on the surface to be plated but it causes gas bubbles to form in the solution. These bubbles rise to the surface and burst, carrying sprays of chrome solution into the air. This is inhaled and deposited on the membrane of the nose. It reaches mucuous membranes elsewhere. In this and various other ways the irritating acid gets on the skin.

Dr. Graham-Rogers cites one instance in which a number of women working in a room removed some distance from the chrome tanks suffered from ulcers and holes in the nose caused by breathing air moistened with chrome spray.

The outstanding method of protection is properly arranged hoods over vats. These hoods are served by strong exhaust fans. The sprays must be kept away from the general air supply. When possible the chrome tanks should be in rooms shut off from the general factory and office space. There must be ample washing and toilet facilities, and they should be kept clean and attractive. Along with soap and water the washrooms should be equipped with bottles of alkaline solutions to be used as washes to neutralize the acid on the skin. Lanoline or petroleum jelly should be applied before beginning work as a protection to the skin and lining of the nose. Workers should not put the fingers in the nose or mouth.

BOTHERED WITH NOSE BLEEDING.

J. D. J. writes: I am a young man 22 years old in very good health, but I am bothered with nose bleeding. It has given me trouble since childhood. It usually gives me more trouble in warm weather. Just before it starts, my head feels as though the blood had rushed to it, the way you feel when the head is lower than the body. After it starts, it bleeds very freely from 5 minutes to half an hour, and nothing that I do will stop it. When it gets ready it will stop all of a sudden. It does not seem to make me weak, but it does leave me a little nervous.

REPLY.

Why do anything? If you want action have a nose specialist find the point of bleeding and treat it.

Wives of Tomorrow

DEAR Miss McDonald: I, too, have been asking myself that very question, "Is love really worth the heartache it alway seems to bring?" I am now 20, and have only memories, for once I was the child of love it seemed, oh how distant it all seems now!

First we were wonderful pals for two years. Then joy of joy, he proposed and after that night I wore his class ring and both of us were in seventh heaven! I was going visiting for three weeks. Oh, dear, it was terrible to leave him but I finally succeeded. I never received less than three letters a day for two weeks and the last week I was taken ill, the letters increased to four and five a day and a special every other day. I was brought home, had a serious operation and pulled through marvelously well. Why, because I had my life with him to live and it was very sweet to be alive. All this time we kept our secret because he was just starting college and we would have to wait four years. But what was four years at the end of that time the man I loved would be waiting for me with outstretched arms and a home of our own?

Anyway the last year came along, and I was taken ill again and had to have another operation. My dear, if you could have seen and heard him to think that I, the woman he loved should go through so much pain and suffering. All this he said to me the very day I was to leave for the hospital with the assurance that he would be there every day.

He was to take me there and at 8 o'clock I hadn't heard a word from him, so mother and I left in a taxi. All the week I was there I didn't hear a word from him, nor did he come to see me. I wanted to die! But it seems as though I had to endure mental and physical pain, too. Anyway the day I came home he called and was all apologies but as sweet as ever. He had been working so hard at school so as to make good for me. And I like a goose swallowed it all. My birthday arrived. He always sent me a special on that day of days. But not one word! The next day I swallowed my pride and asked him to dinner! He accepted! He looked a little sheepish. That was our last date!

I've always wondered just what made him change. This is what I think most of all, that he being 21 and still in college wanted to have his fling and that he will come creeping back. But won't he be surprised when he finds that I wouldn't have him on a silver platter. I still think of him, though I don't know why, but I do.

Oh, well, I'm off all men entirely. I won't believe a word they say and I intend to hurt them as this man hurt me, that's my only satisfaction now.

I'm working hard at school to make excellent grades and to keep my mind occupied. But at the most inopportune time he comes back to my mind and my day ruined, because I only think of him and the memories. It was wonderful while it lasted those three and a half years, but the pain they caused, is it worth it?

TWENTY.

Of course, you still think of him. At 20 one has not so many memories that one can easily wipe out one's first love! But truly, dear, does not mean a thing! You remember the hospital, too, and the operations, especially when you smell ether! Well, that's just the way we remember some perfectly done-with lover when we see the particular yellow rose he used to send, or hear suddenly at a dance his favorite waltz. Why not? That's what memories are for!

But when we become morbid, that is youth! Youth is ever in earnest. Only the years teach us to speculate, to wonder, and to wait. When I recall the fervor with which I hemmed guest towels, each time I became engaged, I can understand the teasing of the on-lookers. It is healthy for youth to be earnest, and wholesome for youth to plan and to love. But youth should know that life is a series of progressions, and that the love of a boy of 21 is just like the summer breeze, a thing to make one gladsome for the moment, a thing to enrich the soul, a thing to remember, but not a thing on which to stake one's faith.

And in your case, the boy was the type that could write a woman five letters in one day. And if for no other reason just for that should be glad that some kind fate saved you. That type makes a poor sort of husband. There is something just a bit unstable there, and it is really a lot worse to be a wife waiting for a check to pay the next meat bill than to be a sweetheart waiting for a special delivery letter on your birthday.

Honestly I believe it is all very much worth while, and a lot more exciting than just playing bridge or going to afternoon teas. Wait and see. You will be hemming the dish towels again, and solemn as can be!

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Fresh ideas will be born and acted upon on this date, which will somewhat alter your course of life. Treachery behind your back, caused by jealousy, in your business affairs, but you will come out on top.

The child born on this April 16 will be a great romancer and will live in a world of its own fancies a great deal of its time. It will loathe taking up serious responsibilities, although it will develop into a person of strength and character.

Astrologically, you are not pictured as having many super powers, but there are few people who are as genuinely kind and good. You are happy because you are always thinking of others and what you can do for them. You are in the front ranks when there are cries of distress. You are one of God's simple folk, trusted and loved by both man and beast. Your life is incomplete without many pets about you. They are your truest and happiest companions.

Your quiet sense of humor is guaranteed to destroy all germs of irritation, disappointment and spleen which may come your way daily. It helps to keep your disposition sweet, and your thoughts harmonious.

You are never out of tone with honest work—you believe in work, not in "luck." You want to be what you are, and have what you have, through your own honest efforts and simple abilities, and not through "influence." You wish to be a helper and not a parasite of your country. You wish to get more out of life than mere wealth, and so you will.

You are admirably fitted for parenthood, for you would never shirk your duties to your children, and you would strive to make them good future citizens of your country. You would be strict, but fair as a disciplinarian.

Successful people born April 16:
Caleb B. Smith, Secretary of the Interior under Lincoln.
Thomas R. Slicer, Unitarian clergyman of New, York.
Herbert B. Adams, professor of history at Johns Hopkins University.
Sir John Franklin, explorer.
Charlie Chaplin, comedian.

PIGSTY REFORMS MADE IN FAIRFAX

Regulations by Board of Health to Provide for Sanitary Precautions.

BOND ISSUE IS ARGUED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245. Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 919-J-1.

A public hearing was held by the Board of Health of Fairfax County yesterday in the County Courthouse on a tentative regulation governing the raising and feeding of hogs, written by Roy K. Flannagan, assistant director of the State Health Department. The measure was adopted by the board April 2. Attorneys F. Shield McCandlish and Walter Tansil Oliver appeared for the hog raisers and Attorney John W. Rust acted as spokesman for persons objecting to the manner in which hog farms are conducted.

It appeared that the hog raisers were willing to abide by any reasonable regulations promulgated by the board, but that they did object to having to build large septic tanks or cesspools for use in cleaning the feeding platforms.

Following the public meeting the Health Board met in executive session and under authority granted them by the code of Virginia and the county board of supervisors a set of regulations adopted to be enforced 30 days after publication in a county newspaper.

The regulations provide that a hog farm is a place where ten or more swine over three months old are kept or raised for market purposes. The hogs fed on garbage or other manufacturers' waste products shall be on platforms that will prevent the spreading of food material over adjacent ground. The feeding must take place on the same day the food is hauled. These platforms must be constructed with a smooth concrete floor having a coping at least six inches high on all sides, draining into waste platform. Both shall be under a roof. The feeding platforms shall be scraped clean every day and the refuse removed and spread on the fields and plowed under daily. Uncovered garbage and other feeding material must not be left on the platforms or elsewhere overnight on the farms. The regulations also provide that streams shall not be polluted or buildings or farms be conducted as to constitute a nuisance and endanger health. Debdorants and insecticides to keep down offensive odors and disease breeding insects are required. The penalty for violation of these ordinances is a misdemeanor and is punishable under the section of the code of the State governing health regulations. (Sec. 1495, code of 1918.)

A large number of persons attended the meeting in the Annandale School on the bond issue for hard surfacing a road from Annandale to Pohick Church. Estimates were given by County Engineer F. N. Larkin. It was shown that a bond issue of approximately $81,500 with bonds maturing in 20 years would be necessary, the bond issue to be divided between Falls Church, Mount Vernon and Lee districts in proportion to the mileage in each district, would mean a tax of 13 censt in Falls Church District, 30 in Mount Vernon District and 10 in Lee District on the $100 valuation. To build the road it would cost Mount Vernon District $51,810, Lee District $90,000 and Falls Church District $19,800.

A letter was read from the county treasurer's office, which stated that Falls Church District has an additional bonding capacity of $90,000, Mount Vernon District, $265,821, and Lee District has no outstanding indebtedness. Mason Hirst, sponsor of the project, opened the meeting by explaining the benefits of such a road. Edmond H. Allan, president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the meeting, pointed out the saving in time and wear and tear on an automobile that would result if such a short cut from north to south across the county were made. Former Senator Joseph L. Bristow, of Kansas, a resident of Falls Church District, spoke of the importance of opening up the southern section of the county by building good roads.

His opinion is that the main highways should be built by bond issues and the county road funds be used for the construction of the smaller feeder roads, as an aid to the individual farmer.

Several persons disagreed as to the exact route of the road in Lee District. They urged that the route be altered in that district so as to include the Rolling road below Springfield to Pohick Crossing and from there to Pohick Church. The present route passes through one edge of Lee District, and in their opinion would not meet with enough approval to secure the passage of a bond issue in that district. It was decided to hold another meeting in Pohick Church Hall Monday, April 28, to discuss these proposed changes. These changes would mean an additional cost in Lee District and a lower cost in Mount Vernon District. The county engineer will prepare new figures to cover proposed changes in the route.

The Falls Church Town Council, at its meeting, voted to send a resolution to the State Highway Commission asking that the portion of the Leesburg pike which passes through the town, known as Broad street, be taken into the State highway system. This action seconds the resolution adopted by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors at its March meeting. If the State department grants the request, the street would be financed in the same way as Washington street, known also as the Lee highway, is now handled; the State allowing the town the average cost per mile of maintenance as of a 5 mile stretch on each side of the corporation.

The delinquent taxes for the years 1921-29 have been card indexed by the town clerk as follows: Personal taxes due from persons known to have left the corporation, real estate taxes due on property owned by persons who have left the corporation, and taxes on personal property and real estate owned by persons living in the town.

On report of Joseph Loveday, treasurer, and E. M. Ward, chief of the Falls Church Fire Department, that the councils last appropriation for maintenance charges had been exhausted, $150 was voted by the council to assist the department for the next three months. Permission was also granted the department to conduct a carnival in the town from July 12 to 19, and to use the council room during that time. Chief Ward suggested that the council reserve the right to lay water mains along Broad street if the State Highway Commission takes over the street. He also asked that a division line be painted on Broad street at the traffic light so fire apparatus can turn the corner without danger.

The Fairfax Volunteer Fire Department has elected James E. Nickell president to succeed W. W. Beattie, who has been president since the organization of the department two years ago. John M. Whalen was elected vice president, Lewis M. Coyner secretary and treasurer, and Allan Williams chief.

Chief Williams will appoint his aids at the next meeting of the association. George B. Robey was appointed general chairman of the department's carnival, which is to be held on the Mathey lot, on the Lee highway, near the county jail on May 22, 23 and 24. A special meeting will be called in the near future to complete arrangements.

The use of Brooks' Hall was donated free to the department by George Robey for the department's monthly meeting place.

A new policy was inaugurated whereby in the future when calls for assistance in putting out brush, field or forest fires are received the telephone operator will first notify Chief Williams. He will then investigate to see if buildings are endangered before calling out the men and apparatus.

Plans for the erection of the department's own engine house this summer were discussed. The old building committee, with A. R. Sherwood as chairman, was reappointed with instructions to investigate several available sites.

A committee consisting of George B. Robey, Thomas P. Chapman and John M. Whalen was appointed to take charge of the annual pledges of persons for the support of the department. The treasurer announced yesterday that the annual membership dues are due.

The April meeting of the Mount Vernon Circle, King's Daughters, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Smith in Washington.

J. H. Beattie, chief of the McLean Volunteer Fire Department, has called a special meeting for tonight in the engine house, to revise the constitution and by-laws of the association.

Mrs. Wilson Rowe will be hostess to the St. Paul's Guild at Bailey Cross Roads tomorrow afternoon.

There will be an Easter Sunrise Service at the Lewinsville Presbyterian Church at Lewinsville, Va., Sunday morning, April 20, at 7 o'clock.

The following pastors will take part in the services: The Rev. J. G. Sadtler, of St. John's Episcopal Church; the Rev. E. L. Snelling, pastor of the Baptist Church; the Rev. J. Harvey Dunham, of the Presbyterian Church; all of McLean. The Rev. E. L. Snelling will deliver the Easter message. Mr. O. W. Whitley will represent the Methodist Church of Langley. COUNTY HEADS URGE JAIL BOND PROJECT Motion Passed That Those Advocating Plan Request Court for Election.

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The board of supervisors at its meeting held at the courthouse yesterday adopted a motion of Supervisor B. M. Hedrick and seconded by Supervisor E. C. Turnburke, but opposed by Chairman Edward Duncan, that advocates of the plan to build a new county jail petition the circuit court for a special election to determine whether and in what amount the board should issue bonds for that purpose.

Chairman Edward Duncan made an effort to have the other members of the board agree to set aside all funds returned to county from poll taxes, dog taxes, bus taxes and refund from fees to be added to the $11,000 jail fund now existing.

It was pointed out that these funds were set aside for the county schools and could not be used for any other purpose.

Mrs. Pauline A. Smith, member of the jail committee, stressed the point that the Organized Women Voters were not opposed to the proposed school bond issue or any other needed improvements and that all they asked was the assurance that funds would be set aside for the building of a new jail.

Mrs. Crandall Mackey said, "To my way of thinking, the citizens of Arlington County should be ashamed to have such a building as is now called the county jail."

F. E. Mann said: "A great deal is said about prohibition and that after prohibition jails would not be needed. The great trouble is we have many whose heads are dry and stomachs are wet."

The board announced that it will consider the application of J. C. Boss for a permit to erect an apartment house in Lyon Park at a special meeting to be held tomorrow morning.

Chairman Duncan announced that the board will arrange to borrow funds to make necessary extensions to the water mains along Wilson boulevard in the vicinity of the Fort Myer Heights school, Livingston Heights and Mackey's Hill, providing the property owners will cooperate.

Mrs. Mae Jacobs, superintendent of public welfare in Arlington County, appeared before the board and asked that the board provide an automobile for her use.

Mrs. Jacobs showed by a report filed with the board that since taking office in March, 1925, up to an including the year 1929, she has made a total of 7,719 calls which are divided as follows: 1925, 1,183; 1926, 1,355; 1927, 1,193; 1928, 1,677, and 1929, 2,311. Donations received during the same period amounted to $5,943.37.

It is shown in the report that in the year 1928, there remained unexpended of the budget, $696.11, and in 1929, $1,483.81, or a total on hand now of $2,179.82.

In conclusion Mrs. Jacobs, in her report, asks, in view of the fact that the work of the office is increasing almost daily, that the board purchase a larger car.

The board, after considering the report, suggested that Mrs. Jacobs submit the names of persons suitable as assistants and that the board would at a later meeting consider an appointment. No assurances was given that a new car will be purchased.

The board will meet in special session tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, at which time it will inspect a number of new truck bids and consider awarding the contract for the purchase of a number for the road and scavenger departments.

County roads and their construction will be the subject of an address to be delivered from Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va., this afternoon by County Engineer C. L. Kinnier as the feature of the program being sponsored by the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

The musical program will be furnished by the Northern Virginia Quartet.

C. S. Keffer, chairman of the publicity committee, will be the announcer.

State Senator Frank L. Ball is announced as the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Arlington Rotary Club to be held tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

The Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club will hold its monthly luncheon meeting tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock in the dining rooms of the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon.

Election of officers and the reading of the annual reports from all committee chairmen will feature the meeting.

There will be a special meeting of the Order of Fraternal Americans tonight in their hall at Ballston.

Work is now progressing rapidly along the Washington-Richmond highway, according to John H. Olcott, contractor, who is now widening the highway to 30 feet from a point opposite the Southern Oxygen plant in South Washington to the county line at Four Mile Run.

Mr. Olcott states that he hopes to complete the project and have the road open to traffic by June 1.

Officers of the Arlington County Civic Federation have been invited to attend the monthly meeting of the Clarendon Citizens Association, to be held Friday night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

E. Lester Bennett, who has again been elected president after an absence from the county for a number of years, announces that he has the assurance that a large group of former members of the association will again give their support to the projects sponsored by the association.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow in the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse at 12 o'clock.

FIRES STILL IMPERIL FORESTS IN VIRGINIA

FIGHTERS CALLED AGAIN

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 15.—Two forest fires tonight were still burning in this area of the Shenandoah Valley, although rain of this morning aided in checking their spread.

All available fire fighters of the Shenandoah national forestry service here were being returned to Fridley's camp in the Massanutten Mountain, near Harrisonburg, where flames broke out anew late today after having apparently been conquered. The new outbreak was not regarded as serious. This blaze already has burned over 4,000 acres.

The Blue Ridge Mountain blaze, the largest in local history, was still burning in the woods at the base of the mountain between Island Ford and Concrete, along the Norfolk & Western Railway. It was believed this blaze will be conquered tonight, if it can be kept out of the mountainside. This fire burned over between 10,000 and 12,000 acres in Rockingham, Augusta and Albemarle Counties, but has been conquered on the Augusta and Albemarle fronts. State and county fire fighting forces have been taxed to the point of exhaustion by this blaze, many of the men being on duty 64 hours at a stretch.

Federal forestry officials late today received a call for aid in fighting the big Warm Springs mountain blaze in Bath County, which has burned over a considerable area.

Lynchburg, Va., April 15.—Thirty-five men organized hastily by Frank W. Burks, State fire warden, late Monday succeeded in controlling a fire in Bedford County which laid waste timber on 2,000 acres of mountain land. There was still danger today of the fire breaking through barriers erected by fighters against it. Mr. Burks said the fire came from Botetourt County. The fire, which swept down Goose Creek, burned dwellings belonging to Buck Wright and Curt Weeks, the latter's being unoccupied.

Reports indicate that the fire in Botetourt County and on Indian Creek, Amherst County, are well under control, having burned over 10,000 acres in the two sectors.

Several dwellings and barns were burned in the Indian Creek fire, according to reports.

NEW CHAMBER HEAD DETAILS PROPOSALS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

John Barton Phillips, newly elected president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club yesterday and outlined three of the most recent plans of the chamber under the reorganization which has just been effected.

These were, first, to sell Alexandria to the people of Alexandria; second, to develop along well-defined lines as far as the chamber of commerce can go, and, third, to advertise and sell Alexandria to outsiders.

According to President Phillips, the membership of the chamber will, in the future, meet monthly instead of annually, and the board of directors will execute the plans as proposed by the members of the organization. Two meetings of the board, he said, have been held since the reorganization, and these were largely attended.

In closing, Mr. Phillips spoke of the membership drive now under way and asked for cooperation. Plans for the employment of a business or industrial manager for the chamber were also presented.

The speaker was introduced by Fred C. Goodnow, past president of the commerce body. Dr. S. Nelson Gray, president of the Rotary Club, was chosen delegate to the Virginia District Rotary Conference, which will be held in Richmond in May, with Alfred Thomson as alternate. Several other members of the club will attend.

The Rotary received and accepted a challenge from the Kiwanis Club for a tennis match. Everett Swan, the "Bill Tilden" of Rotary, was elected captain of the team.

The singing at the meeting was led by Everett Swan, with Mrs. Anna Meeks at the piano.

A mass meeting of the commuters on the bus and electric railway lines between this city and Washington will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Elks Auditorium, called by Harry F. Kennedy, chairman of the committee appointed at the first citizens meeting held in protest of the application for a raise in rates.

The State Corporation Commission gave a hearing on Tuesday, April 8, in Richmond, on the application of the bus and railway owner for the increase in fares, and at that time the commuters were given two weeks to prepare their side of the case, as a postponement of the hearing was denied. This respite is up on Tuesday next, and the meeting tomorrow night is to decide further action in the protest.

Fire of apparent incendiary origin destroyed a houseboat belonging to Clarence Green, colored, during the night Monday, which had been pulled up on the river shore at the foot of Third street. No alarm was sounded as water was available and there was no danger to nearby property.

John William Mehrling, aged 62 years, whose home was at Montrose and Hume avenues, Potomac, died Monday night in the Alexandria Hospital, shortly after being taken to that institution for treatment. The deceased had been caretaker at the George Mason High School, and a number of years past had been engaged in the grocery business in Potomac. Besides his wife, Mrs. Louise Mehrling, he is survived by two sisters, Miss Lizzie Mehrling and Mrs. Minnie McLaine, and two brothers, Daniel and George Mehrling. The funeral will be held at 6:30 o'clock this evening from the home, conducted by the Rev. H. L. Hout, pastor of the Del Ray Methodist Episcopal Church South, and burial will be at 1 p. m. Thursday at Frederick, Md.

Mrs. Jennie Rowe, aged 55 years, died on Monday night at her home, 107 Prince street, and the funeral will be held at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Cunningham funeral home, 809 Cameron street, and burial will be in Congressional Cemetery, Washington.

Virginia Lodge of Moose, at the regular semimonthly meeting held last night, installed the recently elected officers, the installation ceremony being in charge of Past Great North Moose of Baltimore Legion, No. 19, Milton V. Hansen. An entertainment followed the business meeting.

J. J. Heinrich, 110 North Patrick street, was fined $150 and costs in police court yesterday morning, on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor and also for colliding. The car driven by Heinrich was in collision with cars driven by G. R. Rodden, of the Investment Building, Washington, and H. M. Cook, this city. He was arrested by Motorcycle Policeman Fred Kaus.

A gelatine demonstration will be given tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Lee Camp Hall, by Mrs. Myrtle S. Dodds, under the auspices of the local Daughters of the Confederacy Chapter, and for the benefit of the chapter. A silver offering will be taken.

The choir of Immanuel Episcopal Church, Braddock, will present Stainer's Sacred Cantata "The Crucifixion," tonight at 8 o'clock. It will be assisted by singers from Grace and Christ Churches with the following soloists: Jessie Veitch, tenor; Clarence Wells and Benjamin Wheatley, bassos, and will be under the direction of George Leich with Mrs. Francis Drischler at the organ.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 15.—Councilman Chris Dailey's 37-vote over Mayor George W. Appleby in the Republican municipal primary here Monday will be contested if the routine canvass by the City Council this week is not satisfactory to Mayor Appleby, spokesmen for him said today. The contest between two factions in the Republican party featured the biannual primary, Mr. Dailey wining 1,635 to 1,598.

By agreement both factions are maintaining guards over the ballots at the City Hall while a move is being made to have the canvass held immediately, the recount to follow if the canvass is not satisfactory to the Appleby faction. Mayor Appleby was seeking a third term.

On the Democratic side former Superintendent of City Schools William C. Morton defeated C. P. Howell, 1,081 to 225. The election is set for Monday, May 12.

ADDITIONAL TAXABLE WEALTH IS REPORTED

SCOUTS' FUND DRIVE ON

Only three persons appeared yesterday to protest against the assessments reported by the Montgomery County assessor on new buildings and property in the county at a hearing held by the Montgomery County commissioners. These three petitions were satisfactorily settled.

The assessor reported addition of approximately $1,000,000 to the county's taxable wealth. This will be supplemented later when the assessor completes his work.

The county commissioners decided to cooperate with Howard County officials in painting the bridge across the Patuxent River at Murphy's Ford, each county to pay half of the cost.

The State Roads Commission reported that its engineers are progressing rapidly with the survey of the road from Poolesville to Sycamore Landing. The funds for the building of the road have been secured by the sale of bonds which are assessed against the Poolesville district and work will begin on construction as soon as the roads commission completes the survey.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad agreed to begin construction of an underpass for pedestrians at Boyds in a letter from R. A. Lane, chief engineer of the railroad company, which pointed out that the railroad company would want to put in its own supports for its tracks regardless of who built the underpass.

Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners reported that he had sold the outstanding properties bought by the county at the tax sale of two years ago to J. S. Fraser, of Takoma Park, and that with the properties which had been redeemed, this completed the county's interest in the tax debts.

The Monegomery County Boy Scout officials are conducting a campaign for funds in the county at present. The campaign will last through this week and next week, according to William F. Prettyman, chairman of the general committee.

A budget of $6,000 is to be raised, part of which will be raised by Prince Georges County. The largest item is the salary of a scout executive who superintends activities of the scouts.

Thurston N. Dean, Chevy Chase, Md., was arrested early yesterday morning by District Policeman C. E. Cannell, of the Fourteenth Precinct, who pursued him over the District line into Bethesda at a speed of 55 miles an hour, he reported. Mr. Dean was charged with speeding and driving with an expired chauffeur's permit. The permit expired five years ago, police say.
